FUND TO FINISH ILLINOIS CANAL VOTED BY HOUSE

New York Project Is Debated Heatedly.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.]—Federal completion of the Illinois state waterway project today won approval of the house.

The 111 million dollar rivers and harbors bill, which includes the $7,500,000 Illinois project as one of its principal features, was passed without a record vote after six hours of acrimonious debate. It now goes to the senate, where action may be taken before the end of the present session.

Controversy centered chiefly on the provision to take over the Erie and Oswego canals in New York state, the Illinois item going through with only incidental comment. Members from the lake states who have fought Chicago and Illinois on the water diversion issue apparently were satisfied with the provisos attached to approval of the waterway.

Hoover Against an Increase.

Advocates of the St. Lawrence waterway from states in the northwest failed in an attempt to eliminate the Erie and Oswego canals authorization, which they regarded as an entering wedge for the all-American seaway route.

Word came from the White House shortly before the bill was passed that President Hoover will not sanction any increase in the $55,000,000 lump sum appropriation for rivers and harbors work for the fiscal year 1931 as contained in the annual army appropriation bill already passed by the house and pending in the senate.

This is agreeable to the sponsors of the 111 million dollar rivers and harbors bill, which is an authorization of projects for the future. It rests with the army engineers to determine how the annual lump sum appropriation shall be allotted among authorized projects. The President has given his approval to the 111 million dollar authorization measure, including the Illinois waterway project.

Deakyne Denied Higher Rank.

The sharpest clash of the house debate came over a provision to allow increased rank and pay upon retirement to Brig. Gen. Herbert Deakyne, assistant chief of engineers and head of the board of army engineers which passes on the various river and harbor projects and which recently made a favorable report on the Erie canal proposal after having been against it. This provision, which would have allowed Gen. Deakyne upon his retirement to have the rank and pay of a major general, was stricken out by a vote of 112 to 69 on the motion of Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.].

"This is the most outrageous provision that has ever been inserted in an outrageous rivers and harbors bill," said Mr. La Guardia. "It is vile. The rivers and harbors committee, with no jurisdiction over military matters, has gone over the heads of the military committee, the appropriations, and the joint committee on service pay."

Tells Dempsey It's Bribery.

Representative La Guardia, shaking his fist, advanced up the aisle toward Representative S. Wallace Dempsey [Rep., N. Y.], chairman of the rivers and harbors committee and chief sponsor of the Erie canal scheme.

"That is not legislation," shouted Mr. La Guardia. "That is bribery."

Representative Dempsey, defending the provision, read from the minutes of a night meeting of the rivers and harbors committee showing that it had been proposed by Representative H. P. Freeman [Rep., Conn.] and seconded by Representative J. J. Mansfield [Dem., Tex.]. He read a list of the members present. Representative G. M. Hudson [Rep., Mich.], whose name was in the list, interrupted to assert that he had left the meeting before the action was taken and knew nothing of it until he saw it in the printed bill.

Hull Explains Proposal.

Representative W. E. Hull [Rep., Ill.], chief sponsor of the Illinois waterway project, also defended the Deakyne provision, stating that members of the committee felt that Gen. Deakyne should have been promoted to chief of engineers, in which case he would have reached the rank of major general before his retirement, which takes place within the next two years.

In the fight over the Erie and Oswego canals provision which authorizes no expenditure, except $2,500,000 annually for maintenance, but empowers the secretary of war to accept from the state of New York these canals

Maximum Penalty Is 22 Years.

Ralph J. Capone, younger brother of ex-Convict Al, was found guilty on four counts of attempting to defraud the United States out of income taxes by a jury in Federal Judge Wilkerson's court late yesterday. He faces a possible maximum sentence of twenty-two years in Leavenworth prison and a fine of $40,000.

The jury deliberated two hours and thirty-five minutes and six ballots were taken, but the members were agreed on a guilty verdict on one count at the first ballot.

The defendant was visibly affected by the verdict finding him guilty on all counts. He regained his composure, however, and was smiling as he left the courtroom. "The verdict speaks for itself," was his only comment.

Johnson Is Pleased.

Dennis M. Kelleher, chief of defense counsel, made a motion for a new trial and Judge Wilkerson will hear arguments on May 16.

United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson expressed satisfaction over the verdict, which came two days after he received a letter from the Chicago crime commission asking the government to assist in the war on gangsters by income tax and deportation prosecutions.

Other federal indictments on income tax charges are pending against Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan, beer barons; Frank Nitti, so-called financial genius of the Capone liquor and vice syndicate; Gene G. Oliver, member of the board of assessors; George L. Chamberlain and Fred W. Rhodes of the U. S. A. company, contractors, and State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien.

Capone First on Trial.

Capone was the first of the alleged income tax dodgers to come to trial. He was convicted on one indictment of two counts charging attempts to defraud the government with false statements and concealment of assets in connection with a $1,000 offer in compromise. The maximum penalty on each of these counts, which are felonies, is ten years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The other indictment charged willful failure to pay income taxes and concealing facts in the offer in compromise, and the maximum penalty on each of these two misdemeanor counts is one year in jail and a $10,000 fine.

The first indictment was not under an income tax statute and in this respect the case is unprecedented. Never before had any one been tried under the general fraud statute for income tax delinquencies, federal officials stated.

Government testimony showed that Capone deposited $1,871,000 in seven accounts under his own name and various aliases, at the Pinkert State bank, Cicero, from 1924 to 1929, and it is estimated that he owed the government, in tax, penalties and interest, more than $330,000.

Claimed to Be Insolvent.

In his $1,000 offer in compromise, Capone represented himself as an insolvent race horse man with sole assets consisting of a half interest in two horses. The government showed he had $25,000 on deposit at the time. The defense described Capone as a gambler who sustained heavy losses in operating a race book.

Again this contention, the government put saloonkeepers on the stand who told of buying quantities of beer at $55 a barrel from a Capone collector, and clearing house sheets traced the deposits to the bank accounts. Much of the evidence gathered against the defendant, relating to profits from brothels and gambling houses, according to the prosecutors, was not introduced because of its prejudicial nature.

"Great Victory," Says Johnson.

"The verdict is a great victory for the government," said Mr. Johnson. "Commendation is due the intelligence unit of the revenue department. A. P. Madden, the agent in charge, and his assistants, Clarence L. Converse, Archie Martin, and Nels E. Tessem, amassed overwhelming evidence under difficult conditions."

Of his three assistants who prosecuted the case, Cassius Poust, Dwight H. Green, and Jacob Grossman, Mr. Johnson said, "No government officials ever rendered more faithful service."

Mr. Kelleher was formerly solicitor for the internal revenue department, and George M. Murdock, another defense attorney, was formerly an assistant United States attorney in charge of income tax matters.

Mrs. Spaulding Becomes Bride of New Yorker

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Catherine Barker Spaulding of Chicago and Michigan City, Ind., heiress to one of the world's great fortunes, this afternoon became the bride of Charles V. Hickox of New York in a brief ceremony performed by a justice of the peace at Irvington-on-Hudson. She is the only child of the late John H. Barker, Michigan City multimillionaire, and the divorced wife of Howard Henry Spaulding, Chicago lumber man.

Arrangements for the marriage were carried out with considerable secrecy, the license being obtained at Tarrytown only an hour before. The couple drove from the county seat to the home of Mason B. Starring Jr., in Irvington, where Justice of the Peace Duell and a small party of close friends awaited them. The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock.

Wedding "Simple Affair."

After the wedding the bridal couple returned at once to the Madison hotel here, where a reception was in progress this evening. It was announced by the bride and groom that they would leave at once for a honeymoon trip—probably to Europe. Further queries about the romance brought the reply that the wedding was a "simple affair," and that any further information about it would be given out by the new Mrs. Hickox's secretary at her home in Chicago. Mrs. Spaulding left Chicago for New York on Thursday, accompanied by a friend.

Mrs. Hickox is now 34 years old. At the death of her father in 1910 his huge fortune, estimated at $30,000,000, was left to her, earning her the title of "richest little girl in the world." An annuity of $60,000 was provided for her in her father's will until she came of age.

Wins Divorce in 1928.

Her marriage to Howard Spaulding of Chicago was solemnized at her summer home at Harbor Point, Mich., in 1915 with elaborate ceremony and a guest list that made it of national importance socially. Her guardian, James B. Forgan, president of the First National bank of Chicago, gave the bride away in marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Spaulding lived in Chicago, on Delaware place. In December of 1928 Mrs. Spaulding obtained a divorce, charging her husband with continual drunkenness over a period of several years.

In 1925 Mrs. Hickox was decorated with the emblem of matron of the Military Order of the Holy Sepulchre, one of the highest honors the Catholic church can bestow. The order was conferred in recognition of her services to the church.

Charles Hickox is a New York social registerite. He is in the insurance business with the firm of Johnson & Higgins and lives at 410 East 57th street. He was graduated from Yale in the class of 1911.

Met Last Spring.

Friends of the newlyweds revealed that they met in the east last spring, and that the romance developed swiftly. Mrs. Hickox spent the summer of 1929 abroad, and according to intimates had selected her trousseau before she returned to this country.

It is understood that the couple will live at Woodmere, Long Island.

Wedding guests today included Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Barnes of Chicago, Mrs. Marjory Barker, Miss Margery Barker, and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Barker of Michigan City relatives of the bride; Mrs. Joseph S. Parker of Cincinnati and Mrs. John H. Lawrence of Winnetka, Ill.

The police fired on them with buckshot and injured three persons. Later another demonstrator was found dead on the ground where the disturbance occurred.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, April 26 (Saturday)—(AP)—Dispatches from Lahore, India, to the Daily Mail this morning reported that fresh disorders had broken out at Peshawar. A mob paraded the streets shouting revolutionary cries and taunting the troops on guard. An armored car trained a machine gun on the mob and all of the Indians scattered.

LONDON, April 25.—The spread of Indian disorders is viewed with deep concern in London and Great Britain is taking extensive military measures to cope with the situation, it was learned here today.

Fifteen thousand troops have been ordered to India to reënforce the army of 75,000 now on duty there. The royal air force in India is being reenforced by 100 planes. Squadrons of bombing machines and transport planes have been rushed from points in the near east and China. Many of these planes, it was reported here will be concentrated in the Punjab, where serious outbreaks already have occurred.

The British Mediterranean fleet, which is now concentrated at Malta, is being held in readiness to proceed to Indian waters, where it may stand off at Karachi, Bombay, and other strategical points. It is reported that cruisers already have passed down the Red sea. The term of service of British ships now in Indian waters has been extended for a year.

FORECAST GANDHI ARREST

BY CHARLES DAILEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CALCUTTA, India, April 25.—The resignation of Vallabhai Patel, president of the assembly of the national legislature, is expected here to bring the political situation in India to a crisis.

Mr. Patel was the first Indian occupant of the national assembly chair. His resignation, leaders say, forecasts the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi. Mr. Patel made a strong argument for nationalism in the letter he sent to the viceroy.

"My people are engaged in a life and death struggle for freedom," he said. "The civil disobedience movement initiated by Mr. Gandhi is in full swing. At such a juncture my proper place is with my countrymen, with whom I have decided to stand shoulder to shoulder, and not in the chair of the assembly.

"Recent events have disillusioned my hope of a change of heart on the part of the British government and a change in spirit in the day to day administration of India."

Evacuate European Women.

BOMBAY, April 25.—(AP)—The atmosphere of India continued ominous today. Evacuation of all European women and children from Peshawar was one of the most serious features of the situation.

Peshawar lies far up on the northwestern frontier, commanding the entrance to the famous Khyber pass. The hills around it are the home of the most dangerous Indian tribes, chief among them being the Afridis and Mohmands, who are born fighting men. They are well armed and are a perpetual embarrassment to the British.

These tribes have no direct connection with the civil disobedience movement of Mahatma Gandhi, but they have always been ready to take advantage of any difficulties facing the British. Thus it is feared here that the whole frontier may blaze—possibly on the Afghan side as well as the

ANTHONY PROVES HIS POSITION ON DRY LAW ISSUE

Anthony Filipiak, Indiana Harbor attorney, who is a candidate for the Republican nomination for state senator in Lake county, Indiana, on a "dripping wet" platform, proved to a political audience at the Harrison club in Gary last night that he "drinks as he votes."

Assailing his opponent, Senator William F. Hodges, who is running for reelection on a modification platform, for what he termed a "wishy-washy" attitude on the prohibition question, Filipiak declared there should be no doubt about his own sentiments.

"I'm wet internally as well as externally," Filipiak said. "I'm going to show you just how wet I am internally."

He pulled a half pint bottle from his pocket and, pouring about two teaspoonsful of liquid into a saucer, he ignited it with a match. When the blue flame had burned out, he tilted the bottle to his lips and while his audience held its breath with its eyes glued upon his Adam's apple, he drained the bottle without taking it from his lips. Amid loud cheers, Filipiak then produced another bottle and challenged Hodges to duplicate his feat. Hodges not being present, Filipiak replaced the bottle in his pocket and walked out of the hall, past a police sergeant stationed at the door.

Senators Bury List of House Dry Drinkers

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—Certain congressmen facing reëlection fights breathed easier today when the dry majority of the senate lobby committee voted to suppress a list of "wet drinking, dry voting" house members found in the confidential files of Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Curran, who for eight days has been cross-examined on the minutest details of his personal correspondence, and even conversations, smiled broadly as Senator T. J. Walsh [Dem., Mont.] announced that because it contained "strictures on house members" and was "so remotely" connected with a lobby inquiry the report on the dry cheaters will not be made public.

"We have all agreed," said Walsh, speaking for his dry colleagues, Senators T. H. Caraway [Dem., Ark.] and Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.], "that while these reports would be very interesting reading, they are so remotely connected with the purpose of this committee that they should not be made public, as they would only cause embarrassment to a lot of people."

He Waxes Irascible.

"We will have to take that responsibility," retorted Walsh heatedly, when it was suggested that Senator J. J. Blaine [Rep., Wis.], the only wet on the committee, had succeeded, by forcing a vote of the committee, in making it appear that the dry majority was seeking to shield house members whose personal habits do not square with their voting records.

Walsh's announcement followed a few minutes after Caraway, over Curran's protest that it likewise had nothing to do with a lobby inquiry and to the wet leader's obvious embarrassment, read an exchange of confidential letters between James W. Wadsworth Jr., former senator from New York, and Curran, in which the latter contrasted the Union League club of New York with the National Republican club in the same city.

Contrast Two Referenda.

Both Curren and Wadsworth were active in the National Republican club referendum on repeal of the 18th amendment last month, and in one of the letters Curren described the majority for repeal as a victory of nation-

CHICAGO WILL PUSH CLOCK AHEAD 1 HOUR TOMORROW MORNING

Daylight saving time, recurring for the thirteenth consecutive year, will pull residents of metropolitan Chicago out of bed an hour earlier for Sunday religious services or recreation. Officially the clock moves ahead at 2 a. m. tomorrow.

Suburban trains of the Chicago and North Western, the Milwaukee, New York Central and other roads will operate on daylight saving time. Through trains will continue on standard time, but the New York Central has revised schedules for two of its nine 20 hour trains between Chicago and New York to provide convenient arrivals at both terminals, the daylight saving time being a New York institution also.

Practically all Chicago suburbs, including Waukegan, Zion, South Bend, Auburn, La Porte, Michigan City, Gary, Hammond, Valparaiso, and Fort Wayne, observe daylight saving time. Wisconsin cities, many of which have favored daylight saving time, are forbidden to adopt it by state law.

3 BROTHERS SHOT BY SAME MAN, 1 DEAD, 2 DYING

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—When Bart Cronin went out for a bite to eat tonight he left the Lawlor brothers, William, 33; Michael, 30, and Lawrence, 23, in charge of twenty patrons and his speakeasy. Somebody started the automatic player piano just as Dave Beagle strolled in twirling a gun on his index finger.

Lawrence Lawlor ordered Beagle to put the gun away, but Beagle insisted on twirling the weapon. A fight started and Lawrence was getting the worst of it when his brothers jumped in. Beagle, police said, backed toward the front door and fired six shots.

Two of the bullets drilled Lawrence through the head and killed him. Michael was shot twice in the head. William was drilled through the abdomen. Surgeons said they probably would not live through the night.

Beagle was arrested.

Clamps Down Strict Censorship.

The Indian government admitted today that all news going out of India would henceforth be subject to strict censorship.

Additional nationalist leaders were arrested today, among them being Sri Prakash, general secretary of the national congress, who was charged at Benares with manufacturing salt illegally.

Mahatma Gandhi is still in the Gujerat district. Addressing a group of salt volunteers today at Panar, the leader attacked the alleged treatment of the natives by the police.

"Police are not empowered to beat you, even under the salt act," he said. "They can take possession of the salt, but not by beating you. Although I am a barrister, my knowledge of law has become rusty, but still I could secure the release of every one of those arrested if I were to plead in a court of law."

Gandhi has sent five specially chosen volunteers to Karachi to replace civil disobedience leaders who have been imprisoned there.

Report New Border Raids.

PESHAWAR, India, April 25.—(AP)—New raids were reported today from Kohidaman, where Afghan government troops recently captured a number of raiders and killed them by blowing them from guns. Reinforcements have been sent to the disturbed area.

Fighting also was reported today between government troops and insurgents at Kalakan and Kasabagh. The insurgents were defeated and fled to the hills.

Casualities in the rioting here Wednesday were estimated today at more than 50. Three British soldiers are among the dead.

GANDHI TELLS AIMS

[Copyright: 1930: By the Associated Press.]

NAVSARI, India, April 25.—(AP)—India's Nationalist leader, Mohandas Karachand Gandhi, today gave from his temporary headquarters a definite statement embodying the present aims and grievances of Nationalist India. The statement follows:

"The National demand is not for the immediate establishment of independence, but is a preliminary step to a conference that must take place if independence is to be established peacefully and to remove certain prime grievances, chiefly economic and moral. These are set forth in the clearest possible terms in my letter, miscalled an ultimatum, to the viceroy.

"Those grievances include the salt tax, which falls with equal pressure upon the rich as well as the poor and is over 1,000 per cent of the cost price, having been made a monopoly. It has deprived tens of thousands of people of their supplementary occupation and the artificially heavy cost of salt has made it very difficult, if not impossible, for poor people to give enough salt to their cattle and to their land.

Charges Police Are Corrupt.

"This unnatural monopoly is sustained by laws which are only so-called, but which are a denial of law. They give arbitrary powers to police, known to be corrupt, to lay their hands without warrant on innocent people, to confiscate their property, and otherwise molest them in a hundred ways.

"Instead of arresting people, the authorities have violated the persons of people who have refused to part with salt held generally in their fists. To open their fists their knuckles have been broken, the necks have been pressed, they have been even indecently assaulted until they have been rendered senseless. Some of these assaults have taken place in the presence of hundreds and thousands of people who, although well able to protect the victims and retaliate, being under a pledge of non-violence, have not done so.

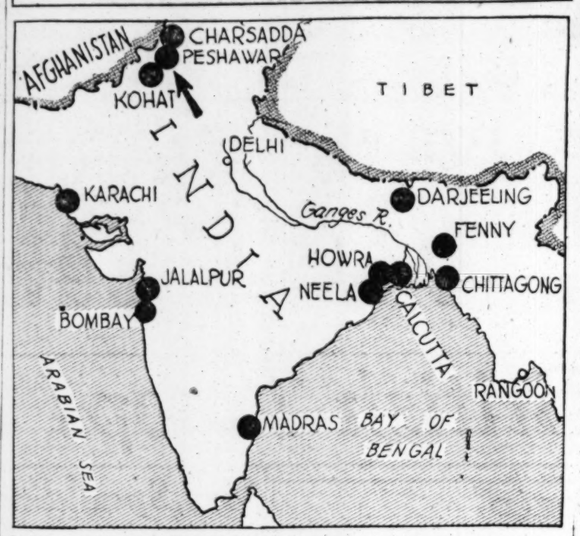
Says Troops Fired Needlessly.

"It is true that violence has broken out in Calcutta, Karachi, Chittagong, and now Peshawar.

"It should be noted that in Karachi seven wounded persons, of whom two have died of their wounds, were volunteers engaged in keeping peace and restraining mob furies. It is the opinion of eyewitnesses that the firing in Karachi was wholly unjustified and that there was no firing in the air or at legs in the first instance. In fact, the government has lost no opportunity of incensing the people. Many of the best, the purest, and the most self-sacrificing leaders have been arrested and imprisoned, in many instances with mock trials. Sentences, though for the same offense, have varied with the idiocyncrasies of the magistrate. In several instances they have been for more than twelve months with hard labor on well known citizens.

"The enthusiasm of the people has up to now increased with every conviction. In any other part of the world, with a government at all responsible to public opinion, the salt tax would have been repealed long since, but whether now or later, repealed it will be, if the present existing atmosphere of resistance abides, as it promises to do."

Where Indians Fight British Rule



Map shows cities where serious rioting has occurred since inception of Mahatma Gandhi's campaign of civil disobedience on April 6, in which many have been killed and injured.

Arrow points to Peshawar district where European women and children have been evacuated. This district is the home of wild Indian tribes, who love to fight and who have taken advantage of Gandhi's campaign to take up arms against the British. It is feared the "warfare" may engulf the entire frontier, spreading to the Afghan side as well.

The latest outbreak of rioting occurred at Neela, near Calcutta, where a mob of 2,000 stoned police, injuring 16. The police fired into the crowd with buckshot, wounding three and killing one.

61 YEAR OLD WIFE OF GANDHI LEADS CRUSADE ON RUM

Explains India Revolt as Women See It.

JALALPUR, India, April 25.—(AP)—A little 61 year old woman, whose only English words are "spin, spin, spin," and "drink milk, not liquor," sat cross legged on the floor of her humble hut today and told an interviewer about the civil disobedience campaign from the women's point of view.

She was Mrs. Kasturbai Gandhi, wife of the Nationalist leader. Her husband has put her in charge of a group of women righting drink by picketing liquor shops as one method of contributing to the success of Gandhi's nonviolent campaign for Indian independence.

Dressed in a spotless white hand spun and hand woven saree, Mrs. Gandhi worked industriously at a "talki"—a small spinning wheel—and explained the women's methods.

Sing Songs to Drinkers.

"Every day a procession of women goes through villages selected for picketing," she said. "They are frequently joined by many local women and, as they march, sing songs to the drinkers, painting vividly the evils of liquor and appealing to the drinkers to give it up. The volunteers also enter liquor shops and make personal appeals, urging the patrons to go home and drink milk instead of spirits."

The Mahatma left liquor picketing entirely in the hands of women all over the country, and the campaign is well under way. He also called upon them to picket foreign cloth shops, but that has not yet begun in earnest. So far it has been confined to hand spinning with a view to insuring a supply of homespun cloth to take the place of foreign goods when the real campaign begins.

Wed Gandhi at 13.

"Many women volunteers who are expert spinners have come from Sabarmati and Ashram to spread hand spinning propaganda in the Surat district, while I remain in Jalalpur to carry on the work here," Mrs. Gandhi continued. "I tell them all to spin, spin, spin."

She explained that the women from Sabarmati and Ashram were determined not to quit work until complete swaraj—independence—is attained.

Mrs. Gandhi, who is shorter in stature than her husband, is exactly the same age and was married when she was thirteen. She never attended school, but learned the fundamentals of the three R's after marriage under her husband's tutelage at home. She has merged her personality with that of her husband and prefers to remain in the background silently while he takes the leadership.

Mrs. Gandhi was by her husband's side during a campaign in South Africa for better treatment of Indians, and was placed in jail during the last stages there.

"I observe fully the disciplinary régime of diet, dress and simple life which my husband imposes on all volunteers," she concluded. "This is nothing particularly new, for I usually live most simply."

RULE EMPOWERS WOLFE TO START NEW RIVER TASK

Need Not Await Council's O. K., Ettelson Says.

Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe was notified by Corporation Counsel Ettelson yesterday that he may order the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company to proceed with certain "additional work" on the river straightening project without first obtaining the approval of the city council. The extra work under consideration, according to City Engineer Gayton, would cost approximately $200,000.

The opinion was given in answer to an inquiry from Wolfe concerning his authority to order the installation of secondary anchorage for the dock walls constructed along the banks of the new river channel between Polk and 18th streets. The secondary anchorage, Wolfe said, has been found to be necessary on account of the softness of the clay strata on which the dock walls rest.

Opinion on River Work.

"This question," read the opinion, "is quite a different proposition from that which was raised a short time ago by the contractor on a claim for extra pay [$150,000] for the construction of cofferdams and flumes to facilitate the construction of the work.

"In that case the claim related to extra compensation for doing more work than had been contemplated, not in the prosecution of the river straightening itself, but in the preliminaries thereto, while the present question relates to extra labor and material in building the docks which are an integral part of the permanent work of the river straightening."

Provisions of the contract were interpreted by the corporation counsel to mean that the commissioner of public works can order the contractor to furnish additional labor and materials when no actual alteration of the "essential plans of the work" is involved, but that if an alteration of the plans is involved the approval of the city council must be obtained.

$150,000 Claim Pending.

The claim of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company for the "extra" of $150,000 for the construction of cofferdams is pending before the council finance committee. In an opinion, written several months ago, the corporation counsel held that the city is not legally obligated to pay the claim. The cofferdams were constructed to offset the high water level in the river early last summer.

Wife Pleads Self-Defense in Killing of Mate; Freed

A coroner's jury yesterday exonerated Mrs. Cecilia Andreotti, 42 years old and the mother of six children, who shot and killed her husband, Enrico, on Thursday night in their home at 3642 Wentworth avenue. She pleaded self-defense, saying Andreotti was advancing with clenched fists when she fired. He had rebuked her for extravagance in inviting two neighbors to lunch, she said.

GAIN OF 1,296 SHOWN BY LA GRANGE PARK IN CENSUS REPORT

Figures on the population of La Grange Park, showing an increase from 1,684 in 1920 to 2,980 in 1930, were released last evening by Joseph E. Vesely, chairman of the census advisory committee. This was the first village recorded in the metropolitan area of Chicago, and no city ward has been completely enumerated.

Mr. Vesely said the work of taking the census was approximately 95 per cent completed, but that scattered persons remained to be visited in each district. Results will be announced only by complete wards or country towns.

Ralph L. Goodman, supervisor for the fifth district, or the lower north side, said that hundreds of hotel and rooming house residents called yesterday to request a visit by an enumerator. Mr. Goodman had asked the United States attorney Wednesday about issuing warrants for some 30,000 who had evaded the census takers. Yesterday's response probably will render such action unnecessary, he said.

MOVE TO HAVE ALIENISTS TEST "WHIM SLAYER"

August Vogel, "whim slayer," will be examined for his sanity by state and defense alienists if Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court this morning enters an order prepared by Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller. The sanity hearing for Vogel, who was temporarily saved from the electric chair last week by the filing of a last minute insanity petition, is scheduled to start on Monday. Vogel was sentenced for the murder of Lyle Perrenaud.

Attorney Tyrrell Krum, representing Vogel, has been unable to have his client examined by alienists. Judge Steffen refused to enter an order, and Warden David Moneypenny refused to allow alienists in the jail without an order. The attorney made his second request for an order yesterday, and when it was refused him indicated that he would file a mandamus suit. The state's attorney's office then indicated that it would ask for an order so that alienists representing both sides could have access to the slayer.

DAVID'S READING TELLS HIM HE HAS THE WRONG WIFE

One evening two weeks ago J. David Dunne, 21 years old, 1210 South Sawyer avenue, finished reading a column of advice to the lovelorn in his evening paper.

He sighed as he folded the paper and addressed his wife, Jean: "You're not at all like the ideal helpmate portrayed in the paper," he told her. "It says that the important thing is not to get a man but to keep him. I'm sorry, but you and I had better part."

The startled wife asked what might she do to keep him.

Yesterday Mrs. Dunne set forth these facts in her bill for separate maintenance filed in the Circuit court. The Dunnes were married in September, 1929, and separated on April 6.

JOBLESS MAN ENDS LIFE.

Leaving a note in which he blamed lack of work for his act, James Watkins, 30 year old Negro, committed suicide by shooting himself yesterday in his room at 308 East 32d street.

WIVES IN TEARS WIN BATTLE ON PAVING PROJECT

30 Improvements O. K.'d by Board.

A delegation of women, some of them in tears, appeared yesterday at the public hearing before the board of local improvements to protest against a contemplated street improvement which called for the levying of a special assessment against their property. Their pleas resulted in an order from the board to abandon the project for one year.

Out of 43 other paving, widening and sewer projects considered the board approved 30, which will be undertaken at an estimated cost of $1,559,900.

Women Say They Can't Pay.

The women appeared in opposition to the contemplated paving of George street from Narragansett avenue to the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad at an estimated cost of $30,000. They argued with Michael J. Faherty, president of the board, that they would be unable to pay the assessments and would lose their homes if the improvement was approved.

Ald. Curtis F. Mellin [50th] and Faherty argued heatedly over the proposed resurfacing of Winchester avenue between Winnemac and Foster avenues at an estimated cost of $9,500. Faherty rejected the alderman's request that the property owners be allowed to hire a private contractor to do the work, stating that the board would do the work better and cheaper.

Major Projects Approved.

Among the major projects approved was the paving with concrete of a system of streets bounded by Halsted, 95th and 99th streets and Normal avenue at an estimated cost of $506,000; the paving of an adjoining system bounded by 97th, 99th and State streets and the Western Indiana railroad tracks with asphalt at an estimated cost of $370,000; and the paving of South Damen avenue between 79th and 87th streets with concrete at an estimated cost of $238,000.

Another of the approved major projects calls for the paving with concrete of a system of strets bounded by Austin, Bryn Mawr, and Melvina avenues and Higgins road at an estimated cost of $204,000.

VIENNA EXPERT TO FIGHT CRIME WITH MOULAGE

Watzek Arrives; Stresses Use of Casts.

Ferdinand Watzek, for 22 years the scientific nemesis of the criminals of Vienna, who arrived in the city yesterday to apply his learning to Chicago's crime situation, in his first interview set great store upon the value of the moulage in crime detection.

Met by Col. Goddard.

Inspector Watzek, who is to become assistant director of the scientific crime detection laboratory, affiliated with Northwestern university, was greeted upon his arrival by Lieut. Col. Calvin Goddard, director of the laboratory, and by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, county coroner. Dr. Bundesen, seeking to increase the usefulness of the coroner's office, was the first to encourage Lieut. Col. Goddard to lay the rod of science upon Chicago's gangs.

The moulage, as explained by Inspector Watzek, who is to introduce its practical use in Chicago, is the building up of a cast of important objects. The expert, who speaks little English, told in German of the use of the moulage by the Vienna police.

"For example," he said, "let us say the door of a house has been jimmied by an intruder. We shall make a cast moulage of the part which bears the jimmy marks and preserve it. Weeks later a suspect in a crime is arrested and burglar tools are found in his home. We put the jimmy under the microscope and compare its countless and strictly individual markings with those in our moulage. We prove indisputably that the marks in the door were made by the jimmy found in the suspect's house.

How to Use Moulage.

"We come upon the scene of a murder—let us say a woman has been slain in her home, and that the evidence points to her lover, who protests he was not with her that night. But we have found a partly devoured apple on a table. We make a moulage and we compare the teeth marks in the cast of the apple with those made by the teeth of the dead woman. They do not jibe. We ask the lover to bite into another apple and examine these marks. They are the same.

"The apple we find in a state proving it was opened only two hours before. There is absolute proof that the lover was present at the time of the murder, for under the microscope no two sets of human teeth make identical marks.

"We find the body of a murdered man, all marks of identification carefully destroyed by the killer. No one knows him. In this country he is photographed and consigned to the grave within a few days. We should make a moulage of his head, first setting his features in natural repose, then making a casting, and recasting to obtain a life size replica of his head.

Identification Is Made.

"Months later some one inquires about the victim. He is shown the customary photograph. He shakes his head—he is not sure. But the moulage gives such a better perspective—identification is certain. We go from the identification to a search for the dead man's known enemies."

Inspector Watzek is an expert in moulage, finger printing, foot prints, identification of typewriting and handwriting, and the microscope. Under the latter classification come studies of dust, blood, hair, grass, leaves, and soil.

Plenty of Murders.

Talking with Lieut. Col. Goddard, it appeared that Inspector Watzek would have plenty of material to work on. In Vienna, said the latter, there are probably five murders in a year. In Chicago, said Goddard, there are 400.

Coroner Bundesen yesterday announced new plans by which when a murder is committed or discovered the police will immediately throw a cordon of 200 or 300 feet about the scene, allowing no one to approach except the crime experts of the police and coroner's departments. This will preserve such things as footprints, tire prints, articles dropped by the slayer, and many other important clews.

The police, in their battle to drive the more notorious gangsters out of Chicago, were encouraged yesterday when Judge Joseph B. David in Superior court denied citizenship papers to Sammy [The Greener] Jacobson.

The judge declared that when a man cannot prove good character in order to secure citizenship papers in this country he should be sent back to his native land. The federal court already had declined to issue citizenship papers to Jacobson, on the ground he had not proved his good character, and Judge David ruled he had no right to review the action of the federal court.

Capone Wins in Florida.

Meanwhile, in Miami, Fla., Judge Halsted L. Ritter in the federal court there issued an order making permanent the temporary injunction prohibiting Gov. Doyle Carlton and 20 Florida sheriffs from arresting Al Capone.

"There can be found no law anywhere," said Judge Ritter in his decision, "which clothes the governor or sheriffs with power to arbitrarily declare that a person can be apprehended without process, held in restraint of his liberty without an opportunity to be heard, transported against his wish to the boundary line of the state and, thereby, from four, being prohibited from at any time entering the state."

The Dade county, Florida, grand jury returned a report urging all law abiding citizens "to give their unlimited coöperation and support to all legitimate means to accomplish the end that Scarface Al Capone, his accomplices and their sinister influences shall not continue to be inflicted upon the law abiding residents or visitors of Florida."

Today Capone will appear in the county Circuit court to resist the state's attorney's petition for an injunction to padlock Capone's Palm Island estate as a public nuisance.

Program Planned

A Slavic festival sponsored by wives of the representatives in Chicago of several Slavic nations will be held tomorrow evening at the La Salle hotel. Slavic songs and dances will feature the program for the affair, an ensemble under the direction of Alexander Savine presenting national music of Poland, Jugo-Slavia, and Czecho-Slovakia. The members of the ensemble are Mme. Nita Obrassova, Michel Wilkomirski, Olda Jirousek, Svetozar Banovec, and Miss Helene Pollenz. The festival is being given under the patronage of Mme. Maria Szczepanski, wife of the Polish consul general; Mme. Rose Smetanka, wife of the Czecho-Slovakian general consul, and Mme. Antigone Kolomatovic, wife of the Jugo-Slav consul general.

BENCH INSISTS DAVID OBEY ITS TRANSFER ORDER

Both Sides Make Contempt Threats.

The executive committee of the Superior court yesterday accepted the challenge of their authority made Thursday by Judge Joseph B. David when he announced that he will refuse to obey the order transferring him to the Criminal court. The committee instructed Superior Court Clerk M. S. Szymczak not to send a clerk to Judge David's court Monday morning.

Judge David sent for Mr. Szymczak to advise him that he will need a lawyer. Unless a clerk is on duty in the court Monday morning, the judge said he will hold Szymczak in contempt of court. To this threat the executive committee added another that Mr. Szymczak may be held in contempt of court for failure to obey their order.

Tells of His Predicament.

"I am between the devil and the blue sea," Mr. Szymczak said. "If I obey Judge David, I will go to jail and if I obey the committee, I go to jail. I need a dozen lawyers. I have too many judges."

Chief Justice Harry A. Lewis, who signed the transfer order with Judge Denis E. Sullivan, head of the chancery division, and Judge Oscar Hebel, head of the law division, said that the stand of the committee is supported by legal opinions. He cited a decision of the Supreme court, stating that the rules of the executive committee are binding on judges for the efficient workings of the court.

"The stand of Judge David is a blow at the morale of the court," Chief Justice Lewis said. "The public will say that the judges, who decide difficulties for other people, cannot settle their own. But Judge David is not running the Superior court. Rules are formed for orderly procedure, otherwise a judge might call the court clerk and ask him to send up a few cases whenever the judge felt like working. Imagine such a system.

Consent Not Needed.

"The committee cannot take Judge David out to the Criminal court and order him to function. Neither can it make any judge work. That is a matter of conscience. Judge David said he was willing to go and then changed his mind. His consent is not necessary. Consent is important only at the beginning of the year when assignments are made for the current year. There are three vacancies in the Criminal court. We called on Judge David to aid in cleaning up the crowded dockets."

Chief Justice Lewis announced that the committee will discuss Judge David's defy at a meeting this morning. Judge David refused to comment on his position.

KLARKOWSKI, KIN OF JUDGE, FREED IN SLAYING CASE

William Klarkowski, former deputy sheriff of Lake county, was acquitted early this morning in Circuit court at Waukegan of the murder of Douglas Steuber, Waukegan plumber, whom he shot to death on Jan. 13. The jury deliberated seven hours.

The defendant, a cousin of Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski of Chicago, said that while ordering a sandwich in a Waukegan restaurant the night of the shooting one Walter Ludlow, a customer at the counter, whom he had previously arrested, made a slighting remark.

Words were exchanged and Ludlow invited him to the street, Klarkowski claimed. He said he was chased by Ludlow and Steuber and that he fired four shots, two in the air and two over his shoulder.

CLAIM DEFEAT OF 'LEAKY TRUNK' FOR CONGRESS

Contest to Decide Close Michaelson Race.

BY PARKE BROWN.

James C. Moreland last night asserted that he had wrested the Republican nomination for congress from the Seventh district from Congressman "Leaky Trunk" Michaelson.

The official count by the board of election commissioners, with the returns from half a dozen precincts withheld because of discrepancies, showed Michaelson leading by 27 votes. But Moreland and his watchers declared that inclusion today of the tally sheets held back will show Michaelson defeated by either 107 or 112 votes.

J. C. MORELAND.

M. A. MICHAELSON.

Contest to Decide Nominee.

In any event the result of the race is so close that a court contest followed by a recount of the ballots themselves is considered certain. Moreland said if the official figures swing against him he will ask that the ballots be opened because of his confidence that he will gain, and if he is shown to be the winner he will not oppose a demand for a recount by Michaelson.

	Michaelson.	Moreland.
City	25,756	25,506
Country towns	2,928	3,151
Totals	28,684	28,657

The Seventh district includes the northwest side and near-by country towns. It is the most populous district in the state, and one of the five congressional districts in the country that in 1928 cast more than 250,000 votes. Moreland, a builder of residences on the northwest side, is a newcomer in politics, while Michaelson, who votes dry, is a veteran of five terms in the house.

Referendum Is Wet.

Moreland was almost unheard of in political circles last winter when he announced his candidacy with a statement that was a dry, but would distribute 60,000 ballots in a wet and dry referendum of the district and, if elected, would abide by the result in his official conduct. The result was overwhelmingly wet and Moreland's referendum activity put him in the lead over several candidates who had started out as wets.

The leaky trunk incident occurred at Jacksonville, Fla., last May and when opened a keg of rum and an assortment of bottled goods including Scotch, several varieties of cordials, and one broken bottle was disclosed. When tried at Key West for possessing liquor, Congressman Michaelson disowned ownership, and a brother-in-law, Walter Gramm, confessed title to the trunk.

SEVEN SENTENCED FOR VOTE FRAUDS; 5 ARE ELECTION OFFICIALS

Seven persons, five of them election officials, were sentenced yesterday in connection with ballot frauds.

FRED HRDLICKA.

Fred Hrdlicka, former Democratic state representative, Edward Kerstein, undertaker, and Edward Kotek, precinct captain, who were found guilty of conspiracy to alter ballots in the Twenty-seventh precinct of the Thirty-fourth ward during the judicial election last November, were sentenced to one to five years each in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen in the Criminal court. He had denied their pleas for new trials.

Peter Marsala, Samuel Russ, and Michael Cascio, election judges in the Thirty-seventh precinct of the Forty-second ward, and James Sinatro, a clerk in the same precinct, were sentenced yesterday by County Judge Jarecki to serve a year each in the county jail for contempt of court in connection with the election of November, 1928. They were charged with altering ballots and making false returns.

Judge Jarecki held to the grand jury three other Forty-second ward election officials—Thomas Jones, Herman Roberts, and Arnold Bell—who are accused in connection with alleged irregularities in the last judicial election.

Frank A. Conboy, owner of the Red Onion, a River Grove restaurant, was reported named in a true bill voted by the grand jury yesterday. He is alleged to have sworn falsely in affidavits regarding two men registered from his restaurant for the recent village election.

Ex-Policeman Sought on $12,000 Fraud Charge

Joseph C. Lamb, a former policeman, was being sought by the Chicago police last night on a warrant obtained by Mrs. Anna Luby, 7709 South Peoria street, a widow, who charged him with swindling her out of $12,000. The police found that Lamb left the Mayflower hotel, 5125 Kenwood avenue, where he had been living, several days ago. In 1924 Lamb was shot by three Negro bandits, who killed his police partner, Vincent Skiba.

LION BATTLES TIGER TO SAVE TRAINER'S LIFE

Kokomo, Ind., April 25.—(AP)—Prince, giant circus lion, saved the life of his trainer when the man was attacked by a tiger here today.

Clyde Beatty, 25, of Chillicothe, O., said to be the youngest animal trainer in the profession, was conducting a dress rehearsal, preparing for the opening show here tomorrow, when Trudy, a new tiger, knocked him down, ripped open his side, and bit his arm.

Prince, one of 32 lions and tigers in the cage with Beatty, hurled his huge bulk against the tiger, knocking Trudy across the arena, where he beat and chewed the cat's side.

PRINTER FOUND DEAD.

MOTORIST HELD AFTER HIS AUTO KILLS BOY, AGE 4

J. W. Harrison, 3049 Clybourn avenue, a steel contractor, was recommended held to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter by a coroner's jury yesterday after an inquest into the death of Richard Walsh, 4 years old, 5700 Winthrop avenue. The boy was killed when he was struck by Harrison's automobile at Western avenue and Logan boulevard while he was walking with his mother.

One death raised the 1930 Cook county motor toll to 282. The victim: Joseph Farrell, 22 years old, 7249 Dobson avenue. Died at his home of injuries received Dec. 28 when he was thrown from the rear of a truck in a collision with a street car.

Unidentified man, about 50 years old. Found dead in the street at 121st street and Vincennes avenue, Blue Island, early this morning, with his skull and both legs fractured. Blue Island police, who pronounced him the victim of a hit and run motorist, removed the body to a mortuary at 130th street and Greenwood avenue, Blue Island.

JEALOUSY HELD ADELE RITCHIE SLAYING MOTIVE

Actress Murders Friend and Kills Self.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Laguna Beach, Cal., April 25.—[Special.]—Professional jealousy apparently was the motive for the double slaying here yesterday in which Mrs. Guy Bates Post, formerly known on the stage as Adele Ritchie, shot her inseparable friend, Mrs. Doris Murray Palmer of Waukegan, Ill., and then took her own life.

It was brought out at an inquest today that Mrs. Palmer this year displaced Mrs. Post as director of the annual Laguna Beach community theater play. This reversal in position caused a breach in their relations which steadily widened.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and suicide, naming Mrs. Post as the slayer.

Threats Reported.

There was testimony that Mrs. Palmer had telephoned friends that she faced danger. In this connection it was reported to the police that Mrs. Post had been heard to threaten Mrs. Palmer's life.

Mrs. Francis Barry told of going to the Palmer bungalow, into which Mrs. Post had recently moved, when another friend of Mrs. Palmer's, Mrs. Vanessa McDowell, a former Chicago artist, left for San Diego.

"I invited Mrs. Palmer to luncheon," Mrs. Barry testified. "There were sharp words. It finally became necessary for me to inform Mrs. Post quite directly that she was not expected to attend."

Mrs. Post is supposed to have slain Mrs. Palmer about 2 o'clock and to have killed herself some two hours later.

Meets Her After Slaying.

Miss Leolita Perrine, an artist, told of meeting Mrs. Post on the street in this interval, declaring that "she appeared normal."

The story of the murder and suicide as pieced together by officers from information obtained at the inquest and investigation in the Palmer home is believed to be substantially as follows:

Mrs. Post fired two shots into Mrs. Palmer's body as the younger woman started to leave for her luncheon engagement. One bullet struck Mrs. Palmer in the back and the other in the head.

The 55 year old actress then smoked a dozen or more cigarets and made a trip downtown, possibly with the intention of surrendering. It was on this trip that Miss Perrine met her.

Second Shot Ends Life.

After returning home Mrs. Post moved the body of her victim and then turned her weapon on herself. Apparently the first shot missed, but the second entered her brain.

The community follies play, "A Lady from Memphis," which was supposed to have been presented last night in the playhouse which Harold F. McCormick donated to the colony, was called off because of the tragedy. Tonight it was still "dark."

Jury Clears Husband Who Killed Wife by Mistake

Matthew Chiarenza, 4517 South St. Louis avenue, was exonerated yesterday by a coroner's jury which investigated the fatal shooting of his wife Philomena, 25 years old. Mrs. Chiarenza, a bride of five months, died yesterday morning at Holy Cross hospital from the wound inflicted on Wednesday night when her husband shot her, mistaking her for a burglar. When the verdict of accidental death was read Chiarenza buried his head in his hands and wept.

Boy Dies as Doctor Tries to Take Nail from Throat

Frederick Remington, 3 years old, of 323 West 112th street, died yesterday in the Washington Boulevard hospital as a surgeon operated on his throat in a futile effort to remove a nail, which the child had swallowed three weeks ago. The nail had lodged in a bronchial tube.

LEADER KILLED

FALL OFF TRAIN KILLS DOUGLAS PATTISON HERE

Douglas Pattison, a Freeport attorney, who was Democratic leader in the Illinois house of representatives more than twenty years ago and his party's nominee for the governorship in 1908, was killed yesterday by a fall from the rear platform of an Illinois Central train as it was entering the Park row station.

There were no witnesses to the accident who could tell how it occurred. Members of the train crew said they first heard of it when they were told that some one had fallen from the train; and the brakes were applied immediately. Pattison was found lying unconscious beside the tracks and he was rushed to St. Luke's hospital, where he died of skull fracture.

In addition to his widow, formerly Miss Ida Andress of Dixon, Ill., Mr. Pattison is survived by a daughter by a previous marriage, Mrs. William Ford of Rockford.

BROTHERS' WIVES POOL ASSETS, GET DOUBLE DIVORCE

Superior Judge Sabath yesterday granted a double divorce to Jennie Johnson Shinn, 27 years old, and Merna Stinehart Shinn, 23, both of 4160 Drexel boulevard, from their respective husbands, Maurice and Frederick Shinn, brothers. The two women had a common cause against the brothers and had pooled their assets for economy since last Oct. 20. Both were represented by Attorney J. Raymond Bodkin. Merna and Frederick were married on March 10, 1926, and Jennie was married to Maurice at Crown Point, Ind., on Sept. 22, 1926. Jennie left her husband because she learned that he had failed to obtain a divorce from his first wife, she said. Merna charged that her husband deserted her on Dec. 30, 1927. Both wives testified for each other.

PASTOR HAZY AS TO SHOOTING OF SEXTON AND WIFE

Memory Fails Under Cross-Examination.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ill., April 25.—[Special.]—Pastor James A. Wilson of the Mendota, Ill., Methodist Episcopal church spent three and one-half hours on the witness stand today and blushed, faltered, was defiant and tearful by turns, as he told his version of the shooting of the church sexton, Amos Elliott, and the latter's wife, Wilhelmina.

Closing arguments will be made tomorrow morning and the case will be given to the jury in the afternoon.

Under cross-examination by State's Attorney Russell O. Hanson, the 60 year old minister became vague in his recollection of incidents in connection with the shooting.

"I don't know," and "I don't remember," was the burden of his testimony. He denied parts of a confession he made shortly after the shooting in which he admitted that his motive was the avoidance of a scandal linking his name with that of Mrs. Emma K. Wagner, a widow in his congregation.

Says He Thought of Suicide.

When he took a revolver and went to the Elliott home last Jan. 29 he intended to use the weapon on himself, Mr. Wilson said. He had no feeling of enmity towards the Elliotts he said, adding, "I have a kindly feelin for them even to this day."

The sexton, who spent nine weeks in bed as a result of a bullet from the pastor's gun, glared at the speaker when this remark was made.

"I intended to end my life if I didn't get back the letter I had written to Mrs. Wagner and from which I feared that my reputation would be injured," the minister testified. "I heard that the Elliotts had the letter and I went down there to get it. I put the gun in my pocket because I was going to shoot myself if they refused to give me the letter."

But, when the sexton wouldn't surrender the letter, "everything went black before me," the minister said. "I did some shooting, but I don't know how many shots I fired," he declared. "I didn't realize what I was doing. Other people were just shadows before my eyes. I had been working hard and was in ill health."

Tells of Self-Wounding.

Then he described his attempt at suicide in his own home a short time later. He fired five shots at his head, but inflicted only two slight scratches.

"The trouble between me and Mrs. Wagner was because I had criticized her for keeping a male boarder," he explained to the jury.

"Wasn't she angry because you asked her to enter into a life of shame with you?" queried the state's attorney.

A rosy blush spread over the preacher's face and his attorney saved him from answering by making an objection, which was upheld.

FORMER ORDERLY TO GEN. GRANT IS 99 YRS. OLD TODAY

Joseph Pincus, who was an orderly for Gen. Ulysses S. Grant for two years of the civil war, will be 99 years old today. A quiet celebration will be held in his honor at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Henry E. Lyons, 5134 Greenwood avenue. On Friday she entertained at a party at the Old People's home, 62d street and Drexel boulevard, of which she is a director.

Mr. Pincus was born in Germany, coming to this country when he was 24 years old. He has made his home with his daughter in Chicago for the last 35 years. He has two grandsons, two great-grandchildren and a great great-grandson.

Tomorrow Leon Klein, who is Chicago's oldest native born Jew, who remembers when this city was a village inhabited by Indians, will be 80 years old. He will celebrate the day quietly with his two daughters, Mrs. Julian Gusfield and Mrs. E. A. Jandorf, at his apartment in the Windermere East hotel.

JURY ACQUITS 12 REDS SEIZED IN WEST SIDE RAID

A jury in Judge Charles McKinley's court yesterday returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of 12 communists who were arrested on Feb. 26, in a raid on Musicians' hall at Adams and Halsted streets, when plans were being made to march on the city hall to protest against unemployment.

Judge McKinley said he believed Deputy Commissioner Stege "should have given these people more rope and let them hang themselves."

Nels Kjar, one of the radicals, said the police used banana stalks to disperse the crowd.

It was announced yesterday the communists of district No. 8 will hold a May day celebration on May 1 on the west side.

FINED $500 FOR RUM SALE.

Pleading guilty to the sale of liquor, Frank Cahill, 36 years old, whose saloon at 811 West Van Buren street was raided recently by the police, was fined $500 yesterday by Judge Padden in Des Plaines street court.

$200,000,000 CAR EXTENSIONS UP TO INVESTORS

Franchise Advocates Tell Hope of Raising Funds.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The prospect of getting extensions under the proposed transportation franchise—about which the aldermen are concerned—was admitted yesterday to be dependent directly upon the ability of the new company to raise the $200,000,000 to pay for the improvements.

Advocates of the franchise claim it will make a much stronger appeal to investors than the old ordinances, and cite the following to substantiate their views:

The proposed franchise is indeterminate. It cannot be cancelled, annulled or forfeited. It can be terminated only by purchase either by city or its permittee. The advantages to the investors, it has been pointed out, are that they are assured of continued possession of the property or a return of the money placed in it.

Reasonable Return Assured.

A "just and reasonable" return on all money invested is a fundamental provision of the franchise. What is "just and reasonable" after the first three years is to be determined by a local regulatory commission. Any earnings above what the commission decides is "just and reasonable" must be turned over to the city. There may be years when the just and reasonable rate is not earned, but it may be earned in subsequent years.

The investment for determining both fares and return to the investors is fixed in the franchise, and the method of adding to the capital as new investments is agreed upon. James Simpson of the citizens' committee insisted upon this stipulation. If price levels swing upward and an appraisal would give the company a higher valuation than the fixed investment, it cannot obtain an added return for the higher valuation. Also, if the price levels go down and a revaluation gives a lower appraisal value than the investment, as determined in the franchise, the company would still get a return on the higher investment. The "just and reasonable" return is to be paid on the money actually invested.

More Chance for Profit.

Better opportunities for making profits are pointed out under the indeterminate franchise than under the old ordinances of the surface and elevated lines. The operating cost of carrying passengers on the surface lines is higher than on the elevated, yet the surface lines carry 80 per cent and the elevated 20 per cent of the present traffic.

It is planned to haul a larger percentage on the "L" than on the surface and thereby save in operating expenses, although there will be an increase in the interest and sinking fund charges.

The compensation paid the city is to be 3 per cent of the gross receipts plus excess earnings above a "just and reasonable" amount. That covers all of the privileges and benefits received from the city. From this 3 per cent is to be deducted all car license fees paid the city and less the cost of cleaning the mezzanine floor of the subway.

City Has Junior Claim.

But compensation is not an operating charge. It is agreed that it shall be among the last items to be paid. Its payment is junior to operating costs, rentals, taxes, interest on bonds, debentures, and other evidences of indebtedness, sinking fund for bonds, debentures, and preferred stock, and also dividends on preferred stock.

The only exception to this general statement is that the city compensation is to be paid ahead of security obligations of 25 per cent of the initial capitalization, which is approximately $65,000,000 out of the $260,000,000 present investment.

Partisans of the ordinance have asked for suggestions on other provisions which would make the franchise more attractive to investors and still be fair to the public and car riders. It is reported that members of the bankers' committee have privately said that they will be able to raise the $200,000,000 for extensions and improvements under this ordinance, but no formal statement from them has been given out. Some of the aldermen desire such a statement from the bankers.

Walter L. Fisher, attorney for Judge Wilkerson, said yesterday he is attempting to work out a plan which will give more assurances of the acquisition of promised extensions.

11 HIP TOTERS SEIZED IN RAID ON NIGHT CLUB

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Twenty-six persons, including eleven patrons wearing evening attire, were arrested tonight by Prohibition Administrator Maurice E. Campbell and a score of prohibition agents in a midnight raid on the Hollywood restaurant, one of the most fashionable night clubs on Broadway. Thousands of persons jeered and booed the officials.

Explaining the arrest of the patrons, a new practice in New York, the prohibition administrator warned he has decided to "rid New York" of hip flask toters.

"This is the first instance in which persons in possession of intoxicating liquor in public places have been arrested," he said, "but it will not be the last.

"There is no charge of sale against the management. The criminal charge is based entirely on the maintenance of a nuisance. The patrons who have been arrested tonight are charged with the possession of intoxicating liquor and during the evening had been observed by my men in the possession and consumption of liquor on these premises."

ASS MARSHAL OF GUN AND $50.

Peoria, Ill., April 25.—(AP)—Chris Dimick, night marshal of Elmwood, was robbed of his gun and $50 by two youths early this morning and left tied to a tree where he was found three hours later by a county sheriff.

Baby Rescued at Woodlawn Fire

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Life in Peril

Pipeman William Harper of engine company No. 63 yesterday groped his way through a smoke filled basement flat in the building at 6216 Dorchester avenue and rescued a 15 months old baby from under his overturned crib. The rescue was witnessed by a large crowd, including the fifty tenants who had been driven from the three story building by the fire.

The rescued baby is Joseph, the son of Robert La Rock, janitor of the building, who also runs a newsstand at 63d street and Stony Island avenue. Mrs. La Rock had left Joseph and his 4 year old brother, Donald, alone in the flat when she went to relieve her husband at the newsstand. In her absence Donald found some matches and set the place on fire.

Mrs. E. W. Lee, who lives in the flat above, heard the children crying and rescued Donald, but she was driven out by smoke when she went back for the baby. Pipeman Harper then dashed into the flat and brought out the child. He collapsed when he reached the street. The fireman and the baby were both revived by an inhalator squad.

AUTO 'L' HIGHWAY, 2 SUBWAYS URGED FOR STOCKYARDS

A delegation of business men from the stockyards district yesterday requested Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe to coöperate in a program to dig two street car subways under the stockyards and to construct an elevated automobile highway over the same territory.

The business men proposed that the elevated highway and one of the subways follow the line of Racine avenue, which is blocked between 39th and 47th streets. The other subway would follow Root street between Halsted street and Ashland avenue.

In the delegation were Frank Stern, president, and K. E. Krogh, secretary of the Stockyards Business and Civic association; Robert D. Mathias, president of the Depositors States bank; Bruno Zeleski, president of the Sherman State bank, and Joseph Vlasak, vice president of the Peoples National Bank and Trust company.

Jeremiah P. Leahy Takes Oath as Council Member

Jeremiah P. Leahy, who was elected alderman of the 27th ward at a special election held April 8 to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Ald. Harry C. Van Norman, was sworn into office yesterday by City Clerk Smith. The proclamation of the election board stated that Leahy had received 10,116 votes to 2,863 for his opponent, Joseph H. Dunne. Ald. Leahy will take his seat at the April 30th council meeting. He was accompanied to the city hall yesterday by John Touhy, sanitary district trustee, who sponsored his candidacy.

VETERAN SHOT BY DRY RAIDER BELIEVED DYING

Wisconsin Sheriff Faces an Investigation.

Dubuque, Ia., April 25.—[Special.]—The life of Edward Foht, 36, world war veteran hung in balance today while surgeons labored to remove from his skull a bullet fired by Sheriff Joseph Greer of Grant county, Wis., in a dry raid Thursday.

Foht spent what Finley hospital attendants described as "a good night," although his condition showed no improvement and he is not expected to recover. An investigation into the shooting on Bishop island, a short distance north of Dubuque on the Wisconsin side of the river, is being conducted by Grant county officials. Foht's relatives have retained lawyers.

Foht had been manufacturing liquor for some time, according to a federal prohibition agent here. The agent said that he had spotted a cooker run on a farm in Dubuque county, but that when he was prepared to raid it Foht was moving out.

Greer is known as an aggressive antiliquor campaigner and has been in charge of many dry raids in Grant county since taking office.

Ettelson Decides Police Can Stop Dance Contest

An opinion holding that the dancing contest at the Merry Garden ballroom, Sheffield and Belmont avenues, is illegal and can be stopped by Commissioner of Police Russell was approved last night by Corporation Counsel Ettelson. A similar opinion on "marathon" dancing was given to the police last week, but an order to stop the contest was delayed pending an investigation of the claims of the proprietors that their contest does not come under that classification.

wide significance, particularly in the Republican party.

"The Union League poll is all right," wrote Curran, "but you and I know the difference between that outfit and the National Republican club. The real politics are played in the latter. There is more patronage in the latter, and more consequent cowardice. Interesting contrast between a club of nice old gentlemen who happen to be Republicans and a curious collection of the regulars—it was among the latter that we won our victory."

"You are certainly making my nights in New York harder," said Curran ruefully as Caraway continued to read.

His Views on Supreme Court.

In another letter to Wadsworth, Curran disapproved a proposal of Rhode Island lawyers to attack the constitutionality of the 18th amendment before the United States Supreme court, asserting that the court "has been extraordinarily curt and dogmatic in the uncompromising nature of its decisions and the absence of supporting reasoning by written opinion."

"The growing objection by the American people to our federal prohibition laws will probably reach a greater degree of general disapproval later on," continued Curran's letter, "thus providing a better background for court action."

"Is it your opinion," demanded Caraway, "that as your society gets more active the court will be more inclined to agree with you?"

"I think," asserted Curran, "public opinion, perhaps, has some effect on the human mind, even though it sits on a bench on the United States Supreme court."

A Passage on Ethics.

"Well," declared Caraway, "if the court is to enterpret the constitution according to public opinion, I would just like to know it. I will include that estimate of the Supreme court in the record. It shows such a profound knowledge of what the court ought to do."

"Now, senator," said Curran, "isn't it reasonable, possible or respectful for an American citizen to wish that in an important case, like these prohibition cases, they had handed down an opinion with their decision? I wish they had."

"O," replied Caraway, quickly, "I am a believer in free speech and honest opinion expressed. I'm not falling out with you, but I have never heard anybody else say, 'Wait until the Supreme court hears from the election.'"

Illinois "Scandal" Fades.

Robinson abandoned his search for scandal in the association's activities in Illinois during the state legislature fight last year over the O'Grady wet referendum bill, when his own computation of Curran's expense vouchers showed a total of slightly less than $3,000 spent by Curran's assistant, Walter G. Hooke.

One of the items indicated that "Congressman Igoe of Illinois" was Hooke's gust as a $14.75 dinner in New York on Nov. 19, 1929, and that State Senator Harry W. Starr of Chicago "and party" were entertained in New York in August, 1929, at a cost of $53.60. Meals, hotel bills, baseball tickets and prize fight tickets, in Chicago and Springfield, in addition to railroad fare, accounted for the balance of Hooke's expenditures, according to the vouchers.

Representative James Igoe of Chicago, hearing of the mention of his name in Hooke's report, denied having met Hooke in New York and asserted he must have meant State Representative Michael L. Igoe, minority leader in the lower house of the legislature.

In response to a question, Curran produced a resolution of the association's executive committee of Dec. 31, 1929, against the acceptance of contributions from brewers, distillers, or wine makers.

Williamson Bill Amended.

Modified by an amendment which would give the attorney general carte blanche in the reorganization of the enforcement staff, the so-called Williamson bill transferring responsibility for Volstead enforcement from the treasury department to the department of justic was favorably reported by the senate judiciary committee today.

Under the bill as passed by the house, all present employés and attorneys in the dry bureau would be carried over into the justice department. The senate amendment would authorize the attorney general to replace the entire personnel if he sees fit.

One from Chicago

Urbana, Ill., April 25.—Two girls from Chicago and vicinity are among the four candidates for queen of the May on the University of Illinois campus. Alberta Lewis, 6629 Harvard avenue, Chicago, daughter of Judge Harry A. Lewis of the Superior court; Mary Alice MacMillan, 241 1st street, Hinsdale, Ill., Helen Spaulding, Pontiac, Ill., and Dorothy Marie Johnson, Kansas City, Mo., have been nominated for the honor. Election will be held next Wednesday. The queen will be crowned at the annual May fête during Mother's day celebration.

NEVER REFUSED SO MANY DRINKS AS IN U. S., HE SAYS

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, April 25.—"I never refused so much drink in my life," was the first comment on America by Frank O. Salisbury, portrait painter, who has just returned here. "In big cities, where society demands drink, prohibition simply is not working. But in industrial centers prohibition is one of the secrets of America's success. The workingmen have forgotten all about their pints and banks are full of their money."

RIVER DRAGGED ON REPORT OF GIRL'S SUICIDE

The forest preserve police last night were dragging the Des Plaines river in the forest preserve near Schiller Park for the body of a girl, about 20 years old, who is believed to have jumped into the river. The girl, dressed in a dark chinchilla coat and a black satin dress, passed the home of Mrs. Anna Torkison, on the River road in Schiller Park early in the evening, crying and wringing her hands. Mrs. Torkison and Mrs. Edith Amundsen, who lives with her, followed the girl, but she eluded them in the woods of the forest preserve. When they arrived at the river they found footprints leading to the water's edge, they said.

Mrs. Lillian Ferguson, 8809 South Ada street, yesterday sued for divorce in the Superior court, charging that her husband, William, threw a roast of pork at her. She stated that he claimed the meat was not properly cooked.

WIFE OF STANLEY McCORMICK WILL GET MORE INCOME

Judge Tells Lawyers to Reach Agreement.

Mrs. Katherine Dexter McCormick, wife of Stanley McCormick, and appointed his guardian by a Santa Barbara, Cal., court, will receive an increase in her income from his $52,031,400 estate. This was assured yesterday when Probate Judge Horner advised attorneys, after he had heard a portion of their arguments, to reach an agreement outside of court on her demand for an increase.

Mrs. McCormick has been receiving $160,000 a year from the annual income of the estate, estimated at more than $1,000,000. Last March 24 she filed a petition in the Probate court asking that her income be increased to $420,000 a year, or $35,000 a month. The increase was opposed by attorneys for Harold and Cyrus McCormick and Mrs. Anita McCormick Blaine, brothers and sister of Stanley McCormick, conservators of his estate. They receive no part of the income. Mrs. Katherine McCormick is the sole heir to the estate.

Asks $600,000 to Pay Bills.

In addition to the increase in income, Mrs. McCormick asks $600,000 immediately to pay off her creditors and $81,000 to pay her husband's doctors since January, 1928.

Newton D. Baker, former secretary of war under President Wilson, attorney for Mrs. McCormick, declared that her present income from the estate is inadequate for her needs.

"Mrs. McCormick is running into debt trying to live in the manner in which she has been accustomed," he said. "The increase will permit her to meet necessary expenses without including a dollar for luxury."

Sets Fee at $500,000.

Mr. Baker said he will ask a legal fee of $500,000 for his services in the litigation since 1927. Since Mr. McCormick was declared incompetent in 1906, two years after his marriage, $3,000,000 has been spent for him in his confinement on his estate in Santa Parbara, according to Mrs. McCormick's petition.

Judge Horner stated that he favored protecting a wife's rights when it was shown that she was not receiving adequate support from her husband. He advised the attorneys for both sides to reach an agreement and continued the hearing indefinitely.

COSTS DIME TO SIGN NEBRASKA WET PETITION

Omaha, Neb., April 25.—(AP)—Signers of petitions asking congress to order a national referendum on prohibition are being charged 10 cents each before signing, it was revealed today by H. A. Luckey, supervisor of the "National Prohibition Referendum Association, Inc.," for Nebraska and Iowa.

The 10 cent fee entitles the signer to become a member of the association and helps defray expense.

PRINCE OF WALES ENDS 18,000 MILE JAUNT TO JUNGLE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, April 25.—Completing his adventurous 18,000 mile voyage, which had led him into the jungles of Kenya colony, the prince of Wales swooped down on Windsor park at four p. m. today in a royal air force fighting plane. It was a whirlwind finish to the prince's four month journey, for he had traveled 700 miles by air since he hopped off from Marseilles at 7:30 a. m. today.

The public was kept in ignorance as to the exact spot the royal party intended to land and all visitors were excluded from the Windsor grounds. So, instead of a vast reception for the returning prince, he was met only by his brother, Prince George. The prince of Wales was bronzed and appeared in the best of health. After landing, he drove to his new country residence, Fort Belvedere, where King George and Queen Mary awaited him. This evening the entire royal family returned to Windsor castle for an intimate family dinner, during which the prince recounted his adventures of big game hunting in the African wilds.

FORMAL CHARGE AGAINST CULLEN FILED BY WOLFE

Formal charges against Bernard W. Cullen, suspended superintendent of the water pipe extension bureau, were filed with the civil service commission yesterday by Commissioner of Public Works Wolfe. The charges were conduct unbecoming an employé and violation of official integrity in the matter of conserving and protecting public funds against illegal and unwarranted allowances.

Cullen is charged specifically with authorizing a salary payment to W. H. Cummings, a plumber, for three and one-half days, during which time it is alleged that he did not appear at the central division for work. Cullen in a statement to Wolfe stated that Cummings was absent because he had been assigned to special duty in the city hall office.

Reports are current in the city hall that Cullen was suspended by Wolfe at the request of the plumbers' union. Cullen, according to the reports, did not favor an ordinance sponsored by the plumbers' union which would create a separate bureau of plumbing.

KOHLER FIRM'S RECORDS SIFTED IN OUSTER TRIAL

Seek to Learn Who Paid Pilgrimage Bills.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Sheboygan, Wis., April 25.—[Special.]—Gov. Walter J. Kohler's trial was adjourned tonight until Monday to permit the prosecution to go through a mass of correspondence taken from the Kohler company files in their search for evidence under which to oust him from office under the corrupt practices act.

The rulings of Judge Gustav Gehrz limiting the state's evidence to acts of Mr. Kohler during his 1928 campaign or acts of his proved agents have tended to shorten the trial and it is possible that it may end next week.

The evidence today was largely concerned with the work done for political purposes at the Kohler company plant during the campaign, and which, the state charges, was never properly accounted for. The resources of the millionaire manufacturer in the way of expert help from his organization will play a large part in the argument to declare his election void.

Prosecutor Amuses Jurors.

The examination by Attorney Harold M. Wilkie was so circuitous and technical that it led to courtroom gossip that all he was working for here was a record on which to appeal to the Supreme court. The jurors were attentive, but at times amused. The courtroom was crowded all day, the case attracting many lawyers and politicians from the state. It its recognized at least as an integral part of the next governorship campaign.

Gov. Kohler was excused from the stand after a short examination this morning in which he stuck to his position that he had not "checked up" on the political work done at the plant and had relied on his instructions to have this segregated and paid for.

J. H. Rubin of Milwaukee, a member of the executive board of the Socialist party and a student of labor conditions, provided a mild sensation. He was examined by Attorney Walter Corrigan. He had written articles in behalf of the Kohler candidacy, which were published in Milwaukee Jewish papers. He had also spoken for Mr. Kohler.

Unpaid, Says Rubin.

"Were you paid for your services?"

"Not one cent."

"Did you receive any money from the defendant?"

"Never."

"Did you receive $4,000 from him directly or indirectly on Aug. 16, 1928?"

"I didn't receive $4,000 in ten years. I did not have a penny from the defendant or any member of his family." He had received $150, he admitted, for railroad fare while traveling for Kohler, but this money came from the Milwaukee committee.

Asked by the defense how he came to be interested in the campaign, he said he had gone to Kohler to see the candidate and had received permission to go through the plan and village unaccompanied by officers. He spent three hours with the Kohler employés, and they talked to him because they knew him as a labor sympathizer. He came away pleased with the conditions under which the workers lived. He described it as "wonderful." So he went out to have the president of this company made governor.

Kohler Village Unique.

The village of Kohler is a unique community. The executives and workers are aided in buying their own homes through a company loan and construction organization, and the company takes care of most of the taxes, lights, water, etc. The houses are all substantial, built on big lots and along winding streets by the river. The lawns and shrubbery are all kept up in good condition. No dogs or cats or chickens are allowed. It looks like a community of $15,000 homes on the north shore.

C. S. Richter of Montello, Wis., was put on the stand to tell of a political pilgrimage which he made to Kohler during the campaign. He was one of thousands who visited there. He could not remember who invited him, but he said he wanted to go to see and satisfy himself about Mr. Kohler. He heard the candidate speak but this did not impress him so much as his own observations. He and his fellow pilgrims were given a free lunch, he said.

"Did the fact that you had a plate lunch after your eighty-five mile drive, and a cigar, influence your vote?"

Club Manager Testifies.

William Brandt, manager of the American club, an organization of Kohler employés, and the place where the delegations were fed and talked to, testified that he was told to keep a separate account of all the meals and refreshments so served. He understood that it was to be charged to Mr. Kohler's sisters and mother. Instead of losing money on these meals, the company gained, he said, because they charged up fifty cents for each meal, when ordinarily they charged only 35 cents. This was to make sure that all political expenditures were covered.

Attorney Lucius P. Chase, the 28 year old attorney for the Kohler company, was examined as to the details of the Kohler political expense account, what items were left off, and when they were made up.

It was shown that on Sept. 5, the day after the primary election, the invoices were made out as follows:

Miss Evangeline Kohler, to the Kohler company, for political disbursements, meals, $563.96.

Mrs. Minnie Volrath Kohler, same, $563.96.

Miss Lilly Kohler, same, $563.96.

Miss Marie C. Kohler, to Kohler company, for political disbursements, for distributing literature, $12; meals, $950; letters, $116.

Kohler company executives, including T. B. Engelking, O. A. Kroos, Herbert Kohler, A. G. Kroos, Anton Bratz, and Frank G. Bratz, were also billed by the company for various amounts advanced, chiefly for the expenses of the Kohler band, which accompanied the candidate to various towns. They contributed from $150 to $500 each.

PRIEST HELD ON GIRL'S CHARGE TALKS WILDLY

Fairmont, Minn., April 25.—(AP)—With his hearing set for tomorrow afternoon the Rev. Joseph Hayostek, Roman Catholic priest of Rochester, Minn., remained in jail here today on a charge of attempting to assault a Fairmont school teacher, while county authorities continued their investigation into the case.

County Attorney C. F. Gaarenstroom said, after an interview with the clergyman, the latter had talked incoherently and seemed unable to keep his mind on any subject. The priest told the county attorney he was 27 years old and added that he could not account for his action.

Diocesan officers at Winona said today no action would be taken in the case until all details are received. Father Hayostek, an assistant in St. John's church at Rochester, has been in good standing, the diocese officers said.

Bar Visitors as Jimmy, Abandoned Baby, Improves

Little Jimmy Stevens Taylor, who found himself in a new home Thursday at St. Vincent's villa, Park Ridge, is not well enough to receive visitors, heads of the institution said yesterday. Although the little "smiler" abandoned early this month at the Stevens hotel is over the bronchitis which threatened him last week, he is to be kept quiet for several days because he is easily excited. The villa is a branch of St. Vincent's orphanage, where he has been cared for since his abandonment.

LOVELORN PARISIAN DROPS SUIT AGAINST EX-WIFE OF KRESGE

New York, April 25.—(AP)—Counsel for Michel Rosenberg, Parisian real estate operator, today withdrew his $500,000 suit against Mrs. Doris Mercer Kresge, divorced wife of Sebastian S. Kresge, chain store operator, charging breach of promise to marry.

His attorney, George A. Hopkins, announced Rosenberg was sailing tonight for France, where Mrs. Kresge is living temporarily. Hopkins said he did not know whether there had been a reconciliation between his client and Mrs. Kresge, adding: "He seemed quite happy, however, when he paid my fee."

Rosenberg declared in his suit that Mrs. Kresge had promised to marry him last August, when both were in Paris. On the basis of that promise, Rosenberg said, he spent great sums for lavish entertainment of Mrs. Kresge and got a home for them, furnishing and decorating it at great expense.

Wife Awarded $60 a Week Pending Divorce Suit Trial

Edgar A. Conway, vice president of the W. P. Nelson company, interior decorators, was ordered yesterday to pay his estranged wife, Mrs. Helene Mudge Conway, 8038 Crandon avenue, $60 a week temporary alimony by Superior Judge Williams. Mrs. Conway is seeking divorce on charges of cruelty. Conway was granted permission to visit their daughter, Frances, 6 years old, on Sundays.

DOCTOR ORDERS MAYOR WALKER TO BED FOR WEEK

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Due to general physical and nervous debilitation Mayor Walker has been ordered to bed for at least a week by his personal physician, Commissioner of Sanitation William Schroeder, it was announced at the city hall today.

Dr. Schroeder has suggested to the mayor that he take a complete rest for about a month and that it would be wise to go out of town for a vacation.

The mayor has canceled all his engagements for next week. Among the important events which he was scheduled to attend was the annual Jefferson day dinner of the National Democratic club tomorrow night at the Hotel Commodore, where he was to be the toastmaster.

Sham Battle Staged by Troops at Fort Sheridan

The first of the summer series of sham battles at Fort Sheridan was staged yesterday with 700 infantrymen and artillery men participating in trench and open warfare. Following the battle the artillery units engaged in drill and firing practice in preparation for the military tournament to be held at Soldiers' field June 21 to 29 under direction of the Sixth corps area staff. Five hundred spectators watched the maneuvers yesterday.

ITALY ADDS FIVE WARSHIPS IN RACE AGAINST FRANCE

Mussolini to Speak as Boats Take Water.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, April 25.—Italy's bid for Mediterranean power will be given a double emphasis Sunday when a patriotic naval festival will be made to coincide with the annual Fascist levy of blackshirt youths.

Five warships will be launched in Italy's three principal maritime ports, Genoa, Naples, and Trieste, while 90,000 boys of 18 will be inducted into the party and will become members of the Black Shirt militia.

Utilize Pact Liberty.

In view of the fact that the effectiveness of the triparty naval limitation pact between the United States, Great Britain and Japan is contingent on the use made by France and Italy of the biparty liberty to build what they please, granted at the conference, much importance is attached to Sunday's ceremonies here when nearly 35,000 tons of fighting ships will take the water to increase Italy's fleet.

These new ships represent Italy's effort to keep up with France in the Mediterranean race, it is claimed here. They will focus attention on the outstanding differences between the two Latin countries, which were so acrimoniously aired during the London conference.

French Soothe Italians.

The first gesture on the part of France to soothe the ruffled Italian temper was seen today in the visit of Pierre-Etienne Flandin, French minister of commerce, to the Milan fair, where he presented the Legion of Honor to Minister of Corporations Guiseppe Bottai. Flandin made a speech there apparently calculated to mollify the irritation at the French denial of Italian parity claims.

At the beginning of the christening ceremonies Premier Benito Mussolini will make a speech in Rome which will be broadcast by radio at each of the shipyards where the warships are to be launched.

Apart from the maritime function 90,000 youths will be inducted into the party, being given a rifle and a book called "Fascist Doctrines," and at the same time 110,000 smaller Balilla boys will pass from the Balilla ranks to the higher ranks of advance guards.

Princesses to Christen Ships.

At Castellamare, in the Bay of Naples, Princess Maria will act as godmother to the scout cruiser Giovanni Delle Bande Nere. The Giovanni is a twin ship of the Alberto da Guissano to be launched the same day at Sestri Ponente, near Genoa. Four more similar ships will probably be launched within a year.

These ships displace 5,300 tons and have a 95,000 horsepower turbine engine, as compared to the Mauretania's 75,000, which gives them a speed of 37 knots. Despite their lightness they are armed with eight six inch guns on twin mountings, eight four inch anti-aircraft guns, and four torpedo tubes.

At Spezia Crown Princess Marie Jose of Piedmont will crack a bottle of champagne over the prow of the 10,000 ton cruiser Zara. At the same time at Trieste, with Princess Giovanni as godmother, will be launched the sister ship, the Fiume.

The Zara and Fiume, whose names perpetuate Italian war history, are of the same class as the Trento and Trieste, two cruisers already launched. Two more of the same type, the Bolzono and Gorizia, will be launched later this year. These six ships are all of 10,000 ton displacement, have 36 knot speed, and are driven by 150,000 horsepower turbine engines. They carry four armored turrets with eight inch guns and numerous anti-aircraft batteries.

Launch Semi-Cruiser Sub.

Simultaneously at Monfalcone will be launched the submarine Delfino, the third of four submersibles of the "Squalo" class, and designated sometimes as semi-cruisers.

To complete Sunday's naval ceremonies the keel will be laid in the Sestri Ponente yards, near Genoa, of the new Italian liner Rex, which is destined for Atlantic service. The Rex is to be 45,000 tons displacement and will be the largest of Italy's merchant fleet. She will have ten decks.

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, April 25.—On the heels of speeches made in the diet today by Premier Hamaguchi and Baron Shidehara, foreign minister, T. Inukai, president of the Seiyukai, the leading opposition party, lost no time in attacking the government, alleging it has "betrayed the country by entering an agreement at the London naval conference inadequate for Japan's defense needs."

Mr. Inukai called the premier to task for the statement that the basic principle of the government at London had been to maintain a navy which would meet defense requirements, stating Japan had failed to obtain even minimum demands as regards national defense.

Premier Hamaguchi, replying to Mr. Inukai, declared the government had assumed full responsibility for the safety of the nation's defense and that the security afforded by the pact was entirely adequate.

U. S. Navy Flyer Accepts Bid to Fly Atlantic in DO-X

[Copyright: 1930: By the New York Times.]

GENEVA, April 25.—Dr. Claude Dornier, who constructed the giant airplane DO-X, telegraphed an offer yesterday to the American aviator Lieut. Clarence H. Schildhauer of the United States navy to accompany him on a trans-Atlantic flight early next June. Lieut. Schildhauer accepted the invitation and will leave soon for the Dornier factory on Lake Constance.

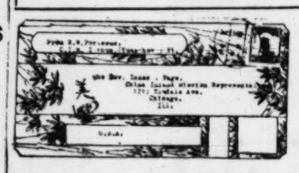
FROM YUANCHOW, CHINA



Letter received by the Rev. Isaac Page, 1217 Elmdale avenue, Chicago.

This is the last letter which the Rev. R. W. Porteous sent to his friends in Chicago before he and his wife were captured by a band of the brigands which infest the mountains of Kiangsi, in central China. They were taken two weeks ago and their captors vanished with them into the interior, leaving no trail.

For twenty-six years the Rev. Mr. Porteous has been doing missionary work in China, making his headquarters in Yuanchow, a city situated on the banks of the Siu Kiang river, near the western border of the province of Kiangsi.

This part of China is a mountainous country, containing rich deposits of coal, iron, and copper. The valleys are quite fertile and devoted for the most part to the production of tobacco, hemp, and silk. The city of Chintehchen is famous for its potteries.

The province has an extent of 72,000 square miles and a population of 20,000,000. The capital is Nanchang. The entire territory is in a chaotic state at the present time, due to brigandage and general lawlessness.

FRANCE STUDIES TYPE OF CRUISER TO RIVAL GERMAN 'POCKET' SHIP

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 25.—France has no intention of building a 27,000 ton battleship to match Germany's Ersatz Preussen as reported recently by the London Daily Telegraph, but naval experts are now working on designs for 10,000 ton vessels which would equal Germany's "pocket" battleships.

This was the gist of a communique issued today by the ministry of marine denying the Telegraph's story. The communique does not state exactly what type of vessel is favored, the experts simply declaring that naval headquarters are studying several models of warships in an effort to determine which would be the most suitable match for the Ersatz Preussen and the projected cruiser "B."

It was pointed out here that the Telegraph story was absurd since a vessel of 27,000 tons would be classed as a capital ship, which France agreed at the London naval conference not to build before 1935.

START QUIZ IN TORTURING OF EVANSTON BABY

The Evanston police and the social service department of the Criminal court yesterday started an investigation to determine how 2 year old Rosemary Szafran, daughter of Zigmund Szafran, 2010 Florence avenue, Evanston, had received more than 50 scars on her arms, legs, and body. The child apparently had been flogged and tortured with hot irons, according to a report of Dr. Frank Lock, 1151 Crain strete, Evanston, who said some of the scars had been caused by burns.

Mrs. Szafran told the police that she had been ill for two months and had left the child in the care of Szafran's sister, Mrs. France Wezel, 5549 Drummond place. She said Mrs. Wezel complained on Sunday that she was "tired of taking care of the kid" and that she discovered the scars on Monday when Mrs. Wezel returned the baby to her home.

Mrs. Wezel denied that she had beaten or mistreated the child. Although the baby's condition is not serious, she was still in a state of terror yesterday, screaming at the approach of any woman, the police said.

New Idea Is Rebuild, Not Scrap, Old Destroyers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.]—A plan for reconditioning a number of the ageing destroyers of the United States fleet instead of replacing them with new ships when they reach the age limits set by the London naval agreement is now under consideration by the naval subcommittee of the house appropriations committee.

Congressional approval of this plan to modernize rather than rebuild destroyers probably would cut at least 300 million dollars from the American naval building costs that would be required during the next six years if all obsolete tonnage was scrapped and replaced with new ships up to the treaty limits. It is estimated that the cost of replacing all American destroyers that reach the treaty age limits during the life of the pact would amount to close to 400 million dollars.

New Destroyer Leaders.

It is understood that even if the reconditioning plan were adopted arrangements would be made for the construction of a number of new destroyer leaders, a type of warship which the United States has yet to add to its naval estimate. Naval officers appearing before the house committee have outlined the necessity for constructing destroyer leaders for use in controlling the operations of destroyer squadrons. Some naval officers, it is understood, have stated that it would be feasible to repair some of the older destroyers that have been held in reserve for several years.

The American naval list now carries 309 destroyers of a total tonnage of 307,155. Of this total all but 220,000 tons now is regarded as obsolete. Allowing a 16 year life for destroyers, all but 14,000 tons of these vessels will be beyond the age limit by 1936, when the treaty expires.

The treaty provides, however, that all destroyers laid down before Jan. 1, 1921, may be replaced after twelve years. Ships laid down after that date will have a sixteen year life. As all American destroyers in commission were laid down during the war period, the last of these ships will be twelve years old by 1934.

Little Navy Group to Object.

Opposition is certain to develop if the "little navy" group in congress attempts to pass legislation calling for modernization instead of replacement of old destroyers. The navy department, in framing a building program for the six year life of the treaty, will ask that a certain number of destroyers be laid down each year during the future, so that the present war built destroyers can be replaced gradually and orderly.

It is probable that the navy will not want to replace them faster than at the rate of six to ten a year.

The navy department began preparing a revising building program today. This will carry ships which the department thinks should be built to maintain a navy at the tonnage levels fixed by the treaty.

WRITER FIGHTS NEW "RACKET" TO SELL LINEN

New York, April 25.—(AP)—Clarence Buddington Kelland, novelist and short story writer, today went to Supreme court to fight against what he described as a "racket."

He seeks to avoid paying for $4,650 worth of linens, including peach, lavender, and green sheets, towels, and wash rags, which he says he never received and never wanted to receive. He said his wife ordered twelve handkerchiefs from a saleswoman and the linen firm tried to deliver a taxicabload of linen in "bales and bundles of great size."

The linen firm brought suit after Mr. Kelland refused to accept delivery.

Edward Bennicuff, murder, sentenced to life imprisonment in the penitentiary; Fred Hrdlicka, Edward Kolek, and Edward Kerstein, conspiracy, sentenced to 1 to 5 years each in the penitentiary by Judge Walter P. Steffen.

Joseph Duffek, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory; Edward Parker, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Thomas Cregan, business agent for the Machinery, Safe Movers and Riggers' union, took the witness stand in his own behalf yesterday in Judge Phillip Finnegan's court and charged that he was the victim of a frame-up on the part of Jacob Gidwitz, president of the Lanzit Corrugated Box company, and state's attorney's detectives. He said instead of the $1,000 being a bribe to him to settle a strike—as reluctantly told by Gidwitz Thursday under a threat of contempt of court—that the manufacturer tossed the money on his desk and walked from the office. The police then rushed in and made the arrest.

Miss Bernice Morgan, 3845 West End avenue, bookkeeper in the union headquarters, partly corroborated Cregan's story. She said she saw Gidwitz enter Cregan's office and immediately thereafter she heard Cregan say, "What are you trying to do here? I couldn't settle your strike for any money."

N. Y. DISCONTINUES 4 BIG BREADLINES FEEDING 8,000 DAILY

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—The four largest bread lines in New York, feeding a total of 8,000 men daily, either have been discontinued or will, this week. The reason, according to Elmer Galloway, executive secretary of the Bowery Young Men's Christian association, is partly because the labor employment demand has improved, and partly because some of the agencies are running out of funds.

The bread lines have decreased from 30 to 50 per cent during the last week or two. A study of the men in the lines reveals that more of those willing to work have found jobs and that a large percentage of those remaining in the bread lines are typical Bowery bums who never have worked and never will so long as a bread line exists anywhere in New York and they can get in it.

2 CONFESS USING COURT WARRANT FOR EXTORTION

Cornelius O'Heir, 46 years old, a real estate salesman of 8615 South Blabby street, and Wendell R. Morse, 42 years old, 7416 Phillips avenue, confessed using a Municipal court warrant in an extortion plot to Deputy Police Commissioner Stege last night. Morse had been trapped while trying to collect money from Charles R. Hannig, 36 years old, a club promoter, 176 West Adams street.

O'Heir and Morse got a warrant from the Stockyards court charging Hannig with disorderly conduct last Tuesday morning, using as the complainant a vagrant whom they hired to say that Hannig had ejected him from his office. Morse then telephoned Hannig, informing him of the warrant. "I'll be in to see you Thursday night," he told Hannig. "For $5,000 you can have this case dismissed for want of prosecution."

Hannig was waiting in his office when Morse called. Police Lieutenant William Cox, with Sergts. James McLaughlin and Frank McDonald, was in an unlighted adjoining office. After prolonged discussion Hannig produced $200 in marked currency and handed it to Morse, tapping his foot three times by a prearranged signal with Lieut. Cox. The police then entered and took the marked money from Morse's wallet. Morse implicated O'Heir, who also confessed.

CHICAGO MAIL SPEEDS BY AIR TO SO. AMERICA

Start of 7 Day Service; Lindy to Aid.

Lindy Hops Today

BY ROBERT WOOD.

The South American air mail is on its way from Chicago to meet Lindbergh in Havana, Cuba, tomorrow. Next Friday, seven days after the bags were sealed in Chicago, the mail will be at the end of its journey 7,000 miles away in Montevideo, Uruguay.

The mail started from Chicago on the new short schedule last night at 11:29. At 7 o'clock the east mail came in over the National Air Transport from Cleveland, and at 9 o'clock Pilot Clifford Coppin flew into a landing at the municipal airport with the South American bound air mail from San Francisco and the west.

Consuls Celebrate Occasion.

With the Chicago letters, collected downtown at 8:15, the mail was stuffed in bags and tossed aboard the Stearman biplane of Interstate Air Lines. A little group of South American consuls was on hand to celebrate the departure. They were Gabriel de Andra of Brazil, M. H. Ehlert of Chile, Dr. Alberto Benavides of Colombia, Octavio Darrios of Guatemala, and A. Campana of Ecuador.

They made short speeches and shook hands with Pilot John Pricer before he took off down the runways in a blaze of brilliance from a dozen landing beacons, disappearing in the gloom aloft. The drone of his Hornet motor died away as the plane sped southward toward Nashville and Atlanta.

The mail will be transferred to a Pitcairn Airways plane at Atlanta and flown to Miami, arriving at 1:30 o'clock today, in time to be transferred to a Pan-American airways ship, which will fly over the Florida keys to Havana, landing at 4:15.

Lindy Starts Tomorrow.

Col. Lindbergh, fresh from his record breaking high altitude flight across the continent, will take off from Havana tomorrow morning at 6 a. m. with the Chicago mail aboard his Sikorsky ambphibion to blaze the new trail. He will head out across the Caribbean sea for Cape Gracias Adios in Honduras, then to Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, and to Cristobal, Panama Canal Zone, where he expects to land at 6 p. m.

Thus, in a dawn to dusk flight, he will cover a distance of 1,200 miles in 12 hours. Lindbergh's route lies straight across the Caribbean sea. The new Pan-American service which he is to inaugurate cuts off two days from the former air mail service, which followed a roundabout route through Central America.

Other pilots will fly the mails down the west coast of South America, arriving in Montevideo at 6:30 Friday evening. The mail will be flown from Chicago in this manner once a week.

Quebec Buys Seaplane to Hunt Rum Running Boats

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., April 25.—Owing to the difficulties in coping with the operations of the illicit liquor trade in the lower St. Lawrence an aerial patrol seaplane with a 500 mile cruising range has been purchased by the Quebec liquor commission and will go into service on May 1. Officers of the commission will fly with the pilot and scour the waters for bootleg pirates. Much of the contraband is said to go through the French islands of St. Pierre and Miquelon.

HEALTH PROBLEM IS SOLVED FOR MANY

They Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Daily

Constipation is the most common menace to health today. It is extremely dangerous in itself and is the source of many other complicating ailments. There is no permanent relief in pills and drugs. Many of them are dangerous.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve and to prevent both temporary and recurring constipation. If it does not, money will be refunded.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is roughage. And roughage in food helps eliminate the possibility of constipation. Most modern foods do not contain roughage. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily is the proper amount. In recurring cases, ALL-BRAN should be eaten with each meal. It is an essential in any reducing diet. In addition, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN contains iron, the blood builder. It is the original ALL-BRAN, proved effective by millions and recommended by physicians.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN has an appetizing flavor. Eat it with milk or cream, in cereals and fruit juices, in soups and in cooked foods. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Gunmen Take Saxophone, Pass Up $2,000 Violin

Two gunmen yesterday held up Morris Stein, 6119 North Claremont avenue, a musician, at 14th street and Avers avenue, and drove away with his automobile in which were a 200 year old violin worth $2,000, a saxophone, and a clarinet. The car was recovered a short time later with the violin still on the floor of the machine in its case, the bandits apparently considering it of no especial value. The clarinet and the saxophone were gone.

CHICAGO WANTS 1931 AIR SHOW, WICHITA IS TOLD

Good Will Tourists Visit Kansas Aviation Center.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Wichita, Kas., April 25.—[Special.]—Speaking to the chamber of commerce of this self-called "air capital" of the United States, George B. Foster, chairman of the aviation committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, announced today that preliminary negotiations have been started to hold the 1931 national air show on Chicago's lake front. The announcement was cheered by the 34 business men who compose the Chicago good will party touring the southwest.

"Within the next few days," Mr. Foster said, "one of our representatives will go to New York to confer with the aeronautical chamber of commerce. We should like greatly to hold the show in the transportation building of the 1933 world's fair which will be erected in time to provide a proper setting for it."

Deplores Inadequate Airport.

Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, has given his support to the idea, Mr. Foster said. Chicago's city treasurer, Charles S. Peterson, vice president of the fair, rose from his place at the table to second this approval.

While explaining to the Kansans, the air program of Chicago, Mr. Foster found it necessary to deplore the inadequacy of his city's municipal airport.

"But we want to assure you," he added, "that we have gone a long way toward providing a field on the lake front. The south park commissioners have already built an amphibian ramp at Eighth street in the heart of the downtown district, which has demonstrated the advisability of such a location."

Kansas City Is Next Stop.

Mr. Foster and the Chicago delegation left Wichita late this afternoon for Kansas City, the last stop on the junket, carrying with them the impression of an airport of which Chicago might be proud. For Wichita, center of the airplane manufacturing industry, has a municipal field one mile square and improved to the last degree.

A new $400,000 administration building will soon be constructed on the field which will bring the cost of the entire improvement to more than $1,200,000. S. A. Long, president of the chamber of commerce, said transcontinental air lines fly in and out of the port almost hourly.

Dotting the region around the city limits are flying schools and manufacturing plants. At one of these, a number of the party were taken for a trip in the plane City of Wichita, in which Col. Lindbergh crashed in Mexico City some time ago.

HUGE WAVES STILL BATTER LONG BEACH; BREAKWATER RUINED

Long Beach, Cal., April 25.—[Special]—High waves continued to splash the wrecked city breakwater today, dousing the sea promenade on the fifth consecutive day of their mystifying attack. While mariners and scientists bandied theories explaining the phenomenal waves, some of which rise twenty feet above the ordinary crest, municipal power craft did their best to patrol the area and clear the boat paths of timbers tossed about when the railway trestle fell from the breakwater into the sea.

No effort has been made to repair the Pine street pier. One explanation of the huge surf, advanced by a salvage master, is that an unrecorded typhoon in the unsailed areas between Peru and the Society island sea lanes has occurred—thousands of miles away.

16 MEN MISSING IN BOAT FIRE; 10 OF CREW SAVED

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—Sixteen of the twenty-six members of the crew of the freighter Thames, which caught fire in Long Island sound off Sound beach, Connecticut, last night, were missing and had been put down as lost today. The Lexington of the Colonial line saved nine, including the captain, and the oysterman Alert rescued one and took him to Bridgeport. He said he saw six men drown.

The 560 ton vessel, operated by the Thames River Steamship line, was on her way from New York to South Norwalk when fire started in a way none of those saved has been able to explain. She was grounded, apparently with some one at her helm, on Tods point reef, near Sound beach, and was still burning this afternoon.

Life Boat Capsizes.

Capt. Robert Sherman, when the Lexington brought him to Providence, said that he thought the fire started in the boiler room. The eight men rescued with him after the lifeboat in which they left the ship capsized were all off watch when the fire started and could tell nothing about it.

The Thames left New York at 6 p. m. yesterday. Shortly after the watch had changed the alarm of fire was sounded, and some of the survivors say they heard a series of explosions. The captain and the eight men who were saved with him ran to the port lifeboat. The men, who had been in their bunks, were clothed for the most part in no more than trousers and shirts, and saved no more of their personal belongings.

Almost as soon as they had lowered the lifeboat it capsized. One man was caught under the boat and nearly drowned.

The nine men were numb and stiff with the cold of the water when they were taken into the Lexington's boat. It made a short cruise about the spot, failed to find any other men, and hurried back to the Lexington so that those it had saved might have care.

Tell of Missing Officer.

The rescued seamen, at Providence, told of having seen Capt. Leonard Hancourt of Seaview avenue, Bridgeport, go over the side with them into the lifeboat, but he was not picked up.

One of the rescued men said he and six other members of the crew got into another lifeboat, but that it capsized as soon as it reached the water. He said that all of them had life preservers, but that they lost their grip on these as they struggled in the waves, and that he saw the others go down.

The Thames was built in Brooklyn in 1883 and was 142.5 feet long, with a beam of 28 feet and a draft of 11.6 feet.

SHOT FLEEING FROM STOLEN AUTO.

Walter Dogen, Negro, 26 years old, 3830 Elmwood avenue, was shot in the right leg yesterday by Policeman Wilfred Duclos of the Pekin Inn station when he fled from a stolen automobile after the policeman had stopped him at Cottage Grove avenue and 24th street. Duclos captured the Negro and took him to the bridewell hospital

H. J. FAHY, NOTED PILOT, VICTIM OF GRAVE ACCIDENT

Detroit, Mich., April 25.—[Special.]—Herbert J. Fahy, former army flyer, solo endourance record holder and nationally known pilot, suffered a fractured skull and other injuries this afternoon when the plane he was piloting turned over in taking off on the estate of Cliff Durant, near Roscommon, Mich. Mrs. Claire Fahy, his wife, a prominent west coast aviatrix, escaped injury. She was riding in the cabin of the plane, separated by a compartment wall from her husband.

At the Grayling hospital it was announced that Fahy's condition was critical. He had not shown any signs of returning consciousness and was to be operated upon, it was reported by telephone.

Fahy, salesman for the Detroit Aircraft corporation, was attempting to sell Durant a plane. Mrs. Fahy, also employed by the company, went along as passenger.

REVOLT FADES IN BURNED OHIO PENITENTIARY

Death Count Rises to 320.

Columbus, O., April 25.—The open revolt of Ohio penitentiary convicts opposed to the rule of Warden Preston E. Thomas simmered down to a peacable quiet today and Gov. Cooper's investigating committee completed its inquiry into the fire Monday night that claimed 320 lives.

Investigators finished their task after hearing conflicting testimony of five prison guards who were in G and H cell blocks after the fire started.

The guards gave a jumbled account of the rescue operations, but agreed that there was considerable delay in opening cell doors and that the victims would have been saved by more prompt action.

Guard Hubert L. Richardson startled the committee when he testified that the cage door leading to the cells never was kept locked. He left the inference that some one locked the door after the fire started and that an argument among other guards as to whether it should be opened again was the reason for the delay.

Report Due Monday.

The committee will make a study of the testimony taken from prison officials, firemen, and fire survivors and hopes to have a report ready for Gov. Cooper by Monday.

Unlike yesterday, when 3,000 prisoners in the idle house roamed about the cell ranges threatening to kill guards and in general creating wild disorder, all was calm within the prison walls today.

But the "passive resistance" campaign against Warden Thomas, for whose removal there is a general hue and cry among the convicts, gained strength with the naming of convict committees and the announcement of rules and by-laws, which emphasized that there would be no violence or escape plot. One committee put in a demand for a federal investigation of the fire and the conduct of the prison.

Two More Victims Dead.

Two more fatalities were added to the death list today, raising the total from 318 to 320. Scores of injured still were in the prison hospital, a number of them expected to die.

At 11 o'clock tomorrow morning a procession of hearses will move over the streets to East Lawn cemetery, where a vast grave has been prepared to receive the unclaimed bodies of forty white convicts.

POTSDAM SOCIAL LIONESS JAILED AS EMBEZZLER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, April 25.—Potsdam, the seat of the former kaiser's court, feels today it has lost almost the last shreds of its reputation. Still shocked after two of its pillars of society, the wives of prominent men, had been proved embezzlers, it was discovered today that a third woman, Frau Roether, who posed as a model to the citizenry, was in jail.

Privy Councilor Roether had told his friends that his wife was on a pleasure trip to the sunny climes. Last week he died. When his body was cremated today the once superlatively proper Frau Roether appeared at the crematorium in prison garb with two warders at her side.

It was revealed that she is awaiting trial on charges of embezzling funds from small tradesmen. Her husband, it is said, was unable to pay debts she had contracted to compete in Potsdam social circles.

Rivers and Harbors Bill Goes to Senate.

when and if the state acts, it was charged that the federal government would have a white elephant on its hands and that before long its sponsors would ask deepening of the canals to accommodate deep water traffic.

Say Barge Traffic Is Only Aim.

Representative Dempsey and others supporting the proposal, including the backers of the Illinois project, insisted that it was not intended to provide for other than barge traffic on the Erie and Oswego canals. The argument was advanced that grain and other commodities from the west could be shipped by barges down the lakes and to New York City via the Erie and Oswego canals.

An amendment by Representative Hudson to strike out the Erie and Oswego canal provision was defeated by a vote of 59 to 148. An amendment by Representative O. B. Burtness [Rep., N. D.] to require the state of New York to turn the water power rights over to the federal government as will be done by the state of Illinois was defeated by a vote of 52 to 162.

Mississippi Provision Unchanged.

Representative William I. Nolan [Rep., Minn.] failed in an effort to substitute a provision for the adoption of a nine foot project in the upper Mississippi for a paragraph which represents only a partial endorsement of an increase in the present six foot depth.

An amendment by Representative Nolan was rejected by a vote of 41 to 146 after Representative Dempsey had asserted that the deepening of the upper Mississippi from six to nine feet would cost more than 90 million dollars and that it would be sure to mean the veto of the entire measure by President Hoover.

Vote Trading Is Charged.

The charge that trading has been going on among groups favoring different projects in the 111 million dollar bill was made frequently during the debate.

"It is a pork barrel bill," said Representative James A. Frear [Rep., Wis.], who denounced the entire measure. "You could not get 50 votes for your Illinois proposition or for other projects if each stood by itself. The Erie canal is one of the worst propositions ever put in a rivers and harbors bill."

Representative Frear declared that he had been unable to get a copy of the engineers' report on the Illinois waterway project, intimating that some one was responsible for the delay in making printed copies available.

Illinois Project Not Explained.

No amendments were offered to the Illinois waterway paragraph of the bill. Representative Dempsey referred briefly to the project in a speech opening the debate. No one attempted to explain the project in detail.

The engineers report provides that the federal government shall take over the waterway between Lockport and Utica, Ill., on which the state of Illinois will have expended $20,000,000 by the time proceeds of its bond issue are exhausted. Water power rights will pass to the federal government. The state in a letter from Gov. Emmerson agrees to claim no rights in the waterway hereafter. The government will complete construction of the waterway, but the state will build such bridges as are necessary.

Among other items in the rivers and harbors bill are $29,266,400 for deepening connecting channels of the great lakes from 20 to 24 feet, and $1,500,000 for deepening the Mississippi from St. Louis to Grafton, Ill., at the mouth of the Illinois river from six to nine feet.

PART OF WHAT THE WATERWAYS BILL MEANS TO ILLINOIS

Work in Illinois provided for the 111 million dollar river and harbors bill passed yesterday by the house provides:

[1] Completion by the federal government of the waterway between Lockport and Utica. The state will here expend $20,000,000 on the waterway when the government takes the work over for completion.

[2] The government will expend $1,500,000 for deepening the Mississippi from St. Louis to Grafton, Ill.

LATIN AMERICAN QUOTA MEASURE IS GIVEN SETBACK

Senate Votes to Return It to Committee.

Washington, D. C., April 25.—(AP)—After two weeks of debate and a score of roll calls, the senate today returned to committee the Harris bill proposing to place quota restrictions on immigration from Central and South America.

The vote, which was 34 to 30, killed the legislation for this session, in the opinion of leaders, and leaves the present immigration policy of the United States unchanged.

Senator Shipstead [Farmer-Labor, Minn.], moved to recommit the bill by Senator Harris [Dem., Ga.] to the immigration committee after the senate became tangled over the basis for restriction of European immigration.

Consequently, European countries will be limited hereafter to 150,000 immigrants annually into this country, allotted among the various countries on the basis of the newly established national origins provision. No restrictions will apply to nations of this hemisphere.

Prussian Decree Limits Vivisection to Scientists

BERLIN, April 25.—(AP)—German humane societies have prevailed upon the Prussian cabinet to issue a decree forbidding vivisection to all except university professors and heads of scientific institutions. Those so authorized must give anesthetics to animals used in experiments and are enjoined to regard humane principles.

MRS. HOOVER USING WHEEL CHAIR AFTER INJURY DUE TO FALL

Washington, D. C., April 25.—[Special.]—Mrs. Herbert Hoover will use a wheel chair until she has fully recovered from the effects of a fall suffered some time ago, it was learned at the White House today. Mrs. Hoover is unable to walk without pain, and her physicians do not believe that she will be able to resume her customary activities for several weeks.

Mrs. Hoover wrenched one of her back muscles in the fall and tore several ligaments, but a C-ray examination revealed that she sustained no injury to her spine.

The wheel chair was delivered at the White House yesterday, making it possible for Mrs. Hoover to appear at the dinner table for the first time since the accident. The chair was rolled into the elevator which was installed in the executive mansion during the illness of ex-President Wilson.

TAX VALUATION OF ENTIRE STATE IS $8,253,883,446

The total assessed valuation of all property in Illinois for 1928 is $8,253,883,446. This figure was released yesterday by the state tax commission. The total is $507,168,324 less than the 1927 total of $8,762,051,780, and also less than the 1926 total of $8,391,162,272.

Cook county's reduction is $411,432,027, while that for downstate is $96,736,307. The total county valuation of $4,341,969,414 is slightly more than half of the state's total.

County Clerk Sweitzer yesterday declared that tax rates for the county would not be fixed until next week. The overlapping of the county's 429 taxing bodies necessitates days of computation to determine rates for each district in the county, he explained.

NOW---Use the Waterways For Your Profit . . .

Chicago and the upper Mississippi Valley have been handicapped by lack of an outlet to the sea. Now, a new trade-route is open, the last link in the Lakes-to-Gulf Waterways has been assured by Congress. Chicago is a partner with New Orleans. This second port of the nation becomes your gateway to the markets of the Pacific Coast, of Latin America and the Orient.

The Barge Lines that carry your manufactured products to New Orleans will meet ten trunk railways and 90 steamship lines to world-ports. Publicly-owned port facilities . . . wharves and warehouses, conveyors and elevators . . . add their efficiencies in the transfer of your merchandise. And through New Orleans, the established source of supply for Latin America, you can dominate that rich, expanding market of 110,000,000 people, ready and eager to buy.

President Hoover has said of the Waterways Program, "This is the march of nations." And it is the irresistible march of commerce, with Chicago and New Orleans united as leaders. Plan now to use the waterways as your short-cut to new markets and new profits.

★ The Chicago Association of Commerce estimates that 200 million tons of merchandise from the Chicago area will follow the new short-cut to New Orleans and world markets.

THREAT TO LYNCH OFFICIAL; CALL FLORIDA TROOPS

Prosecutor Warned Mob Is Being Organized.

Starke, Fla., April 25.—(AP)—A company of National Guard infantry was placed under arms here tonight and held in readiness pending word from Gov. Doyle E. Carleton, to quell any disturbance which may arise as the result of what has been termed an old feud between two prominent families of the Raiford community.

Four men alleged to be members of one faction were in widely separated jails tonight as the result of two shootings from ambush, in which the life of Postmaster Lewis Ritch of Raiford and members of his family were jeopardized.

Gets Telephone Call.

The National Guard was asked for by State Attorney Hollis Knight, who acted upon an anonymous telephone call received by Casper Duncan, county tag agent of Lake Butler. Duncan told the state attorney his informant told him to get his tags and other records out of the store of State Senator E. D. Andrews at Raiford, as a "mob intended to burn the store and then go to Starke and lynch Senator Andrews."

Senator Andrews is the father of Ben Andrews and the grandfather of Carl Andrews, two of the four men who are being held for investigation as a result of the attempt on Postmaster Ritch's life. The others held are Tuck Tomlin and H. R. Nobles.

Battle with Officers.

Tomlin was placed in the Union county jail suffering from wounds he suffered in a battle with officers who approached his home late yesterday to arrest Ben and Carl Andrews. The Andrews escaped at the time, but later surrendered to officers.

State Attorney Knight said bad feeling has existed between the Andrews and Ritch families several years as the outgrowth of a trial of one of the members of the Andrews family on a charge of robbing a postoffice. Postmaster Ritch was said to have testified for the prosecution in the trial.

STANDARD OIL OF N. J. MAY ENTER CHEMICAL FIELD

New York, April 25.—(AP)—The New York World says rumors in Wall street are to the effect that the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is preparing to take an important place in a new field, the industrial chemical industry.

In doing so it may become one of the chief competitors of the Du Pont interests of Delaware and of vast German chemical industries.

The report was partly confirmed by Edgar M. Clark, director of the company in charge of chemical production, who said that the company is spending $300,000 or more in erecting a laboratory to augment its already large chemical facilities in Bayway, N. J.

Scientists employed by the company are reported working on many new chemical products which the company hopes have a great future in the industrial field.

ITALY TO RAISE LOAN FOR TURKEY TO STEADY MONEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ANKARA, Turkey, April 25.—Italy's latest move in playing "big brother" to Turkey is an agreement to raise a loan of between $5,000,000 and $25,000,000 to stabilize Turkish finances.

An Italian syndicate, headed by Count Volpi, former Italian minister of finance, has smoothed the way for Turkish credit facilities in London. The present arrangement is for a credit of $5,000,000, but the syndicate has consented to raise as much as $25,000,000, if necessary.

Count Volpi's syndicate has obtained a concession from the Turkish government for the construction of a port at Mersina for the development of the cotton growing industry in rich alluvia, Cilician plain, with Mersina as an outlet.

Robber Slugs Man of 70; Captured, Gets Clip on Jaw

Pursuing an armed Mexican who had slugged him with a pistol butt when he resisted a holdup, Frank Barkey, 76 year old proprietor of a shoe store at 249 West 63d street, drove the robber into the hands of Police Sergt. Michael McFadden and his squad last night. Barkey retaliated for the pistol butt blow with a swing to the Mexican's jaw when the squadman captured him. At Englewood station the prisoner identified himself as Judas Martinez, 30, of no permanent address.

Holds Up Drug Store Near Evanston Police Station

C. J. Gist and D. H. Bricker, clerks in a Walgreen drug store at 634 Davis street, Evanston, a half block from police headquarters, were locking the store at 1 o'clock this morning when an armed man about 30 years old held them up, forced them inside, and compelled Gist to open the safe after locking Bricker in a storeroom. The robber took an estimated $900 from the safe and locked the clerks in the storeroom, the door of which they battered down an hour later, whereupon they telephoned the police.

THE MIDWEST AND THE WATERWAYS.

The rivers and harbors bill as passed by the house contains an appropriation for the Illinois waterway and a provision authorizing the federal government to take over the Erie and Oswego canals in New York state. Minnesota, North Dakota, Wisconsin, Michigan, and Montana have organized to oppose the New York proposal, and some of these states and other lake port states will endeavor to put an arbitrary limitation on the amount of water to be diverted into the Illinois waterway.

Central states opposing the New York waterway are committed to the St. Lawrence waterway. Advocacy of that project has been weakening in the middle west for good reason. It has seemed impossible to reconcile various Canadian commercial and electric power interests to it, and the advantages which were supposed to be inherent in it have been fading out. It is still, however, favored by the owners of certain classes of lake shipping which see in it an extension of waterway for deep draft boats and which have opposed the Illinois and Mississippi waterway and the New York waterway. These shipping influences have been successful in determining the conduct of the lake states and the grain states both in legislation and in litigation.

It is shortsighted conduct. The purpose of giving the New York waterways to the federal government would be to develop and operate them as carriers from the lakes to the eastern markets with export facilities such as will be provided at the outlet of the Illinois-Mississippi waterway. New England and New York are large importers and consumers of grain and a water rate to these markets can be more profitable to western growers than a dubious export trade by way of the projected St. Lawrence way, which has Canadian factions against it.

These central states opposed to the waterway systems which are a part of their heritage are easily led by the nose. They have been so led throughout these controversies, in court and in congress, to their own great disadvantage and limitation. They make strange alliances to their own damage.

AN OPPORTUNITY FOR THE ART INSTITUTE.

The Association of Arts and Industries some time ago completed the collection of a fund of $260,000 for the founding of an industrial art school in Chicago. The sum has been deposited with the trustees of the Art institute, it was stated at a dinner given by the association recently, and is to be augmented by a gift of $100,000 from the Laura Spelman Rockefeller fund. The school has been opened in connection with the Art institute, but it is not yet equipped or organized in all its branches.

A new school in an established institution is likely to encounter opposition from those who do not sympathize with its mission. It is also likely to suffer neglect at the hands of those who do understand its objectives but resent any change in the academic routine. We hope that the trustees of the institute and the men at the head of the institute school of fine arts avoid these pitfalls. In establishing a department of industrial arts the institute is breaking new ground in American education. There are many schools of fine arts in this country, but only a few which can make any claim to giving adequate instruction in industrial design. Here is an opportunity for the Art institute school to become the leader where esthetic leadership is lacking today.

It is no disparagement of sculpture and painting to say that they do not touch the daily life of the average American as frequently as do the industrial arts. If popular taste in decoration is deficient, as a visit to our more gorgeous moving picture palaces suggests, it is to no small extent because the American people are relatively unfamiliar with the principles of good design in the things they have about them in daily living. There is great room for improvement in the design of furniture, china, glassware, lamps, carpets, textiles and books, to name only a few conspicuous items which are a part of every one's existence. There are studio craftsmen who produce beautiful objects in all these categories, but their work reaches only a few. The great need is for designers whose work is adapted to the requirements of machine industry and mass production. These men and women must know the principles of design, and they must be equally familiar with machine processes. It is no easy task to build up a school which will serve these two purposes, and if the Art institute succeeds it will have a great achievement to its credit.

Needless to say, the success of the school promises much for the future of Chicago's industries. They would have the first choice in obtaining the services of talented pupils. They would have the opportunity to send talented workmen to the school for part time instruction. With the increasing emphasis on style and color in commodities of all sorts, from coffee pots to automobiles, the value of leadership in design in any industry is manifest. Chicago has the chance to become the style center of the world for machine products as Paris is the style center for women's clothing. It is an opportunity which we hope will not be lost.

THE AIR MAIL TO BUENOS AIRES.

"Stops will be made in the Guianas, Venezuela, Ecuador, Peru, Bolivia, Chile, Uruguay, and finally Buenos Aires, which city will be reached at 4:30 p. m. on Friday," says the brief announcement of the United States-Latin American air mail. Seven day mail service has been inaugurated between Chicago and the far periphery of the western hemisphere.

Six years ago THE TRIBUNE proposed an air line to Panama. The venture was extreme in those old fashioned days. Doubts and hesitations arose over the practical difficulties, but progress was made. Today the air line to Panama is a commonplace of transportation, and mail planes weave through the air in a great mesh over all of South America.

With air service to the southern continent now in being, with motor roads connecting the two continents a probability of the next decade or so, with a growing steamship service southward, the north and south of the Americas will be culturally as well as physically less remote from each other. Their tastes and interests will become more homogeneous and the main factors and materials of their economic life will be more in common. The new mobilities of intercourse between the two continents will bring in time a new western world.

TAPPING THE SOFT BOILED EGG.

An unknown but probably large number of American ladies are receiving letters from the Mitre Press, directed by Fudge & Co. at Mitre Chambers, Mitre street, London, E. C. 3. This publishing firm has under way in leather cloth at $6 net a work to be known as the "Principal Women of America," a directory giving short biographies of the most important ladies in the United States. The editors are Lady Augusta Robinson, Col. Sir Herbert Bryan, K. B. E., C. M. G., D. S. O., and Capt. the Rev. R. Shilbeck Smith, M. C., M. A. (late I. A.).

The American ladies who receive an invitation to submit biographical information for this directory of principal women are assured that the greatest care and discretion have been used in selecting the eligibles and that the purpose of the work is to fill the long felt want of European hostesses. The price of the work to the ladies whose lives will make up its content will be $5, which may accompany the replies to the questionnaire.

The fascinations of this enterprise are probably irresistible. Many of the American ladies may have a candid moment with themselves wondering how their names were obtained by these kindly English people who want to help out the European hostesses, but the thought that Norman blood and coronets are there for five dollars will resolve all doubts. Here is a greater gold mine than the Peruvian. It may easily pay the British debt.

The publishers and editors of this book of American dames eligible, if they have five dollars, to English country homes have an idea splendid beyond the imagination of such promoters as have dabbled with Sulgrave Manor, cathedral restorations, hospital endowments, and other worthy approaches to American vanity and solvency. This is a major invasion of the American domain.

Even if American womanhood obtain nothing it would be cheap at the price, and to be included in a list of principal women cannot be regarded as negligible, granting that nothing more comes of it. The British empire is not the work of accident. It is the achievement of a most ingenious little people who come up to their chalk cliffs from their downs and there can see half way around the globe, where anything is loose. If Drake is needed to pick it up he sets sail. If a postage stamp will get it, the mails will do the work. The treasure ships are headed into the Thames again, and it is to be an enchanted spring in the United States.

Editorial of the Day

CARAWAY VS. CURRAN.

[New York Daily News.]

It was a vicious attack that Senator Caraway aimed at Henry H. Curran when Curran went before the lobby investigation committee to tell what the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment is doing.

Taking the published testimony as a whole, it seems to us that Curran did better than Caraway. He did not lose his temper. His good-humored sarcasm was much more amusing than the bullish bellowing of the senator from Arkansas.

All that, however, is more or less beside the point. The point is the great difference which this exhibition has shown to exist between Caraway and the people he represents, and Curran and his following. Caraway is from Arkansas, which is dry. His bullying of Curran doubtless made a hit in Arkansas, and was doubtless so intended. Curran is from New York, which is overwhelmingly wet in sentiment. They were fighting over a blanket law which is supposed to cover both of these states, and every other state, regardless of wide differences in local opinion on the liquor question.

Caraway and men like him control Arkansas. That is as it should be, and New Yorkers can have no possible objection to it. But people who feel as Curran feels about prohibition are in the majority in New York and the other urban, industrial, and, we believe, more advanced states.

Where is the sense or justice in a federal law which presumes to give Caraway and his sympathizers the right to dictate to Curran and his sympathizers?

In ten years this law has made no headway toward real enforcement in the great cities and industrial areas of the United States. The people of these sections have not allowed, do not and never will allow the wishes of the agricultural south and west to be forced upon them in this matter. The battle between Caraway and Curran is merely another explosion in a conflict which will not be settled until the eighteenth amendment is repealed or allowed to die the natural death of an unenforceable law.

We hope, though we don't expect, that Senator Caraway will be as viciously anxious to drag out the secrets of the various dry lobbies, when his committee gets around to them, as he has been to make Curran tell all. Probably Senator Blaine of Wisconsin, the only wet on the committee, will be the only investigator to show any such zeal against the dry organizations.

BE GOOD TO AGEING LIVER.

J. S. S. writes: Will you kindly state what diet or treatment one should pursue for injury to the liver caused by toxic condition of blood stream?

REPLY.

When a man develops diabetes we put him on a diet which spares his pancreas as much work as possible. When a man develops Bright's disease he is taught to protect his kidneys by diet and in all other ways. When a man develops heart disease his exercise is regulated to fit the capacities of his heart muscle. For the same reason we should temper the wind to the shorn liver.

Like the weather, we talk about the subject constantly, but few undertake to do anything about the weather, and the liver likewise gets nothing but talk. It can be assumed that practically every person over sixty years of age should lighten the load on his liver. That large organ has been doing a vast amount of important work for a long time and it has earned the right to an old age pension. If a man has been a gluttonous eater, has always soaked his food in pepper sauce, horseradish, mustard, or like condiments, his liver may go on strike at an age earlier than sixty. If he has been an alcoholic addict the likelihood is greater still. If there has been a gall bladder infection or gall stones, it is almost certain that the liver has been damaged.

It is established that glycogen is a protective agent for the liver. Probably this is also true of the closely related sugars. Surgeons know enough to protect the liver through certain emergencies by the use of these foods. This suggests that people with crippled livers get considerable of their calories from sugars, assuming the pancreas to be reasonably sound. On the other hand, certain foods that throw a considerable strain on the liver should be eaten sparingly. At the head of this list should come alcoholic beverages and following them closely pepper, sauces, mustard, horseradish, and condiments of that group. Eggs should come next. An excellent food for adolescents and younger people, eggs should not be a standby after middle life. Meats should be eaten sparingly. Greatly needed by growing children, adolescents, and men doing hard work, the need of them by elderly people is slight. Fats should also be eaten in limited quantities.

IT WAS TURPENTINE RASH.

J. S. W. writes: I had a few pimples on the back of my neck and fearing it might be barber's itch, I put all my hand would hold of common turpentine labeled "pure gum turpentine," and placed it all around my neck, ears, etc. Some time later my neck became covered with very small pimples, with here and there a larger one. They began discharging a fluid and increased in great quantities. I could not lie down and could not find relief in any position. This fluid seemed to dry and yet discharged. This continued for at least thirty days. I was informed I had prickly heat.

REPLY.

This was not prickly heat. It was a turpentine rash. Such rashes get well after the cause has been removed. Good care and a little treatment hastens the cure.

MILK AND ORANGE JUICE.

B. F. writes:

1. I wish you would tell me what is the cause of nervous headaches.
2. How could I manage to drink orange juice for breakfast and still keep milk on my menu? I have heard they do not go well together.

REPLY.

1. Indulgence in emotional drunks.
2. Somebody has been deceiving you. Milk mixed with orange juice is the favorite food of infants. Adults combine them, of course.

REFRIGERATOR DOES NOT COMPLY WITH LEASE.

Chicago, April 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—Our lease reads, "Refrigerator with suitable drain pipes." A refrigerator was installed but a pan was inserted under it requiring removal daily. It was understood that drain pipes would be put through the floor so that the water would drain into the basement.

1. Can we withhold the rent until the pipe drain is put in?
2. We do not care to break the lease. Would like to know what recourse we have. The building is in the hands of receiver, who does not even reply to our letters.
3. Can we have drain pipes installed and pay for it with our rent?

J. M. G.

1. No. 2. One course would be to notify the landlord that if he does not comply with the lease in this respect by a named date, you will hire the work done and sue for the cost.

If the landlord is not financially responsible, you would run little risk in deducting the cost from your last month's rent.

3. See preceding answers.

WAR WIDOW'S PENSION.

Chicago, April 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Does the state of Illinois pay a civil war widow a pension? 2. Is such a widow entitled to a real estate tax reduction? S. L. S.

1. No. The only pension comes from the federal government. 2. There is no legal provision for such a reduction or exemption.

EVICTION NOTICE NOT EXECUTED.

Chicago, April 23.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. If a person has a lease on an apartment and an eviction notice is served, but not executed, does that give the lessee the privilege of canceling his lease?

2. If eviction is executed and lessee forced out, can the lessor collect rent from the evicted party, provided he is earning enough to pay rent?

3. Could wages be garnisheed for such rent, or for back rent due? L. S.

1. No. 2. It is not clear what you mean by "executed." A judgment for possession would cut off the accruing or subsequent rent. The landlord could collect rent already accrued. 3. Yes, by appropriate court proceedings.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HONK! HONK!

Wonder what sort of person would be barred from driving a car in Chicago or out in the great state of Illinois? We heard of a deaf and dumb man who was arrested the other day after running his car into another motor, and from what we have noticed as we've driven around in our Learn-to-Drive car there are a great many deaf and dumb drivers, while others are totally blind. One armed men drive cars, and while we have never seen it we imagine that men without any arms wouldn't be interfered with if they drove with their teeth. One legged men, no legged men, and men without arms or legs could probably get away with driving a car around Chicago.

Puling children, soft on top of the head and wet behind the ears, are driving cars, as are palsied old gentlemen who are probably not a day over one hundred and twenty-five. But you don't have to get a license to drive an auto in Chicago. Down in old York state it's different. Before you can drive down there, if you're a resident, you have to take a state examiner out with you, and he makes you drive up the side of the Woolworth building and do a Brodie off the Brooklyn bridge before he is satisfied you are competent to be turned loose on the jay walkers.

But out here in the great free midwest anybody that is able to crawl up on the driver's seat is supposed to be fully able to drive. We compel chauffeurs or anybody who drives a car for hire to have a license, but as far as we are concerned we would just as soon be hit by a chauffeur driven car as by one engineered by a blind, deaf and dumb man with one arm and one leg. Well, the accident record of motor accidents is up pretty high and still going, and maybe, perhaps, some day we may do something about it.

THE POLICE have got a sphygmomanometer, a little machine that is put on a person's arm and is sure to reveal whether or not he is telling a lie. That may be good for little things like murder, but tie it on the arm of a hard boiled fisherman when he tells you he caught a muskellunge which weighed sixty-nine and a half pounds up in Eagle Lake. He'll look thoughtfully at the sphyg and then say, "Right, that was a lie; the damthing weighed eighty-five pounds."

GRAY DAYS.

Falsetto of spring trembles over the waking hills,
Harbinger of buried delights to come,
The breath of the great river rises in fox-fog,
And the melancholy whistle of the first steamboat
Screams like the cry of a lost soul;
Memories of other and happier springs
That one had thought dead and done with
Come slinking back through the chill mist,
And yet even they can be exorcised
By the presence of one red cardinal

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 26, 1865.

WASHINGTON.—Secretary of War Stanton announced: "A dispatch has just been received by this department from Gen. Grant, dated Raleigh, April 24, in which he says: 'I reached here this morning and delivered to Gen. Sherman the reply to his negotiations with Johnston. Word was immediately sent to Johnston terminating the truce, and the information that civil matters cannot be entertained in any convention between army commanders.'"

ALBANY, N. Y.—President Lincoln's funeral train reached this city tonight, and the mayor, common council, and other dignitaries conveyed the remains to the assembly chamber, where they will be on view to the public from 1 o'clock a. m. until 10 a. m. tomorrow. At the way stations between here and New York—Manhattan, Yonkers, Dobbs Ferry, Irvington, Tarrytown, Sing Sing, Fishkill, and Poughkeepsie — large crowds were waiting for the train and gave evidence of their deep grief. In New York hundreds of thousands witnessed the departure of the train. Men and women wept like children.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill.—The committee on selecting a burial ground for President Lincoln concluded preliminary arrangements for the purchase of the Mather place, paying for it and other lots adjoining $53,000. The body will arrive here on May 3 and lie in state in the hall of representatives until 9 p. m. of May 6.

NEW YORK.—The Express claims to have intelligence of the surrender of Gen. Johnston's rebel army on April 19, the day after the armistice between Sherman and Johnston.

CHICAGO.—Fayette Hooker of Chicago and Miss Frances E. Reed of Brooklyn, N. Y., were married in the latter city on April 20 by the Rev. J. B. Thomas.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 26, 1900.

LONDON.—The siege of Wepener has been raised and the Boer commandos which have been threatening Col. Dalgety's force for several weeks are in full retreat. Lord Roberts announced in dispatches to the war office. Another dispatch from Roberts indicated that Gen. French was moving rapidly eastward in hopes of intercepting the retreating Boers before they can reach Ladybrand.

CHICAGO.—While leading six pickets in an attack on three nonunion employés of the Baker-Vawter company, manufacturing stationers, 1102 Marianna street, Peter V. Miller was shot and killed by Henry C. Baster, superintendent of the factory. John McGuire, another picket, was shot in the shoulder. All the others in the mêlée were badly bruised. The killing was the climax of three months' trouble with strikers at the plant. Numerous other outbreaks of lawlessness in connection with strikes in various parts of the city occurred during the day.

CHICAGO.—Bishop and Mrs. Charles Edward Cheney celebrated the 40th anniversary of their marriage at their home, 2409 Michigan avenue. Parishioners of Christ Reformed Episcopal church joined in the celebration.

CHICAGO. — Weddings yesterday were: Miss Bertha Phillips, daughter of Mrs. T. S. Phillips, 347 Dearborn avenue, and William Alexander Field of Kenosha, Wis., at the Phillips home; Miss Alice Elizabeth Giles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Giles, 2537 Michigan avenue, and Dr. Edward H. Siler of Detroit, at the home of the bride's parents; Miss Sarah Baxter, daughter of Mrs. D. Frank Baxter, 7 Scott street, and George Berg, at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles L. Strobel, 657 Division street; Miss Elizabeth Welling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Welling, 46 Madison park, and Edgar A. Stevens at the home of the bride's parents.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

APRIL 26, 1920.

WASHINGTON.—The former home of Admiral George Dewey, purchased by popular subscription and presented to the hero of Manila bay on his return to the United States in 1899, has been sold and is being dismantled for conversion into a store.

SAN REMO.—The supreme council decided to send to the American government a formal offer of the mandate for Armenia.

THE NEW TRACTION ORDINANCE.

Berwyn, Ill., April 25.—It appears to me as though an improvement could be made in the method of presenting the new traction ordinance for the approval of the public.

The indeterminate feature of the franchise is a radical departure from the usual form of contract ordinance. Never having been approved by the people, it should be submitted to the voters, to determine whether or not they want to be tied up by such an ordinance.

I am not taking sides for or against an indeterminate contract, but am pleading that the public be given an opportunity of expressing their desires in the matter. If an indeterminate ordinance is properly drawn it is no doubt all right, but there is no question but what the utility companies prefer the indeterminate ordinance, believing that it will protect them longer and prevent competition.

Why is advantage being taken, at this time, of the cry of the public for a settlement of the long delayed traction question by offering only one bid and that of an untried indeterminate ordinance? Why do they not offer the people a choice of ordinances? At least one of the usual term contracts as well as an indeterminate franchise?

If such a course were followed it would not look so much as though the committees were trying to force the indeterminate idea down the throats of the public, whether they wanted it or not, and would also give the people the benefit of competition.

GEORGE E. SANFORD.

A DISASTER AVOIDED.

St. Louis, Mo., April 16.—I read with interest a recent letter calling attention to the danger of double decked, one entrance buses. A few weeks ago I was a passenger on an interstate bus when the gasoline tank [75 gallons] caught fire. The bus was single decked, with the aisles clear, which allowed the passengers to escape without harm [one by way of a window], but the spread of the flames was so rapid that I am convinced that a similar accident to one of the buses complained of would almost inevitably result in loss of life.

A GOLD STAR MOTHER.

Chicago, April 17.—THE TRIBUNE of April 15 prints, in bold type, "Arrest of Gold Star Mother for Rum Sale." My opinion is that, if guilty, she has no respect for her son who was killed in action and surely should feel disgraced for breaking the law of the country for which her son fought and died. Out of respect to the "Gold Star Mothers" this alleged law violator should not be referred to as a Gold Star Mother.

M. LANDOSER.

THE ROOT FORMULA.

Easton, Pa., April 16.—There is observable on the part of the more responsible advocates of the Root protocol a willingness to have the country believe that the document accepts the senate's fifth reservation along with the rest. Less responsible advocates have not hesitated to broadcast that the protocol accepts the five reservations "exactly as they were formulated by the senate."

Nothing is clearer thar that this protocol does not accept the fifth reservation, though both in its preamble and in its article V., which deals with the fifth reservation, there is what in a document of less gravity might well be taken for a futile attempt to preserve the appearance of acceptance.

Thus the preamble recites that the states in the court aid the United States "have mutually agreed upon the following provisions regarding the adherence of the United States . . . subject to the five reservations formulated by the United States," notwithstanding in the body of the instrument the states in the court "accept the special conditions attached by the United States in the five reservations upon the terms and conditions set out in the protocol."

Article V. begins valiantly, "With a view to insuring that the court shall not, without the consent of the United States, entertain any request for an advisory opinion touching any dispute or question in which the United States has or claims an interest," yet not only wholly fails to insure against any such act, but points the United States to the door if it does not like the act when committed.

Upon this showing the President permits himself to tell the country that by the action of the natons the statute of the court "has been amended to meet the senate's reservations and to go even beyond those reservations," and Mr. Stimson permits himself to tell the President that "the objections which caused the senate reservations have been met."

JOHN W. FARQUHAR.

SAFETY IN HOSPITALS.

Chicago, April 15.—We read so often of patients jumping out of hospital windows that it is about time the building department got next to itself and compelled all hospitals to place window guards on all windows above the first floor.

FRED W. SCHMIDT.

NO PROPAGANDA.

Chicago, April 10.—I wish to express my appreciation of the article by Scrutator appearing in the April 10 issue of THE TRIBUNE. This is just about the only article which I have seen in the newspapers or magazines which is not flavored with some sort of chain store propaganda.

MEXICAN INDIANS, FEARING MAGIC, SLAY SCIENTIST

8 Arrested for Murder of Norwegian Doctor.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, April 25.—Mexico today was stirred as details of an unusual crime which harkens back to the days of the Aztec empire became known.

Dr. Edgar Kuhlmann, noted Norwegian geologist, who has traversed most of Latin America on geological missions, was murdered on Holy Thursday last week in Amozoc, in the state of Puebla. He had arrived that same day with letters of recommendation from President Ortiz Rubio and the state governor, Jose Andrew Almazan. He was received in consequence with all courtesy by the local authorities and was assured that he would be helped in every way in the prosecution of his scientific investigations.

Goes to Public Bath.

As Dr. Kuhlmann had been traveling through a dusty country he sought a public bath, as there were no baths in the hotel. He was directed to Calpulalpic which is largely pupulated by Indians, and which contains the most pretentious bathing establishment in town. There the appearance of a foreigner with a notable Germanic cast of countenance excited the natives, already excited with the religious festivities of Holy week.

The story soon spread like wildfire among the Indians that Dr. Kuhlmann had come to kill their children and was a pernicious magician come to take the "Tonalli" or guardian spirit from them. No greater mishap can happen to an Indian child than to lose its "Tonalli," since future happiness and health depend on it.

The Indians gathered around the doctor, seized him and carried him into the Indian part of town and proceeded to murder him and perform unmentionable acts of barbarity with the body, which they finally hacked to pieces and threw into a well.

Town Buries Remains.

The news of the outrage soon reached the ears of the town council of Amozoc, who, fearful of the consequence of such treatment of a friend of the president of the republic and the state governor, took the body out of the well and hurriedly buried it in a neighboring canyon.

But the story traveled rapidly to the state capital and Gov. Almazan sent police to Amozoc and arrested the town authorities, who then pointed out Dr. Kuhlmann's grave. The body was recovered and turned over to the German consul in Puebla, who notified the Norwegian consul in Mexico City.

Eight Indians, including the women who took part in the assassination of the Norwegian scientist, were arrested and brought to Puebla. It was said today that the leader had been shot as a warning to the other Indians to respect the laws of civilization.

ITALY CAPTURES 9 AS BOMBERS OF NEWSPAPER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TRIESTE, Italy, April 25.—The men who bombed the Trieste newspaper Popolo di Trieste last Feb. 10, which cost one life and injured many others, were arrested today at Gorizia, near here. The local police thus earned the $5,200 reward offered by Premier Mussolini.

Nine men were arrested, all of whom pleaded guilty except one. The band includes two Jugo-Slav subjects. The others are Italians with Slav names and origin.

The special tribunal of Fascist public safety is already on the spot busying itself for the forthcoming trial, which is expected to be a sensational episode of political drama in the unhappy Italian-Slavic relations.

Transport Strike Ties Up Shanghai; Hinders Million

SHANGHAI, April 25.—(AP)—Transportation facilities in the foreign sections of Shanghai, consisting of the international settlement and the French concession, were demoralized today by a strike of employés. Increased wages and rice allowances were demanded by the Chinese. The strike resulted in the most serious transportation demoralization in recent years, inconveniencing 1,000,000 persons.

HELD AS RUSTLER

MISS MARION FLEMING.

2 WOMEN JAILED ON CHARGE OF STEALING CATTLE

The sheriff of Billings, Mont., wired the Chicago police yesterday that they apprehend two women as cattle rustlers. Last night Mrs. Ella Dinsdale and Miss Marion Fleming wept in a detective bureau cell, protesting innocence of the charge, while more wires arrived from the sheriff supplementing his accusations.

Two young men now in jail at Billings, according to the Montana sheriff, have confessed stealing poultry and cattle, implicating the two women. The youths told the Montana authorities that the women spotted the loot during the day, and that all four stole the stock at night, taking it to the Dinsdale home to dress and butcher.

"How utterly silly," said Mrs. Dinsdale yesterday. "One calf they talk about was given me by the boys in exchange for room and board.

"The automobile we drove here is mortgaged. But I went down to the finance company and gave them my sister's name, her address at 1036 North Dearborn street, and even her apartment number where I'd be visiting."

LUMBERMEN ASK TARIFF AID FOR THEIR PRODUCTS

The National Lumbermen's association yesterday adopted a resolution urging congress to adopt duties on lumber and lumber products.

The resolution stated that imports from Canada and Russia are contributing to the present depression in the lumber industry. Explaining that the wood problem in the country today requires emphasis on utilization more than on forest perpetuation, Dean T. C. Spaulding of the forestry school of the University of Montana, in a letter to the association, said his department would be transformed from a school of silviculture to one of wood technology.

The dean said a forest products laboratory would be established immediately to coöperate with the United States forest products laboratory.

BANKERS' CLUB TO GET REFUND ON DUES TAXES

New York, April 25.—[Special.]—More than $200,000 in taxes on dues and initiation fees will be refunded to the Bankers' Club of America, according to a decision of the Court of Claims, announced today.

The claim for the refund was based upon the contention the Bankers' club is a luncheon club, and, therefore, exempt from taxation of this sort.

The original case by which luncheon clubs were ruled exempt from taxation of this sort was decided in favor of the Aldine club, also of this city.

Later, in test cases, the Engineers' club and other similar organizations received exemption from the same sort of taxation on the grounds they were organized for educational purposes.

Col. Reid to Retire; with Marines 30 Years

Col. George C. Reid of the United States marine corps, now in charge of the central recruiting division with headquarters in Chicago, received authorization from Washington yesterday to retire after more than 30 years of service. Col. Reid is 52 years old. He entered the marines as a volunteer officer in the Spanish-American war. He served in the Philippines in 1899 and in China in 1900. In 1912 he saw active fighting in the Nicaraguan revolution, and his heroism in battle while he was commanding a battalion at Vera Cruz in 1914 won him the navy medal of honor. Col. Reid lives at 7642 Greenview avenue.

NUDIST APOSTLE (IN TUX) GETS EYE BLACKED BY FOES

French Town Turns Down No Clothes Cult.

BY ANN SOMERS HOUSE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LILLE, France, April 25.—What price decency? Can nudists be Christians? If everybody walked about naked, would that improve public morality?

You've got to be an ardent apostle of that new religion of "nacktkultur," or nudism, which certain circles in Germany advocate to make the world "happier, healthier and more decent" to fight out those above three questions against the notables of an ultra-decent, arch-conservative northern French provincial town. Dr. P. Vachet, to whom nudism is the very bread of life, tried this venture in the good town of Lille, and got away with only one black eye and a good deal of mud on his coat and trousers.

Debate Cult at Meeting.

With three venerable doctors, one attorney general, and one war invalid thundering with mighty words against the nudist evangelist [who had donned a well tailored tux for the occasion], nudism got a severe defeat at the Lille contradictory meeting about this new faith.

Young gents and flappers in Lille, however perfect their anatomy, probably will not dare for some time to practice nudism, even if the fashion should spread noticeably in "wicked" Paris. Nudism will be taboo for at least a decade more in Lille, if we are to believe the opponents of Dr. Vachet.

"Tuberculosis and cancer are the two results of modern degeneration brought about by clothes," the Nudist prophet dared to proclaim before a packed hall of foes. "Because it misunderstood the beauty and grandeur of love which creates life, because it invented the notion of sin, the Christian religion has led its followers slowly but surely to physical degeneration. Let's doff clothes and become beautiful and decent again, as were the old Greeks and all primitive peoples."

"Nudists suffer from a phobia of modesty," Dr. Delassus, a colleague, but not a friend of Dr. Vachet, hurled back at the latter in reply. "You naked cultures are pagans; you hate the Christian religion. Decency and modesty are innate in man; that much we all have learned from our studies of ancient civilizations and even of the most primitive peoples of Africa."

"I met the attorney general of Lille this morning," thundered one of the professors of Lille's law school, "and showed him a Nudist album Dr. Vachet had illustrated. The attorney general told me: This album contains several photos of totally naked persons. If this album is offered for sale in Lille, I'll start prosecuting."

A French war invalid, and municipal councillor of Lille, M. Guilbaut, then related how he had seen Germans practice nudism in Lille when the town was occupied by the German armies during the war. This account settled matters for Lille and Dr. Vachet slipped out of the hall amid the clamor of angry shouts.

Oil Fumes Kill Nudist.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, April 25.—The zeal of Georges Gronner for nudism today caused his death. Spending the week at the nude colony's island in the Seine he refused to wear more than the flimsy trunks which is the uniform of the cult. But yesterday afternoon the cold became so bitter that he closed up his tent, lighted the oil stove, and crawled into bed.

This morning M. Gronner was found dead and his wife was in a critical condition from carbon monoxide poisoning caused by fumes from the stove.

German Views British Nation in War Light

BY WILLIAM E. DODD.

[Chairman of the Department of History, University of Chicago.]

"England, Its Character and Genius," by Wilhelm Debelius, translated by Mary Agnes Hamilton, M. P. [Harpers.]

Here is one of the interesting specimens of international assessment and drastic, if sometimes appreciative, criticism which reveals on the part of its German author something of the deep emotion of the most moderate of scholars and on the part of its translator and sponsors something of the policy of Englishmen willing to republish unfavorable judgments of themselves: a work of fundamental and frank criticism, put out with praise by those criticized.

Wilhelm Debelius, professor of English language and literature at the University of Berlin, a German of healthy Protestant and Nationalist convictions, a scholar of vast learning, has written this critique of the life and genius of the English people. It is an amazing piece of war work, published first in Germany in 1922 to explain to his fellow Germans the peculiar genius of Germany's greatest enemy, perhaps not an enemy at all.

With more of liberality than one might have expected and with honest admiration even of the less desirable traits of the English people, Debelius reveals nevertheless somewhat of dogma in his own intellectual makeup. He shows on many pages the common German belief that English leaders purposely engineered the malevolent entente of 1904-'14; that at the moment of embarrassment and excitement over the murder at Serajevo the hypocritical English let loose the dogs of war.

This is a naïve view which one would hardly expect from so profound a student; but it is a view thousands of others, only a little less learned, in Germany teach every day. If Debelius had been able to think of German, French, and English nationalist ambitions as all on a par his book would have surpassed in its keen judgments and practical usefulness all other works of the kind.

Even with this plain limitation this work is in essential respects superior to A. Lawrence Lowell's "Government of England" and more penetrating than the late James Bryce's "American Commonwealth."

Having said so much of the general character of the volume in hand, it remains to show what are its positive contents: the basic ideal of English life is love of liberty, an article of faith which the author thinks was brought into the troublesome island from northern Germany in the fifth century. But Englishmen also entertain a definite philosophy of a proper social order, an ideal of compromise, nothing in excess, little by little through the ages: near-democracy at home and imperialism abroad, an unchanging love of power and dominion, the desire to plant their standards upon every shore of the known world and maintain them there by honest or dishonest devices.

The author's statements are supported by innumerable references, and there are countless incidents in modern history that tend to bear him out. He does not, however, balance his picture by pointing out that all other of the so-called Christian states of modern or earlier times did or endeavored to do most of these reprehensible things. But he goes on to say that in the long process Englishmen have evinced a strange habit of pious assertion of high ethical principles and occasional individual actions of undoubted generosity. This pretense of disinterestedness Debelius calls plain hypocrisy; he almost reaches the point of declaring the English a race of hypocrites and implies again and again that other peoples are not hypocrites.

After analyzing the fundamental traits of the most marvelous people of Europe, the author proceeds to show how they manage their affairs. Government is democratic and yet its methods aristocratic. Oxford and Cambridge are hardly as much institutions of learning and research as schools of training and coaching for the imperious rôle English gentlemen must play in India, in Canada, and South Africa.

The Englishman's religion is the most difficult of problems for Prof. Debelius. It is all a mere nationalistic ritual which requires a short prayer in a cathedral each Sunday morning and in the presence of a priest. It is not understandable on any other ground than that it is English.

In these and many other departments of life the author of these acute chapters follows relentlessly his subjects, analyzes their motives, and describes their behavior, now bestowing high praise for knowing how to set other peoples by the ears, now condemning for saintly professions as to saving men's souls. Profound and simple at the same time, this book is a most valuable and suggestive portrayal of a unique people. The wonder is that an eminent English woman would translate it and that great newspapers would praise it.

Beg Your Pardon

In our review of Clemenceau's "Grandeur and Misery of Victory" we said that some of the first keen edge of its possible thrill had been removed for American readers by the fact that it had been published some time ago in French. Mr. Alfred Harcourt, the book's American publisher, writes to say that it was published simultaneously in France, England, and the United States, on April 12 (the day that we reviewed it).

"There have been endless precautions taken ever since Clemenceau's death to avoid leakage, and these were completely successful," he says. "Collier's Weekly serialized less than 20,000 words in three installments, March 28, April 4 and April 11, the same days that the Daily Telegraph in London and L'Illustration in Paris serialized the same material. Nothing of the book was published in France some months ago."

We are sorry to have made that mistake. We remembered especially an interview which we read in a New York paper with Valentine Thompson some time in late January in which she spoke about the book and we made the mistake of thinking she was talking about a book already published.

The basis of that tremendous patriotism manifested by the great "Tiger" is considered in a book called "France, a Nation of Patriots," by Carlton J. H. Hayes, professor of history at Columbia university, published by the Columbia University Press. He says the French are the most patriotic people in the world, not because they are born so, but because they are made so. And Prof. Hayes tells how. It is especially interesting after reading the Clemenceau book.

Book Auction Successful; Means Start of Series

The book auction held last Monday night was successful beyond the dreams of its promoters. It was the first auction of its sort ever held in Chicago, but it will certainly not be the last. It was sponsored by collectors and rare book dealers and it brought out unexpected numbers of Chicago collectors in person. They had planned on 155.

Over 500 came and the auction had to be moved en masse to larger quarters. The auction brought over $8,000 and the prices for some individual items was even higher than had been realized in New York auction rooms. Two items brought over $400 each, the commission of Ninian Edwards, the first governor of Illinois, and a Lincoln letter.

It might be said that this coöperative auction has put Chicago on the map as an auction center for rare books, first editions, manuscripts, and autograph letters.

Books About Children Are Based on Late Science

Two books which the forward looking parent must own, they say, are "The Modern Parent," a practical guide to everyday problems, by Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph. D., head of the division of parental education, Cleveland college, Western Reserve university, and "Guiding the Child" on the principles of individual psychology, by Alfred Adler, professor of psychology at the Institute of Vienna, and associates. They are both published by Greenberg.

Gorki Offers Slav 'Hamlet' of Holy Russia

Tells of Mental Wars Under the Czar.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Bystander," by Maxim Gorki. [Jonathan Cape-Harrison Smith.]

Maxim Gorki is, for Europeans and Americans, the outstanding literary figure of Russia. He has occupied that position for many years, although for the last few his production has been practically negligible in quantity.

At last there has come a book called "Bystander," which Gorki himself calls his life work, his ultimate test. It offers American readers a picture of Russia absolutely authentic, for it is not only an in-growing, but an outgrowing entity. Gorki has been for some years away from his native land. He has had an opportunity to gain a perspective, which the years of his intense popularity in his native land must have made difficult. He can see his race from the outside, and he is tensely racial enough never to have lost the inside understanding.

"Bystander" will be, to most American readers, I should say, a puzzling book. To understand it, one must understand not only the Russian scene, but the Russian psychology, for it is written, not from the observation of an onlooker, a "bystander," if you will, but from the intense passionate feeling of a participant. And to understand literary work of that intensity one must understand the elements which compose it.

There is a phrase used in it countless times when the young radicals talk with one another—and they talk incessantly and passionately. They are fond of saying, about emotions, that they are "thought up." If Mr. Gorki had not put that phrase into our hands we would have manufactured it ourselves (if we had been clever enough), for it explains perfectly the emotions, the style, the manner, even the technique of the novel.

Everything in the book is induced intellectually. Mr. Gorki wanted to make, he has said, a character that would have the qualities of a Hamlet, a youth who did not participate, but watched, who did not feel, but thought. In other words, his hero is not a passionately alive human being, but a lay figure "thought up" by the author, to personify an idea.

The author has "thought up" the situations the other characters, the whole emotional and psychological warp and woof. The result is an extremely interesting literary job, but one that is likely to leave the reader either baffled or chilled.

He is less baffled, however, when he realizes that the essence of Gorki's psychology is inherent in the method and the material, the essence in a larger sense of the Russia which groped blindly, then powerfully, but blindly, tore itself from its roots, and then still blindly tried to rebuild a civilization which it had uprooted. The baffled sensation which the reader feels is not his own but that of the Russian national groping portrayed by Mr. Gorki.

It is not about the newest Russia, at all, that Gorki writes (although one might have expected it to be), but about a Russia before an earlier revolution when Marxism and Tolstoiism were the passionate cleavages among the radicals.

There are over seven hundred pages of "Bystander," and somehow it seems fuller of words than any book that I ever have read—perhaps because the characters are forever and ever talking, discussing life, hopelessly, but desperately and passionately, on and on, never doing or feeling so much as thinking. And the author, all of the time, is thinking, too, not feeling. The result is a strange, baffling, but tremendously impressive novel.

Modern Library Praised.

The Modern Library more and more lives up to its name. There have just been added to it Ernest Hemingway's "The Sun Also Rises" and James Huneker's "Painted Veils." "Anna Karenina," by Tolstoy, and those two long short stories of Henry James', "The Turn of the Screw" and "The Lesson of the Master," and a collection of plays by Anton Chekov are all boons. The Modern Library is the best book bargain in America.

BOOKS OF TRAVEL TELL EAST'S PUZZLE AS WELL AS SIGHTS

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—It seems as though the east was engrossing all attention in London at the present time. India is in the thoughts of all, and the number of books about India which are coming out is very great. Some of them are good, some not so good; but if we do not all know everything that is to be known about India very shortly, we shall never know it.

LADY HOSIE.

Nor is India the only part of the east that is engrossing attention, for Somerset Maugham's book, "The Gentleman in the Parlor," which must be one of his best, is being widely and enthusiastically read as it deserves. I have never read a book of travel which I enjoyed more than this. Mr. Maugham is the ideal companion upon a journey. He tells the reader all that is most interesting—about himself.

In this way, the journey is a real exploration, while so many travel books are nothing but heaps of dead facts about nothing in particular. And besides Mr. Maugham, who went from Burma, through Siam, and to Haiphong, there are others. There is, for example, Lady Hosie. But Lady Hosie is not so much a traveler as a living voice of China. She was born in China, and she loves it with a great part of her heart—though not all.

She has written a new book about China which all American women should read, for it is about the women of China that Lady Hosie in this book has so much to tell. The book is called "Portrait of a Chinese Lady, with Some of Her Contemporaries." It is more than a portrait of a Chinese lady. It is a picture of all the women of China. As such it is full of human interest. It is very humorous, very amusing, very wise.

There is an account in it of a talk with a Chinese princess which is absolutely enchanting—for the princess is no fool, and she says a few startling things in the course of what is in effect a monologue. In the form of what seems at first a pleasant, anecdotal account of a journey in China, Lady Hosie shrewdly analyzes all the serious problems of life in that country, especially those which affect women.

Lady Hosie now lives in Oxford. This is not her first book, for some years ago she wrote one which was called "Two Gentlemen of China."

Rudy Vallee Studies What Public Wants

Tells How He Knows, What That Is.

BY ALTA MAY COLEMAN.

NEW YORK.—He has wavy chestnut hair, blue eyes, and gently serious smile, this Rudy Vallee whom no less an authority than William Boltho pronounces a genius. Now, in all works of genius there is an element that defies definition; so it is only to be expected that Rudy's book does not explain his charm. But as regards turning that magic spark into the fireworks of success, Rudy did it . . . and page by page explains exactly how he did it.

RUDY VALLEE.
[Kesslere Photo.]

Not by dreaming, for all its title, "When Vagabond Dreams Come True." From the time when this idol of the femininity of a nation first set his heart on a silver plated saxophone his days and nights have been divided into split seconds of exactitude. Hard work, his motto . . . long hours, unswerving purpose . . . all the cardinal virtues, with the necessary modern corollary, "Give the public what it wants."

With his autobiography, now in its fifth printing, he has turned the trick of success by the same rule. For those "het up" about Rudy Vallee there is his own genuine, if often naïve, record . . . preferable, indeed, to any "ghosted" professionalism. And those not greatly perturbed by Rudy find darn interesting reading about themselves . . . in this almost scientific treatise on Monsieur, Madame and les Mademoiselles General Public.

Now for the complete lowdown on London, look to Helen Josephy and Mary Margaret McBride . . . natives, respectively, of Marietta, O., and Paris, Mo. These authors of "Paris Is a Woman's Town"—the French Paris, of course—have this year supplemented it with "London Is a Man's Town, but Women Go There." Armed with these gaily informing volumes, the traveler can advance on foreign parts secure in the knowledge that he has been preceded by two intrepid young ladies who give him the net results of having tried everything once.

Miss McBride, who is plump, with eyes of topaz, and Miss Josephy, who is slender and has eyes black as sloeberries, were guests of honor Wednesday afternoon at Mrs. Paul Reinhardt's resplendent tea.

Miss McBride told us that her mother, worried by neighbors' tales as to the hectic life of a litterateur in New York, had remarked at the end of her recent visit that she couldn't see anything "immoral" in going to bed at nine and getting up at six—her daughter's daily working routine. Miss Josephy imparted that books in London are advertised by sandwich men . . . on publication days a dozen walking advertisements stroll the streets. Book gambling is a fad; hence publication dates are more important than over here. The first edition of Robert Graves' latest was sold out in three hours . . . because somebody had a tip that it was to be suppressed.

Meetings and Lectures

Under the auspices of the Norman Walt Harris Foundation of Northwestern University, Prof. Edward Kennard Rand of Harvard university will give a series of six lectures on "Virgil, the Magician." Narcissus
A NOVEL OF CHICAGO SOCIETY
By John Hawley Roberts
A brilliant novel, ultra modern in thought and action, daring in theme and treatment.
The theme of the book is an interpretation of the classic story of Narcissus in terms of modern life and modern character with the scene laid today in the smart social world of Chicago. The hero, a young man about town, like his prototype, held his body too beautiful to be shared with women.
It is the story of a present day man's progress through life, from boyhood through adolescence to the realization of his manhood. Beloved of women, his wealth and position brought him into contact with the most fascinating and seductive women of fashionable society. And then, his supreme test was provided by an uncle who devised a week-end party that should, he believed, make his nephew more a man and less like a god.
How that test was met concludes this most amazing and startling story.

SYNOPSIS.

Catherine West of Boston, on her way to Paris, meets Geoffrey Macadam in the Havre to Paris train. Macadam is an Englishman who lives in Paris. Catherine tells him that she is going to visit her cousin's widow, Mme. Belmont Bender. She is a little apprehensive about the coming visit because she had received just before sailing a letter from Hermione Cushing, who tells her that Mme. Bender is far from well. Macadam is a lawyer and he tells Catherine that his firm handles Mme. Bender's affairs, but he doesn't know the widow very well. He had heard that she was ill. Arrived in Paris, Catherine is a little disappointed when her cousin's chauffeur is not at the station to meet her. Geoffrey sees her into a taxi, giving her his address and telephone number. He tells her that he will be anxious to know how things are at the Bender apartment and she promises to call him. Arrived at Mme. Bender's apartment, she is treated coldly by the servants and Jeanne, Mme. Bender's maid, suggests that she go to a hotel. Catherine insists on staying in the apartment as she is suspicious of the servants. Jeanne tells her that Mme. Bender attempted to commit suicide the night before. The next morning Catherine goes in to see Germaine Bender, who is pathetically glad to see her. She tells Catherine how she had taken poison by mistake.

Geoffrey invites Catherine to dine with him and it is a relief for her to get out of the apartment and to tell him of her vague fears. He is disturbed, too. Geoffrey escorts her back to the apartment, where she finds herself locked out. Geoffrey manages to arouse Eduardo, the butler, by knocking. He resents the butler's manner as the latter explains that he thought Miss West had come in long before.

The next morning Catherine calls on Miss Cushing.

A LUDICROUS IDEA.

It was unfortunately so easy to see why Miss Cushing wanted to believe her friend sane, since evidently she was hoping to obtain a will in her own favor.

"Don't you think," Catherine contented herself with saying, "it would be much better for Mme. Bender if she could be persuaded to go out?"

Her hostess raised a plump hand excitedly.

"Ah, now you shall hear something!" she cried. "I, too, knew that it was bad for her to remain always a prisoner, in that tiny room with scarcely any air——"

"Why does she use that room?" interrupted the girl, curiously. "I've been wondering."

"It is simply one of the poor dear's peculiar notions. She grew up in a convent, and all her girlhood was accustomed to a little bedroom like a cell. Since Harry's death she has gone back to the time before she met him. That is all! She told me so herself. . . . But to continue. . . ."

It seemed she had been cooped up there for months, dreading the daylight, shrinking from the idea of strange faces. No wonder she was as white as a sheet of paper and trembling from weakness. At last, in January, by dint of great diplomacy and opposed every step of the way, Hermione had persuaded her to go for a drive. The car was brought round from the garage where presumably it was standing idle, the invalid was assisted downstairs.

"I went with her, my dear, so I can describe what happened. When we were out in the avenue she was astonished to find the chestnuts bare. You see, she had lost all count of time. Everything went well until she caught sight of the car, then suddenly I saw her tremble and turn the color of chalk. Can you guess why?"

Catherine could not.

"Nor could I, at first. Then I saw that it had been newly done up. It had been pale beige before, but now it was black outside and in—paint, upholstery, all. Jeanne's idea, for it had been left to her. Now I want to tell you something strange. I had already noticed, on several occasions, that Germaine, since Harry's death, has had a horror of black. I dare not even wear a black dress when I go there. Not that she admits it—she is far too sensitive about showing her peculiarities—but I know what I am saying is true. Well, to return. All during that drive the poor thing sat huddled in her sable coat, shaking like a leaf, her eyes staring ahead of her. When we got her home again, she tottered to her room and fell across the bed in a dead faint! That was three months ago. Since then the very mention of going out throws her into a panic. Nothing will induce her to stir foot outside the apartment."

Catherine listened in distress. She had often heard how almost impossible it is to uproot the fixed ideas of a neurasthenic.

"You can see," went on Miss Cushing shrewdly, "how that incident played into Jeanne's hand. She blamed me for what had happened, and has redoubled her efforts to keep me away. She's a deep one! Believe me or not, she is wholly determined to keep Germaine under her thumb."

"You don't mean to suggest," ventured the girl in helpless amazement, "that she had the car painted black on purpose to keep Mme. Bender from using it?"

"That, my dear, is exactly what I believe to be the case. Everything points to it."

The idea was ludicrously improbable. Catherine concluded that her companion was a woman of incurably romantic mind. Moreover, she remembered what Geoffrey Macadam had said last night about the warfare between Miss Cushing and Jeanne, and the likelihood of there being a good deal of reciprocal jealousy mixed up in it. Perhaps indeed the pot was taking a venomous delight in denouncing the kettle's complexion.

"You will not forget, mademoiselle, that you have an appointment with the modiste," she announced in her deep voice. "It is almost six o'clock."

"Mon Dieu! Is it so late?" cried the singer, starting up, "I must go at once. Catherine, my dear, perhaps you would care to come along with me? My milliner lives only a step from here, and you may be glad to know of some one who will do up things cheaply. Oddly enough," she added confidentially, "it was this same Jeanne who first told me about her, almost ten years ago!"

Although Catherine had little faith that her own ideas of hats would coincide with Miss Cushing's, she agreed, since there was no reason why she should go home just yet. Accordingly a few minutes later she followed her hostess down the narrow stairs, it being manifestly impossible to walk abreast of her. The spinster had arrayed her vast form in a coat composed of two quite different kinds of fur, suggesting that it had been fashioned from separate garments donated by wealthy friends—as was indeed the case. This she wore with an indescribable air of elegance, while her step was light, even jaunty. She might have been a debutante, sallying forth, sure of conquests.

Skirting the rear of the Gare St. Lazare, they arrived at the rue d'Amsterdam, then half way between the rue de Londres and the Place Clichy they turned into a somber court and ascended a staircase at the back. At the first floor, before a door bearing the single name, "Honorine," lettered in faded gilt script, they paused and rang.

A little apprentice in a black apron admitted them to a square room, whose windows overlooked the court. In the center was a table heaped with felt hoods of various colors, straw shapes, bits of velvet and ribbon. At a smaller table between the windows two young girls sat, making hats. They glanced at the newcomers without interest, going on with their work.

"If the ladies wouldn't mind waiting a moment," the apprentice said, "madame is busy with a client."

"Client!" murmured the younger of the two assistants with malicious delight, "that is a new name for monsieur!"

Her companion caught up a huge pair of shears and snipped off the brim she was shaping.

"Such ardor, coming in the afternoon," she returned, giggling with secret enjoyment. "She's a lucky woman, if you want my opinion!"

"You've said it, at her time of life! It's a mystery to me how she's caught an admirer, a serious one, too. All these years living across the way, and all of a sudden he makes up his mind to marry her. I believe she must have put something in his coffee."

"Beer, you mean!"

They giggled again, secretly savoring their morsel of gossip.

While Miss Cushing rustled the pages of a fashion magazine Catherine found herself idly listening to the two chatterers, who continued in undertones, probably ignorant that their audience understood French.

"Of course you forget he's handled her affairs. That makes me wonder if she's saved up more than one thinks she has. Anyhow she doesn't throw it about."

"Well, all I say is, there's hope for all."

Good morning!

Havoc wrought by the brutality and crass ignorance of a Know-It-All forms the subject matter of this movie.

"Vengeance" is somewhat reminiscent of "White Cargo." Staged in a heat-cursed district of Africa, it has its drunken doctor and other disintegrating white men, cussing the climate, longing for home, mopping their brows, and getting on each other's nerves; its unpleasant housing conditions; its swarming blacks. A rubber plantation was the scene of "White Cargo's" action. The men of "Vengeance" are in quest of ivory.

John Meadham, who has been in charge of the West African company's trading post for five years, has had enough of it, and, as the picture starts, has demanded that a substitute be sent to relieve him. He is t-h-r-o-u-g-h—sezze.

Speaks up a member of the board of directors before whom the letter has been read:

"For months Meadham's letters have been filled with complaints. Very well, LET him quit. I, MYSELF, will go out there and show those fellows how things should be done . . ."

He goes, accompanied by his beautiful wife—and he is not the one who does the showing.

"Vengeance" presents an eventful story that is also pretty logical. It is well acted, specially by Phillip Strange as the Know-It-All, Dorothy Revier as the lady in distress, and Jack Holt as the he-man, and is, to my mind, more interest-compelling and interesting than "White Cargo."

"Spring Is Here," adaptation of the musical play, forms pleasing enough screen fare of the light variety; has several charming songs with which you are familiar—"Have a Little Faith in Me," "When I'm Looking at You," etc., and a few bits of clever acting and good singing. The truth, that some of the acting is NOT good; that occasionally the singers burst into song in unexpected and disconcerting fashion—as if somebody had suddenly pushed an electric button in their backs . . . and that Inez Courtney and Frank Albertson, whose performances are really spontaneous and entertaining, haven't singing voices, does not seriously detract from your enjoyment of the picture as a whole.

The story deals with young love, interfered with by a pestiferous papa, amusingly represented by Ford Sterling, and smiled upon by a dumb mamma, not so amusingly portrayed by Louise Fazenda. Miss Fazenda has been losing her light touch lately.

Two beautiful—and modern—daughters have these parents, the elder of whom is beloved by two swains—and you will learn no more of the story here. BUT—there's something doing practically every minute.

Religious Paper Says Churches Gained Less Rapidly During 1929

New York, April 25.—(AP)—The Christian Herald's annual religious census of the United States, released tonight for publication, showed an increase of 300,000 in the membership of American Christian denominations in 1929, compared with an increase of 1,000,000 in 1928.

The census registered a loss of 2,440 for the Methodist group, the first reported since the civil war. The Methodist Episcopal church, however, the oldest of the group, reported a net loss of nearly 25,000 members. The Methodist Episcopal Church, South, reported a substantial gain, and others in the group helped to make up part of the loss.

The Baptist group of 15 bodies reported a total gain of 53,333, while the Roman Catholics reported gains of 77,307, compared with 360,153 for 1928.

The membership of the various churches was listed as follows:

	Bodies.	Members.	Gains.
Methodist	16	9,162,280	*2,440
Baptist	15	9,141,856	53,333
Lutheran	19	2,777,617	62,932
Presbyterian	9	2,698,132	58,785
Disciples of Christ	2	2,006,959	34,553
Catholic [oriental]	10	749,125	*13,800
Mormon	2	687,095	16,394
Reformed	3	567,660	3,657
United Brethren	2	415,443	*4,371
Brethren [Dunkhard]	4	166,867	1,756
Adventists	5	159,787	5,099
Friends	4	106,230	*6,321
Mennonites	13	100,505	523

*Losses.

"One thing stands out unmistakably," said Dr. H. K. Carroll, compiler of the census. "The church is not dying, as some cynics would have us believe, and if it is losing its hold on the people there is nothing in these statistics to show it."

Prize Churches Shown.

Pictures of 21 prize winning churches, selected from entries all over the United States, Canada, and Japan, which entered the second annual architectural competition of the Christian Herald, are now on exhibit in room 404 of the Methodist Book Concern.

The first prize of $1,000 went to the First Presbyterian church of New Rochelle, N. Y., a colonial church erected at a cost of $428,250. The jury of award was headed by Philip Hulbert Froham, Boston and Washington, architect of the Washington cathedral. Elmo Cameron Lowe, Evanston, and Hobart Upjohn, New York, assisted him. The contests are conducted by the Christian Herald to promote better church architecture.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

The Answers.

Mrs. H. W. Bradmiller, 1210 Garfield street, Hammond, housewife — Yes. He does that lots of times. He gets Sunday dinner regularly. He does it because he likes to, and some things he can do better than I can. But he won't do the dishes. They could stand for a week.

Mrs. R. B. Davison, 1836 South 12th avenue, Maywood, Ill., housewife—I think my husband could but I don't believe he would. He does not like house work, perhaps kitchen work least of all. I don't blame him; I don't like it myself. He will wipe the dishes, but he doesn't do it because he's interested.

Mrs. M. V. Hahn, 2606 Central Park avenue, Evanston, Ill., housewife—I am sure he could. He is a better cook than I am, though it is not pleasant to have to admit that. The truth is he taught me how to cook.

Mrs. Ruth Novitt, 4705 North Troy street, stenographer—My husband is always suggesting how to do it better, so he must know something about cooking or he couldn't get away with that. He does some cooking now and then, and has lived up to all expectations.

Mrs. D. Cole, 10 West Elm street, housewife—Yes, but he would rather hire it done. I like to cook, but if I have any work to do that pays me money, I, like my husband, would rather have some one else do the cooking.

Talkies to Be Linked to Europe by New Project

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Berlin, April 25.—Final negotiations are being carried on for the formation of an international talkie company by a representative of the United Artists in Berlin. Max Reinhardt is scheduled to stage a talkie in English with the Berlin actor, Fritz Kortner, as director. The author is Frank Thiess, and Reimond von Hoffmannsthal, son of the late poet, will provide the literary inspiration, while Lillian Gish is slated to star.

Builders Talk of Billions to Erase Slums

Intercity Parley Follows F. D. Roosevelt Plea.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 25.—Plans for a nation-wide program for the elimination of slum areas, involving an expenditure of several billion dollars yearly over a ten year period, were discussed today at a conference called by the American construction council at the Hotel Biltmore.

Representatives of business groups in New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Pittsburgh, concerned with various aspects of that problem, exchanged viewpoints at the meeting. The record of these views, often times divergent, will be analyzed in an attempt to formulate a nation-wide plan, E. M. Craig of Chicago, president of the council, announced.

While slum elimination was the major thesis of the discussion, in the background was the idea that any comprehensive building program also will operate to remedy unemployment. The conference was inspired, Mr. Craig explained, by a recent speech of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt before the New York Board of Trade calling on New York to rid itself of slums. Gov. Roosevelt advocated some national organization to experiment with new building methods, "which the private builder cannot afford to undertake."

George Gove, secretary of the New York state board of housing, said whatever is done to rehabilitate the lower east side cannot be done by the present owners or by condemnation. He said the city of New York pays 200 per cent of the assessed valuation for every plot it buys for a city school, and in many cases, he added, the assessed value is above the real valuation.

Maxweli Whitelaw, a builder, was at variance with more idealistic points of view than his own, saying, "I am for a solution for this thing which is good business. It sums up to me as entirely an economic problem."

BEG YOUR PARDON.

An item April 21 gave the address of Mrs. Henriette Blockert, who won a divorce from her husband, Fred Blockert, as 73 East Elm street. Mrs. Blockert has never lived at the address, officials of the building said.

Half Million Sought as Endowment for Augustana Hospital

An increase of half a million dollars in the endowment fund of the Augustana hospital, 409 Garfield avenue, a Lutheran institution, will be sought by the Illinois conference of the Augustana synod of the Lutheran church next fall. That was announced yesterday at a session in the Central Lutheran church. To have the campaign carried on by the men who have planned it, the conference reElected the Rev. H. E. Sanstedt, Dr. Rudolph, J. M. Westerlin, and Gustaf Olsen, all of Chicago, as members of the governing board of the hospital.

The work of the board of charities in administering the affairs of five institutions was commended and the conference reElected, with a few exceptions, the members of the boards of the Joliet Home for Children and the Aged, the Augustana Home for the Aged at Chicago, the Lutheran Home for the Aged, Grand Rapids, and the Inner Mission board.

Resolutions were adopted praising the work of the American Bible society, but suggesting that the society confine its work to those who are not members of churches, to avoid conflict with the publication houses of the various churches.

Greek Drama Classics to Be Acted in Old Theater in Syracuse

SYRACUSE, Italy, April 25.—(AP)—In an ancient theater, constructed in the fifth century B. C., a host of Italian and Anglo-Saxon lovers of the classic drama will see Euripides' "Iphigenia in Aulis," masterpiece of Greek literature, enacted tomorrow night in nearly its original setting.

This performance, first of the series constituting one of the outstanding features of the Sicilian spring season, has been prepared with the utmost care as far as scenery, costume, and musical accompaniments are concerned.

When the actors appear on the big stage facing the great open air amphitheater the spectators will have the visual illusion of attending the play in the time of Euripides himself. Only the language will be changed, an excellent and close Italian translation having been made from the original Greek.

The "Agamemnon" of Aeschylus will be given Sunday night under the same circumstances, to be followed by alternating performances of the two great plays until May 11.

Stock's Season Ends Tonight at Orchestra Hall

Crash of Drums Closes the Friday Concerts.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

A blare of brass and a crash of drums that nearly raised the roof of Orchestra hall, and the Friday afternoon concerts of the Chicago Symphony orchestra's thirty-ninth season was over. Tonight the same crash will close the season for good.

It was Respighi's inspiriting "The Pines of Rome" that brought the program to an end. Before that there had been much other inspiriting music, Mozart's "The Magic Flute" overture, which is wholly so; Brahm's first symphony, which is partially so; then a movement from Mozart's "Symphonie Concertante," with Jacques Gordon at the violin and Joseph Vieland at the viola, a sheer delight, and Ravel's "Bolero," warranted to attract the attention of the most wandering of mind, and, finally, "The Pines."

The Mozart piece, persuasive as it is, was augmented this time because Mr. Stock had written a long, elaborate, and most entertaining cadenza for the two solo instruments. It is more complex than anything of the sort that Mozart ever dreamed of, and it never steps out of the Mozart idiom. All of which is another testimonial to the skill of a great musician named Frederick Stock.

It has been a busy season. Since it started, twenty-eight weeks ago, the orchestra has played 120 different compositions, the works of fifty-eight composers, and of this number thirty-three were novelties. American music did not show up as well as usual, for only seven pieces were listed from this country and they were not all new. Apparently American composers are not feeling the urge. Mr. Stock will always play their works, asking only that they be written and that they be good enough.

Of soloists during the season there were nine pianists, three violinists, one viola, two cello, one solo singer, and one chorus, the Cincinnati, with its group of soloists. Guest conductors, directing their own works and sometimes also appearing as soloists, were Serge Prokofieff, Ernest Schelling, Alexander Glazounoff, and Alexander Tansman. There was also the case of Sonia Gramatté, who did not direct, but was violin soloist in one of her compositions and piano soloist in another.

"Mirtil in Arcadia," a cantata with text by Louise Ayres Garnett and music by Henry Hadley, was given its first performance hereabouts last night at Orchestra hall as the season's final performance of the Apollo Musical club. The composer was present in the audience, and one can imagine plenty of reason why he should have been pleased with the bright, alert singing of his work.

It is a pastoral after the manner of English poets who write of ancient Greece. To it Mr. Hadley has set music running in distinct sections, rather than in connected acts. All the items are fluent, many and sprightly, and some have a rather marked eloquence in the interpretation of none too deep emotion.

What is best about the work is that it gives many opportunities for effective singing for both chorus and soloists. Conductor Nelson had trained his choristers excellently, augmented for the occasion by an extra chorus of 300 children from four junior high schools of Chicago, and had displayed equal acumen in the selection of six highly capable soloists. In detail they were Olive June Lacey, Margaret Lester, and Helen Hedges, sopranos; Eugene Dressler, tenor; René S. Lund, baritone, and Elias Day, narrator. The instrumental accompaniment was played by the Little Symphony orchestra. In all respects it was an event as greatly to the credit of the author and composer as to the participants.

Mary Dalton, pianist, and Jane La Boda, soprano, two young artists who are plainly talented, appeared in joint recital at Curtiss hall last evening. Miss Dalton played Bach and Beethoven with a good, firm touch, and with excellent understanding of what the music meant. Miss La Boda not only has a voice of unusually pleasant quality and some idea of how to control it, but has accomplished much in the art of clear enunciation of the German and Italian languages.

Art Crowding Marts of Trade, Nooks, Crannies

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

All sorts of curious and unusual places are being thought of today as successful refuges for art. The lobbies of cinema palaces, the walls of a book store, an end of a room piled high with stuffed chairs and indolent couches, the confines of empire under domestic rule, the cook, all of these have been and are being employed as exhibition places in Chicago. Today the Narcissus room, seventh floor, Marshall Field's, intrigued us and through the thousand perfumes of as many meals we went to find the first annual Pictorial Chicago and Chicagoland salon arranged upon walls inset within the lunch room.

If one can banish the thought of exactly where one is, the improvised gallery is quite passable. One walks in and out between walls pleasantly lined with prints and the maze yields one up at the end of ten minutes firmly convinced that Chicago is one of the pleasantest places for outdoor sports that the United States boasts. In fact, one feels almost inclined to pity any other less well blessed city. Our parks, our golf courses, our bridle paths, our fountains, our Michigan avenue, our incessant building, our superb towers, our river, our harbor, our boats, our children, our dancers and actors, our Goodman theater, our football stadiums and our baseball fields, our Chicago university, our churches and places of business—there are any number of things for us to be proud of, and proud we can be with this glowing account of the glories and beauties and opportunities we have, set here face to face with us all.

Everything unpleasant has been left out. Everything pleasant, including a magnificent portrait of Ruth Page, the dancer [is she a Chicago institution?], has been dilated upon. Considering the hurry in which the idea was conceived and developed, the exhibit is truly remarkable. The average of the photographs runs high. A great many men deserve warm and appreciative thanks. The Chicago Camera club has played a noble part in this collection of good prints.

Among those photographs which were given a first prize for one or another reason are "The Majesty of Chicago" by M. Gurrie, "Skyward" by R. W. Trowbridge, "Below Zero" by H. K. Shigeta, "Sunlit" by John Skara, "Chicago Skyline" by Godfrey Lundberg of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE staff, "On Duty" by Leonard Purin and "Morning Downtown" by Alfons Weber, F. R. P. S.

The exhibit will remain on view to May 7.

Smooth, Happy Days Follow Wise Regime for the Small Child

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

It is interesting to find an instance of the fact that a little child loved and understood, in happy surroundings, will develop no serious difficulties in behavior. I have before me a letter I want to quote as evidence. Omitting the opening paragraph, which is one deeply inspiring because of its appreciation—and I wish I could tell mothers how encouraging such letters are—parts of this letter about a little 2 year old follow:

"Her bedtime, naptime, meals, and personal hygiene have been well established since tiny babyhood.

"If I see a tendency to turn away and leave unfinished part of the meal, I remove the plate and say nothing. [I noticed that tiredness or an oncoming illness will often take away her appetite temporarily.] Daddy and mother always say how good things are and B—— says, "Mamma, this is so good," and smiles all over.

"Her toothbrush habit was so easy to establish. I let her watch me clean my teeth every day. Then one day I brought home a tiny brush for her and put it beside daddy's brush and her own tube of paste. I never speak to her about her teeth. I just clean my own and that does the trick. Now it is after every meal and at bedtime, all of her own volition, and every one speaks of her white teeth.

"Daddy is quite a romanticist. His wee, red headed daughter is as much as he. Daddy takes B—— upstairs, takes care of her needs and attentions before putting her into pajamas. Then he takes her in his arms and in a soft, gentle voice talks to her of many things, and then they go to the front bedroom window and look for Mr. Moon and all the stars. If stars and moon are not present, they are supposed to be sound asleep and in either case she says softly, 'Sweet dreams, moon and stars.'

"Then daddy and daughter talk softly of little J——, her playmate, tucked in her bed across the street, and B—— says, 'Sweet dreams, Mary's house, and sweet dreams, Danny's house.' It's so sweet to watch them in the moonlight in the dark room and hear their voices so confiding and low. Then kisses for mother and daddy and we both tuck her in.

"Daddy isn't home much, but he never gives up those precious few minutes and B—— loves her daddy and mother dearly and shows love in the shine of her eyes."

Forced Landing Brings $1,000 for Young Musicians

Through the forced landing of two college music teachers during a storm last winter, the National High School Orchestra and Band camp at Interlochen, Mich., was $1,000 richer yesterday. A check for that amount was received from Mrs. J. Ogden Armour.

It was on her estate, Melody Farm, that Prof. J. E. Meddy, head of the public school music department of the University of Michigan, and Prof. John A. Minnema, dean of music at Elmhurst college, Elmhurst, Ill., landed during a flight from Milwaukee to Urbana, Ill., to conduct an all-Illinois high school orchestra.

Keepers at the estate reported the incident to Mrs. Armour. The camp was established three years ago to give musical training to outstanding young musicians. In 1931, those trained at the camp plan to appear in European concerts.

Venetian Youths Buy Flowers for Girls at St. Mark's Fete

VENICE, Italy, April 25.—(AP)—The youths of this queen city of the Adriatic were out bright and early this morning patronizing the flower stalls in the public square. For on this day, feast of St. Mark, patron of Venice, every self-respecting engaged man is bound by tradition to present a rosebud to the lady of his choice.

Blooms from all over the Venetian hinterland were brought in great quantities into the city for the festival, and few were the ladies without bouquets or their escorts without decorated buttonholes.

Solemn high mass was sung in St. Mark's cathedral in honor of the evangelist, the patriarch of Venice, Cardinal Lafontaine, attending and imparting the benediction. The banners of the proud old republic were displayed from the public buildings and many private houses, and the gondolas were for the most part decorated.

Bishop Blames Noisy Preaching, Meddling for Vacant Pews

Champaign, Ill., April 25.—(AP)—The Rt. Rev. Campbell Gray, Episcopal bishop of northern Indiana, tonight blamed "taboos, inhibitions, and obsessions" for what he termed the lack of Sunday observance. He addressed the annual mid-western student conference of the Episcopal church.

Bishop Gray said those who have been taught that the chief object of Sunday is to hear sermons have grown weary of what he said was "sensational evangelism, book reviews, labor Sundays, tuberculosis preachments, and the modern so-called readjustments of ancient faith and morals."

"The attempt to turn the Christian's Lord's day into the Sabbath of the Old Testament has failed, and failed utterly as it ought to fail," he said. "Sabbath, originally, was no more a day of worship than any other day of the week. It was a day of rest.

"We need not worry ourselves about innocent Sunday amusements and the church will be filled with worshipers if we have the courage to restore the Lord's service to its rightful place as the chief act of worship on Lord's day," Bishop Gray concluded.

Walked Right In.

One rainy day I started out with my umbrella to do some shopping in a large department store in our neighborhood. The doors of the store were wide open so I, unconsciously, walked right in and started looking at handkerchiefs on a counter. Imagine my embarrassment when the floorwalker asked me to put down my umbrella as the dripping water was likely to spoil the merchandise. F. S.

Mrs. W. D. Owen Writes Play for Children

BY THALIA

The fourth graders of the Alcott school in Lake Forest have good reason to be set up about their annual school play, to be given at the end of the term, because it was written expressly for them, and the playwright is the mother of one of their schoolmates.

Mrs. W. David Owen, who has done quite a bit in the way of verse, but who never before has assayed the drama, has written "The Golden Scandal," a 3 act play with a prologue. It is a sort of Cinderella story, laid in ancient Egypt and is designed especially for the juveniles' performance.

All of the class will appear in the piece, with a few extras, including the Owens' daughter, Florence Louise, enlisted from the third grade. The parts haven't been cast, as yet, but the actors and actresses will include Helen Dick, the A. B. Dicks' daughter; Barbara Buchanan, daughter of the De Witt Buchanans; Carol Harrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carter H. Harrison Jr.; the Wayne Chatfield-Taylors' Adelaide, Jane Stevens, Helen Fauntleroy, Bobby Carton, son of the Alfred T. Cartons; Andrew Armstrong, Henry Dangler, son of the David Danglers; Sandy MacArthur, the Alfred MacArthurs' young hopeful; Gordon Potter, James Soper, and Vaughan C. Spaulding Jr.

Mrs. Owen did some of the writing of the play in Florida. She returned recently. Wilhelmina, the baby of the family, was left in the south, and is arriving tomorrow morning. Mr. and Mrs. Owen are planning to go east next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cook of Evanston announce the engagement of their daughter, Barbara, to Adin B. Capron of New York City, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Capron of Mount Vernon, O. Miss Cook is now in her senior year at Wellesley college. Following her graduation in June, she is to accompany her mother, her brother, Ira B. Cook III, who is to graduate from the Hill school; her sister, Miss Mary Cook, who will finish at the Sarah Lawrence school at Bronxville, N. Y.; and Miss Betty Cook to Europe for a year of travel and study. Mr. Cook is to join his family next spring before they return to this country.

Mr. Capron and his family are easterners, having lived formerly in Rhode Island, and he is a graduate of Brown university. There is no date set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Dunlap Cameron Clark of 5529 University avenue are being congratulated upon the birth of a daughter, Alison, at the Chicago Lying-in hospital on Wednesday.

Mrs. Thomas M. Howell of 2708 Lakeview avenue and her daughter, Miss Helen Howell, are to sail on May 3 on the S. S. Bremen for England, where Miss Howell is to be presented at the court of St. James on May 27. She is to make her debut next season.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. McCutcheon and Mr. and Mrs. Tiffany Blake sailed yesterday afternoon on the steamship Majestic for Europe. Mrs. Clifford D. Caldwell was another Chicagoan on the passenger list.

WEDDINGS

The marriage of Miss Jane Collins LeVally, daughter of Mrs. B. C. LeVally of Evanston, to Gilbert Ward Amberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Ward Amberg of 1311 North State street, will take place this afternoon in the rectory of Holy Name cathedral. The ceremony will be followed by a reception, tea, and dance at the Drake hotel. Mrs. Harold Howe will be matron of honor for Miss LeVally and the groom's sister, Miss Agnes Amberg, will be bridesmaid. Bertrand Amberg will be best man for his brother.

Mr. and Mrs. George Douglas of Asheville, N. C., announce the marriage on April 17 of their daughter, Elizabeth, to Marvin Waterbury Thompson of Chicago. Mr. Thompson attended the University of Illinois and was an officer in the air service during the world war. After May 1 they will reside in Evanston.

County School Girls to Enter Contest as Growers of Corn

Overalls are going to be standard with four girls of Elk Grove District school No. 59 this summer, and these "farmerettes" near Arlington Heights will have company in other similar groups all over Cook county, according to E. J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools, who is completing entry records of a boys' and girls' acre corn growing contest.

Nearly a hundred in five districts are expected to do all their own work in competing for prizes both for greatest production for their acre and for lowest cost of production per bushel on one acre.

Winifred Mueller, Marie Pomplum, and Hilda Finke, all aged 13 and eighth grade pupils in the Elk Grove school, asserted yesterday that their plans are complete to enter the production division of the competition, and that Dorothy Wolter, also in eighth grade, will be with them in the contest. Homer J. Byrd, district superintendent of Elk Grove, Wheeling, Norwood, and a part of Maine and Leyden townships, is elated at having the schoolgirls competing with the boys in his division and credits Miss Nell Jacobs, principal of their school, for the increased interest.

Daughter of Former Diplomat Tells of Turkey's Big Changes

The old Turkey that was full of mystery, spies, intrigue, is a new Turkey now, as described yesterday by Symayeh Attiyeh. Miss Attiyeh, a daughter of the late Mathew Attiyeh, a diplomat under the sultanate and whose ancestors were among the princes of Arabia, told of the astounding changes. She spoke before the Executives' club in the Hotel Sherman.

"The old Turkey was dark and mysterious," she said. "But Mustapha Kemal has separated church and state. For the first time since 600 A. D. he has abolished polygamy, the fez, and the veil.

Four Japanese Girls, Touring U. S., to Be Here May 1

The four Japanese young women who are in America to thank this country for aid given after the earthquake of 1923 will visit Chicago next Thursday, May 1. The day of their arrival the girls—Kimi Ashino, Sumiko Tokudo, Yoshiko Sato, and Yoshiko Matsudaira—will attend a breakfast given by the Junior Red Cross, and also two luncheons, one given by the Association of Commerce and the other by the Tokyo Woman's college. A reception that night will be given by the Chicago chapter of the Red Cross at the Casino club.

Among their hostesess will be Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Abel Davis, Mrs. James B. Forgan, Mrs. George A. McKinlock, Mrs. Morris Johnston, Mrs. Joseph Cudahy, Mrs. Arthur Meeker.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., April 25.—Vice President Curtis was a guest in whose honor Tytus Filipowicz, Polish ambassador, gave a dinner, followed by a musical, this evening. The 26 guests included, in addition to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, brother-in-law and sister of the Vice President; the Mexican ambassador, now dean of the corps, and Senora De Tellez, the Finnish minister, Mr. Astrom; the Norwegian minister and Mme. Bachke.

The new Spanish consul general in Chicago, Senor Muguirdo, is the guest of the Spanish ambassador and Senora De Padilla for several days, and will attend the luncheon tomorrow which they will give in honor of Lucrezia Bori, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera company, which closed its three days here this afternoon. Miss Bori sang in "La Traviata."

Marriage on the Rocks; Husband Asks for Advice

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"I am a married man, having been married four years, and have a boy of 3 and one 15 months old. Lately my wife started to run around with young girls and does not seem to care for me any longer. To tell the truth, it may be on account of my drinking. But get me right, Miss Blake, it is through her that I drink.

"One of the girls she goes with has a bad reputation, though she is only 17. I hate to tell the wife, as she jumps down my throat if I try to give her advice. I am writing because I care for her a great deal. In fact, I love her and I'll go crazy if anything happens between us. M. J."

That's a decent enough admission about the drinking bringing on your trouble, but you shouldn't have spoiled it, M. J., by blaming the wife. A wife does not drive a man to drink. Only a loosening of moral fiber makes a man take to it. So don't offer that excuse to anybody else, least of all to the wife.

You are going to need all the grit and moral stamina you can muster together to face your present domestic dilemma fairly and squarely. When a young wife gets out of bounds that way, a man is face to face with a difficult situation. If you have lost her respect, there is the important business of building it up again. You can do it better by reproaching yourself in her presence than by trying to fasten the blame elsewhere.

It would seem with those two small children and you resembling more the man she loved, getting her to see the folly of her ways would just be a matter of a short time. But you'll have to prove to her that there will be compensation in love and fairness from you in future.

Those young rebels of wives are not easy to handle once they get out of hand. But they can be tamed. Suppose you go to her, frankly admitting your fault and promising sincerely that you'll do what's right in future and see if that hasn't some effect.

If she is hesitant, get some older woman or man friend to try to make her see what she is heading for and what she is letting the children in for. If that does not help, she'd better be put on Domestic court probation.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Jellied Orange Peel.

The ideal way to make any orange string, or candied orange peel, is to cook it in a sirup in a covered utensil which will hinder evaporation mostly, or really cook the peel in steam so that it will not be hard when finished, but as soft as a gum drop. This sort of peel is interesting and fine enough with its own natural color; in fact, nothing can be handsomer than the orange shade when it is made bright and shining. The fact of its attractive appearance as well as its flavor has had a great deal to do with making it popular as an afternoon tea confection, and today with our striving for color in our meals, and especially in dainty collations like the afternoon tea, this is an item that should not be neglected. Instead of a plain sirup it can be cooked in fruit juices and the sirup at the end will be more serviceable for other use than the plain one.

The peel of one large orange candied will fill eight or ten little fancy paper cups, which are often used in serving this confection. First, cook the peel in quarters, changing the water two or three times if you wish to make the candied peel less strong, although in this way you may run the risk of making it insipid or give it an off taste. After it is cooked you may either leave on the white or scrape it off with a teaspoon, then cut the peel in fine strings.

For the peel of one orange thus cut up in strings, take one-half cup sugar and one-half cup water and cook them to a sirup, first stirring the sugar until it is completely dissolved, then bring to a boil and boil for three minutes. Put in the peel, cover it and simmer for fifteen minutes, skim out the peel and drain it, roll it in sugar and put it on the wire plate to dry. When the surface is dry and the whole partially so, put it away in a covered glass utensil so that it will not dry out or dry up. If it does become bone dry, however, it may be rolled fine and used for seasoning purposes.

One way to color it is to have instead of the sugar and water sirup one made of a half cup of currant jelly to a half cup of water and a half cup of sugar. Cook in the same way. Apple juice and grape juice make other colors.

WOMAN'S AND MISSES' DRESS.

The pointed treatment of the vestee and of the circular flounce of the skirt of this princess type frock add to the effect of slenderness. The horizontal tucks at the waist line show clever handling, breaking the width, as they do, to give the figure a slender line. Printed and plain crêpe silk, chiffon, georgette, and crêpe marocain are smart materials for this dress.

The pattern, 3414, comes in sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20 years and 32, 34, 36, 38, and 40 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 3⅝ yards of 39 inch material with ⅝ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

How to Order Clotilde Patterns.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of such patterns as you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin [coin preferred; wrap it carefully] for each number, and address your order to Clotilde Patterns, CHICAGO TRIBUNE, 220 East 42d street, New York City.

Small Brush for Eyebrows Is Aid to Lustrous Lashes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If powder were patted on the hair and left to remain there, as it is done on eyebrows, there'd be no end of hair troubles to reckon with. Some women never think of picking up an eyebrow brush and brushing out the powder after the face has been gone over with puff or pad.

And a habit that is not particularly nice to speak about, but one practised commonly, nevertheless, which affects the hair is wetting the finger tips with saliva and removing traces of the powder. That is simply gumming up the eyebrow hair roots.

If you want lustrous lashes, which you should want, have that small eyebrow brush right alongside the hair brush and use it every day. Use it first to brush out dust, grime, and powder flecks. The eyebrows, like the hair, are dust catchers. And the skin surface in which is embedded the eyebrow roots should be kept just as clean and clear of foreign particles as is the skin on the head.

It is a little thing—but vastly important to eyebrows. Two brushes really ought to be on hand, one kept dry for cleaning the eyebrows and one for oiling them. When cleaning them, an incidentally to promote a better growth, brush the brow hairs straight up and down. Then dip the other brush in vaseline or olive oil or in one of the good eyebrow products on the market. With this brush shape the line of the eyebrow just as you would have it grow. I've seen what this performance can do to a pair of rather scraggy eyebrows after four months' treatment. They are so improved you wouldn't believe it.

The oil or cream or whatever you use on the eyebrows can be wiped off with a bit of linen. But don't wipe them perfectly dry, for a bit of gloss on this area is more attractive than a dry effect.

In fact an alluring trick giving a moist freshness to the whole eye area is to dip a finger in cream or vaseline and rub it ever so lightly over the lid and underneath the lower lid. Try it and see. You don't want to look greasy of course. Just put on enough to moisten lightly the surface referred to.

Jean Patou Restores the Flowered Bonnet

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special Correspondence.]—Bunches of flowers, and even garlands of them, trim the smart bonnet this spring. Brims are back, too, so that hat scenery is more interesting than for many seasons, and several kilometers prettier also.

Jean Patou is responsible for restoring floral decorations to millinery, and he is being aided and abetted by many of the greatest French milliners in this back to natural looking flower trimming movement.

The spring hat, however, is no heavier than a lace baby bonnet. There is nothing compelling about it, for straws are light and often transparent, and supple satins, straw lace and tricot are used for many of the most fashionable hats.

At the bottom of our sketch is a Patou bonnet made of black straw, woven into a filet net pattern, showing much of the hair beneath. There is a filet straw brim beginning at the sides and turned up across the back. The trimming consists of a cluster of pink and black violets placed at the right side and at the back. This is the type of hat that smart Parisiennes wear for formal afternoon, theater, and restaurant dining.

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

A neighbor came in to care for three small children during their mother's illness. Upon her arrival she distributed home made cookies, saying, "That will keep you quiet until supper is ready."

Next afternoon she was forced to scold the trio for being so noisy. Whereupon little Billie suggested "Des us needs sumpin' to help keep us quiet 'til supper time."

Follow These Simple Rules

1—Every week-day for 48 consecutive days, (not including Sundays) the Chicago Daily Tribune will print a "Game of Counties" picture. Each picture will represent a County in one of these five States: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan and Wisconsin. You are invited to name the Counties.

2—The Chicago Tribune will pay $5,000 in Cash Prizes to the persons who send in the nearest correctly named and neatest complete sets of pictures in accordance with these rules. See prize list at right.

NOTE—You do not accurately have to name each of the 48 pictures correctly to win. The prizes will be paid to the persons whose entries rank the highest.

3—This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls, except employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families. You pay nothing. Just prove your skill.

4—Pictures are to be submitted only in complete sets. Do not send in each picture separately. Hold all pictures until you have the complete set of 48. Then send them to "Counties," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill. All entries must be in by midnight 15 days after Picture No. 48 has been printed.

5—Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office Dept. Contestants may submit as many sets of pictures as they wish, but no contestant will be entitled to more than one prize. Accuracy will count. Neatness will count.

6—You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the pictures and send them in. The Chicago Tribune may be examined at any of its offices or at Public Libraries free of charge.

7—Judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune. Their decision will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be paid to each tying contestant.

U. S. PUBLISHERS BACK FIGHT ON PRESS GAG LAW

Find Advertising Is on the Upturn.

The Saturday Press, a weekly published in Minneapolis, was enjoined under the Minnesota law in 1927. THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE engaged attorneys to supplement those employed by the suspended publication, but the Minnesota higher courts sustained the suspension. The case is about to be appealed to the United States Supreme court, the report said.

"The association condemns this statute as a dangerous and vicious invasion of personal liberties," the resolution stated, "and this association and its members are resolved to cooperate to cause its annulment and to prevent the enactment of similar legislation."

The publishers also went on record as opposed to the proposed five day week in the mechanical departments as "unsound" and as an "experiment," which would be tried out solely at the publishers' expense.

Last year was the banner year for newspaper advertising, according to the bureau of advertising, which reported that $565,000,000 was invested in advertising in 1929, and that of this amount $260,000,000 was placed with newspapers.

"The business recession of the late fall," the report declared, "had little apparent effect upon national volume, except that a few classifications did not maintain the gains promised by the first three quarters of the year. As expected the year 1930 opened with totals below corresponding months in 1929. Judged by advertisers' plans for the balance of the year, business appears to be moving into an upward curve."

1,500,000 Young Trout Are Planted in Lake

More than 1,500,000 young lake trout were dumped into the deep water fifteen miles out in Lake Michigan yesterday in the second planting of fish made this year by Lincoln park officials. The fish were hatched in the Lincoln park hatcheries and were deposited in the lake under the supervision of John Stratton. More than 20,000,000 walleyed pike eggs will be hatched within the next three weeks and will be planted in the streams throughout the Chicago area, according to Floyd Young, manager of the Lincoln park aquarium.

Contest $100,000 Will; Charge Undue Influence

Mrs. Hilda Lenora Hertzog, widow and second wife of the late Henry Ames Hertzog, retired farmer of Wilmington, Ill., was charged with exerting undue influence to obtain the bulk of his $100,000 estate in a bill to contest his will, filed yesterday in behalf of four nephews, two nieces, two grandnephews and a grandniece, in the Circuit court. The petitioners received bequests of $500. Mrs. Hertzog lives in Harvey.

Poland Jails 20 Terrorists, Seizes Store of Explosives

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WARSAW, April 25.—A vast store of explosives, alleged to belong to an Ukrainian terrorist organization, has been discovered by the police at Lwow. Twenty persons have been arrested. The organization is said to have planned a number of terrorist acts, including the blowing up of the soviet consulate at Lwow.

Radio Study of Brahms is Declared Good

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

Pat Barnes, in his weekly studies of great musicians, chose to meditate and philosophize upon Johannes Brahms last evening, so the W-G-N 8 to 8:30 period was both absorbing and instructive. The life, works, and philosophical traits of the composer fell in well with the philosophical traits of this well liked W-G-N narrator. And the Brahms musical excerpts were well in harmony with the scope and general tone of the W-G-N Symphony orchestra.

From WBBM, the same half hour, a dozen or so Chicago school children poets read their verses, poems, sonnets, or what had they, with the happiest of results. The program was the first of a series to follow weekly.

Last evening also marked the beginning of a new series of weekly programs of a popular nature from W-G-N, the 9 to 10 hour, the talent being the station's two orchestras, several of its most popular vocalists, and, I believe, in one instance, outside vocal talent. That the program was high class in respect to performance and detail is attested to by the fact that it was personally directed by Musical Director Henry Selinger.

WENR, from 9 o'clock to I don't when, held a new studio housewarming party, so to speak, in which the entire station's entertaining staff appeared before the microphone. Some day, when visualized radio is realized, we will be able to see what there is to be seen at affairs like this.

Overcome by Gas Twice in Room at Hotel, Dies

A man tentatively identified as James Fahey, 35 years old, of Detroit, Mich., who was overcome by gas in his room at the Brighton hotel, 503 North State street, on Thursday, died yesterday at the County hospital. The man registered at the hotel on Monday, but had removed all labels from his clothing in an effort to conceal his identity. He was revived once by an inhalator squad and a few hours later was found unconscious a second time, with two gas jets open.

RAID ALLEGED ABORTION FLAT; FIVE ARRESTED

Three women and two men were being questioned by Assistant State's Attorney Nat S. Ruvell last night after the Woodlawn police had raided an alleged abortion hospital in a six room flat at 381 East 69th street. One of the women, Miss Myrtle Thayer, 19 years old, who said she was from a small town in Nebraska, was in bed when the police arrived, and admitted that she had undergone an illegal operation there last Saturday.

With her were her mother, Mrs. Winifred Thayer, and a man who gave his name as J. H. Wessell, 32 years old, 7344 Emerald avenue; Mrs. Rose Williams, 31, a divorcee and a nurse, who rents the apartment, and Earl Cropp, who said he lives in the building and operates a drug store at 69th street and South Park way. All five were taken to the Woodlawn station and were being held there, while the police were seeking six other women whose names were found in the flat.

In the place were three hospital beds, a large quantity of medicine, and several surgical instruments. Miss Thayer, who is a student at the Art Institute, said the operation was performed by some doctor whose name she said she did not know. Her mother said she paid the physician $300 for the operation.

Sentenced for Failure to Push Robbery Charge

Isadore Feingold, Checker taxicab driver, was sentenced to five days in the county jail yesterday for contempt of court. Judge Harry B. Miller in the Criminal court imposed the sentence because Feingold failed to appear on Thursday to press a robbery charge against Martin Lowe and Edward Kirby. They are alleged to have robbed Feingold of his cab and $5.

"I heard my uncle had died," was Feingold's explanation for his failure to appear.

Hopkins Estate Gardener Beats Fellow Toiler; Fined

John Skeri, 47 years old, 821 Commonwealth avenue, Waukegan, second gardener on the estate of Farley Hopkins, 644 East Deerpath, Lake Forest was fined $100 yesterday by Justice of the Peace Sam Sorensen of Lake Forest after he had beaten William Walsh, 45 years old, head gardener, with a club. Skeri and Walsh quarreled over Skeri's working hours. Walsh was knocked unconscious and was confined to his home on the Hopkins estate last night.

MOTORISTS FACE NINE DETOURS IN CHICAGO AREA

Close Mannheim Road for Bridge Work.

Seven detours on important roads in the metropolitan area and two detours on through city streets will be encountered by motorists this weekend. A summary follows:

Mannheim road is closed to traffic between Lake street and St. Charles road from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. on week days and from 8 a. m. to 12 p. m. on Saturdays. The viaduct over the C. & N. W. railroad tracks is being repaved. The traffic is directed east on Lake street to 25th avenue, south on 25th avenue to St. Charles road, then west on St. Charles road to Mannheim road.

The 22d street bridge, Illinois route 55, over the Des Plaines river is in a poor condition. Traffic is advised to turn south on 1st avenue to 31st street, east on 31st street to Des Plaines avenue, then north on Des Plaines avenue to 2d street.

The Inner drive in Grant park is closed to traffic between 16th street and 23d street. Traffic is directed to use the outer drive. This section of road will be open about next Wednesday.

The outer drive in Grant park is closed to traffic between 39th street and 51st street. Traffic is directed to turn west on 39th street to Lake Park avenue, south on Lake Park avenue to Hyde Park boulevard, then east on Hyde Park boulevard to the outer drive. This section of road will be open about next Wednesday.

United States routes 20 and 12, Standard avenue and Dickey place, route to the Dunes highway is closed to through traffic between Forsythe avenue in Whiting and Guthrie avenue in Gary. Traffic is directed to not turn east on 119th street in Whiting, but to continue south on Forsythe avenue in East Chicago, 5 miles to Michigan avenue in Hammond, east on Michigan avenue to 5th avenue in Gary, thence east on 5th avenue to the Dunes highway.

Washington boulevard is closed to traffic between Thatcher avenue and Lathrop avenue. Traffic is directed south on Thatcher avenue to Madison street, east on Madison street to Lathrop avenue, then north on Lathrop avenue to Washington boulevard. This section of road is being reconstructed.

96th avenue is closed to traffic between 183d street and Lincoln highway. Traffic is directed west on 143d street to Wolf road, south on Wolf road to Lincoln highway, then east on Lincoln highway to 96th avenue.

Harlem avenue is closed to traffic between Grand avenue and North avenue. Traffic is directed east on Grand avenue to Sayre street, south on Sayre street to North avenue then west on North avenue to Harlem avenue.

123d street is closed between Kean avenue and Harlem avenue. Traffic is directed south on Kean avenue to 131st street, east on 131st street to Harlem avenue, and then north on Harlem avenue to 123d street. This section of road is closed due to construction of grade separation at 123d street and the Southwest highway.

The road report was prepared by the central traffic bureau.

Intimate Friend of Late Queen Alexandra Dies, 95

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—Charlotte Knollys, bedchamber woman and intimate friend of the late Queen Alexandra for more than half a century and one of the best known figures in court circles, died today at the age of 95. Queen Alexandra on one occasion created a precedent by refusing to leave London for Sandringham at Christmas time because of the illness of her friend.

H. T. ROCKWELL OF ST. CHARLES IS DEAD AT 94

Henry T. Rockwell, 94 years old, a resident of St. Charles for 75 years and one of the oldest and best known citizens of Kane county, died at his home there Thursday night. He had been mayor, postmaster, a member of the legislature, circuit clerk of Kane county, and a member of the county board of supervisors. For 20 years he was chairman of the Eleventh district congressional committee.

Mr. Rockwell is survived by two children, Mrs. E. J. Baker of St. Charles, whose husband was a brother-in-law of the late John W. Gates, and Frank Rockwell, also of St. Charles.

Funeral services will be held at the home in St. Charles tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

STEEL FORTUNE OF FRANK JONES NETS $2,393,973

New York, April 25.—(AP)—The widow and three children receive the bulk of the estate of the late Frank H. Jones, chairman of the board of the Michigan Steel corporation of Detroit, according to a transfer tax appraisal filed today.

Mr. Jones, who died Dec. 10, 1927, left a net estate of $2,393,973.

The widow, Mrs. Clara Wardell Jones, receives a life estate in $100,000 and property at Moose Lake, N. J., and the children, Mrs. Elizabeth H. Barry, Dorothy W. Jones, and Wardell Jones, each receive one-third of the residuary estate in trust. All live in New York.

PLAN SOCIETY FOR ALL WED AT FAMOUS CHURCH

New York, April 25.—(AP)—The Rev. Randolph Ray, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Transfiguration [the Little Church Around the Corner] today announced plans for forming an organization of all couples married in the church since its foundation, 82 years ago.

The organization will be known as "The Little Family of the Little Church Around the Corner." Dr. Ray estimated that 100,000 couples have been married in the church. He himself has performed 15,000 marriage ceremonies since his installation as rector seven years ago.

The organization also will include descendants of these couples.

School Election Set for May 17 in Lake Forest

A special election to name five members of the board of education of the newly created Lake Forest high school district was called for Saturday, May 17, by T. Arthur Simpson, Lake county superintendent of schools, yesterday. Following Simpson's election call, 500 Lake Forest citizens attended a meeting at the village hall last night and nominated Frank W. Reid, president of the First National bank of Lake Forest; Richard Bentley, broker; Ald. Fred Held, laundry owner; Dr. George Sleight, professor at Lake Forest college, and Henry Strenger, plumbing contractor, for the five places on the board.

PAROLES DENIED 2 BOMBERS WHO PLEAD PERJURY

Chicagoan in Death Case Asks Pardon.

Michigan City, Ind., April 25.—[Special.]—Marwood Williams, 41, and Harry L. Ames, 42, both of whom pleaded guilty to placing combustibles in the Hammon State theater, which was blown up three years ago, were denied paroles today by the state prison pardon board, which sat as a parole board at the prison here.

The men are serving 1 to 3 year terms. They were sentenced April 9, 1928. Although they have signed affidavits declaring they perjured themselves in pleading guilty, the board refused their plea.

While the board was paroling a Lawrence county farmer who was sentenced 1 to 5 years for the possession of a still, M. E. Foley, prominent Indiana attorney and dry, said: "There's more drunks here than there were before prohibition." Yesterday he said that Gary must be a mighty easy place in which to get a drink.

Norgar Seeks Pardon.

Fred Norgar, 36 years old, of 525 Surf street, Chicago, who was recently convicted in the St. Joseph county court at South Bend of involuntary manslaughter in the killing of an 8 year old girl when she was struck by his car in Mishawaka, asked the board for a pardon. As his commitment papers had not yet reached the prison, the board suggested that Norgar appeal to Gov. Harry G. Leslie. Norgar, accompanied by the president of the O'Connell & Co. municipal bonding house of Chicago, said that they would go to the capital Monday.

"I am intimately acquainted with eleven governors, know Gov. Emmerson of Illinois, and in my business of meeting state and city executives can't afford to be an ex-convict," Mr. Norgar told the board members. He said he had settled with the family of the dead girl for $1,000, which he borrowed from his employer.

Presents Recommendations.

Norgar had a sheaf of recommendations to present to the board, including one from Father John Cavanaugh of Notre Dame university, and others from Indiana and Illinois bankers and government officials in Washington, D. C. He said he had gone to Paris with Newton D. Baker.

"I'm broke," he said. "This accident has cost be $2,000, and now my attorney, Floyd O. Jellison of South Bend, demands $500 cash before he files a bill of exceptions in my case.

Guggenheim Stepdaughter Files Divorce Suit in Reno

Reno, Nev., April 25.—[Special.]—Jean Potter Solwedel, stepdaughter of Harry F. Guggenheim, American ambassador to China, and daughter of William Chapman, noted mining engineer connected with the Guggenheim interests, filed suit today against Frederick Solwedel.

SPELLING MATCH TODAY TO DECIDE COUNTY CHAMP

The annual spelling contest of the county schools will be held today in the offices of County Superintendent of Schools Edward J. Tobin in the county building. Eighty-four boys and girls in the eighth grade of county schools will compete. Each of the candidates for the championship of the county has survived two previous spell downs—one in the school and one in the township. They will be given a list of 50 words, selected from the school speller. In the event of ties additional lists of 25 words each are to be selected from newspapers.

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

BROWDY—Tillie Browdy. In memory of our loving wife and mother, who died a year ago today, April 26, 1929:
We miss thee from our home, dear mother,
We miss the sunshine of thy face,
A shadow over our life is cast;
We miss thy sunshine of thy face,
We miss thy kind and willing hand,
Thy fond and earnest care;
Our home is dark without thee—
We miss thee everywhere.
From loving husband and son,
JULIUS AND EDWARD.

BROWDY—Tillie Browdy. In loving remembrance of our dear daughter and sister, who passed away one year ago today, April 26, 1929. "Gone but not forgotten."
LOVING MOTHER, FATHER, AND FAMILY.

MARY OXFORD BREM—
A true helpmate—a loving mother.
Born August 11, 1865.
Died April 26, 1929.
"None knew her but to love her,
None named her but to praise."

GREENSTEIN—Sollie Greenstein. In sad and loving remembrance of our dear, beloved son and brother, who passed away two years ago today:
As time flies on we miss you more,
The loss of one so good and rare
Makes our burden hard to bear.
Silent and deep are the tears that we weep,
Down in our heart is the grave where you sleep.
Surrounded by friends, we are lonesome,
In the midst of pleasure we are blue;
A smile on our face, but our hearts ache,
Longing, dear, beloved son and brother, for you.
BROKENHEARTED MOTHER, DAD, SISTERS AND BROTHERS.

STAUBER—Lois Marion Stauber. In loving memory of our darling daughter, who passed on one year ago today.
FATHER, MOTHER, AND BROTHER.

CROATS ON TRIAL ACCUSE SERBS OF USING 3D DEGREE

Macek Denies Charge of Plotting Terrorism.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BELGRADE, Jugo-Slavia, April 25.—The court for the security of the state has refused the request of Dr. Vladimir Macek, vice president of the Croat peasant party, who is on trial on charges of treason against Jugo-Slavian state, to admit new lawyers for his defense. Dr. Macek and 23 other defendants had demanded 160 more lawyers.

Spectators Cheer Macek.

Spectators, as well as the defendents' lawyers, gave Dr. Macek a rousing ovation today when he made a short speech defending his actions. He pointed out that he had only acted in the welfare of the country. He declared that he wants only fair treatment and that the Croatians do not desire any internal changes in the Jugo-Slavian constitution.

After Dr. Macek, Dr. Anton Trumbitch, former minister of foreign affairs, who is defending the Croatian peasant leader, spoke. He declared that this trial will show what a patriotic citizen Dr. Macek really is.

Charges Third Degree Methods.

Ivan Bernardich, a young clerk and the chief defendant of the alleged terrorist group, which is charged with attempting to blow up public buildings and railroads, told the judge:

"The third degree was used by the Belgrade police in order to make me sign the confession. However, I am not guilty of any crime or any action against Jugo-Slavia."

GUNMEN GIVE VICTIM WATER TO REVIVE HIM

Two young gunmen yesterday walked into the real estate office of Julius Namon, at 6755 South Western avenue, and robbed him of $100 and a ring and a watch valued at $360, after asking him to "stick 'em up, please." Namon, because of the bandits' politeness, thought they were joking, and when he hesitated about throwing up his hands they pushed him into a corner, where they took his money and jewelry.

"I feel sick," Namon said, and one of the gunmen drew a glass of water and handed it to him while the other kept him covered with a revolver.

80 "DEAD MEN" EXILED IN SIBERIA SINCE WAR, FREED

Reach Hungary; Find Homes Broken Up.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, April 25.—After trudging across most of Siberia and enduring all the hardships of a severe winter in those barren wastes, eighty Transylvanian-Hungarian war prisoners have unexpectedly arrived here.

Some of them went to their homes, some of them couldn't find theirs, for they had long been legally "dead" and their homes broken up, and all of them were amazed to find that western Europe has changed since they went off to war under the Hapsburgs in 1914. The new carving up of central Europe bewildered them. Their lands for the most part had been transferred to Rumania.

Tell Strange Story.

The returning prisoners told a story of a strange Odyssey. Eking out a living by wheat farming near Baikal lake, they were forced last October by the soviet government to sell their grain at a price which broke them all financially. They sold their possessions and started the long trek to Moscow on the way to their old homes.

Three hundred and forty persons left Blagoveshensk, 220 miles from Chita and 412 from Vershna-Udinsk. Making their way much like the old American settlers of frontier days, in covered wagons, they took three months to cross Siberia. En route they reported they met several other bands of destitute Hungarians, slowly working their way towards Moscow. Some of them said they had started from Vladivostock two years ago.

But on reaching Moscow they found new trouble. The soviet authorities asked had they paid their taxes regularly, had they been model citizens under the laws of soviet Russia, and other questions. Since few of the former prisoners could produce tax receipts, they were told that it would not be desirable for them to leave the country.

Polish Legation Refuses Aid.

They appealed to the Polish legation for aid without success. Finally, after nearly facing starvation, they were again visited by government officials, and eighty of them, all Hungarians from Transylvania, were allowed to continue on their way.

Perhaps the happiest woman in all Hungary is the wife of Alexander Mandoky, once a sturdy farmer in the county of Marko. Taken prisoner by the Russians in 1916, he was declared officially dead in 1925. His name was inscribed on the village monument to the world war dead. But Mme. Mandoky refused to put his name on the family tombstone. The neighbors laughed at her and urged her to marry again like other women whose husbands had been called officially dead. Mme. Mandoky let them talk and waited. She would wait until she died, she said. Then her husband came home.

The Hungarian foreign office reports that last year it sent 500 passports to its nationals in Siberia who wanted to return.

TRIBUNE BASEBALL CLASS AT WRIGLEY FIELD TODAY

HARTNETT, SIX MATES TO GIVE BOYS POINTERS

Manager McCarthy Will Talk.

BY ARCH WARD.

Are boys of the north side more interested in baseball than lads on the south side?

The question will be answered this morning at the second lesson of THE TRIBUNE baseball school at Wrigley field.

Last Saturday about 4,000 reported at Comiskey park for the first class. They accepted enthusiastically the instructions on pitching from Tommy Thomas and the long distance hitting of Art Shires and J. Smead Jolley. Cub fans believe the enrollment will be doubled today.

We have a new faculty made up of Gabby Hartnett, Charlie Grimm, Woody English, Clyde Beck, Clarence Blair, and Guy Bush. Manager Joe McCarthy, who piloted the Cubs to the National league championship last season, also will be there to address the class.

Bring Your Mitts.

Boys who are catchers on their sand lot teams or who aspire to become catchers are invited to bring along their mitts. There is a possibility that four or five lads will be called out of the stands to demonstrate their skill, with Hartnett offering suggestions on how to improve their play.

After Gabby has showed how to throw out a runner trying to steal second, he'll invite on of the boys to duplicate the trick just to prove how easily it can be done. Then he will let the same lad try to steal second while he is behind the plate.

Gates at Wrigley field will be opened at 1:30 o'clock, one hour before class is called. The only requirement for admission is a free ticket, which appears in today's TRIBUNE.

Students will not be allowed on the field and all must leave the park immediately after the lesson.

After Hartnett has demonstrated the pointers he has discussed in the daily articles which have appeared under his name in THE TRIBUNE, the Cubs' infielders will give tips on how to play their positions.

Hornsby's Next Teacher.

Where could you find a more capable group of instructors than English, Grimm, Blair, and Beck? The only missing link is Rogers Hornsby. He will be in charge of the class a week from today.

Hartnett last night urged his pupils to review his lessons on catching before reporting for class. To refresh your memory the principal suggestions he made were:

1 Be sure you have the strength required of a catcher before you decide to play that position. The catcher is like a linesman in football. He is there all the time, never getting a breathing spell. A small fellow can't withstand the constant pounding of thrown balls.

2 A catcher naturally must have a good throwing arm. A good arm can not be acquired. You either have it or you have not.

3 Along with physical qualities a catcher must have the pep and fight to keep up the enthusiasm of the other players. A "dead" catcher kills team spirit.

4 Keep yourself in position to throw. After signalling the pitcher from a squatting position, stand erect with feet well apart. The body always should be kept in the path of the ball. Then you are ready to throw. There also is less chance of a ball getting by you.

How to Grip Ball.

5 The first thing to consider about the mechanics of throwing is the grip on the ball. Hold it with the thumb and the first two fingers. Avoid a side arm or half side arm delivery. The arm should be drawn back straight over the shoulder, the two fingers always on top of the ball. As the arm shoots out take a step in the direction which the throw is to travel.

6 The pitcher's head is a good target for a quick throw to second. Don't worry about hitting him. He will duck.

7 Remember, you can't retire a man if you haven't got the ball. That means you must overcome fear of being spiked when the runner is sliding into the plate.

TRIBUNE PICKS FOUR BOYS FOR GOLF LESSONS

Lads Start Free Course Next Week.

BY HARLAND ROHM.

The four lucky lads who will receive THE TRIBUNE'S free golf instruction from four of Chicago's foremost teachers were chosen by lot yesterday afternoon. Nearly 200 boys who came within the rules for novice golfers registered and four names were drawn from the waste basket which served because a hat wasn't big enough to hold all the names.

The four whose names came first in the draw were these:

Start Work Next Week.

These four lads will report to their instructors next week. They will be equipped with golf clubs and given the best instruction in golf it is possible to obtain in Chicago. For four weeks they will take two lessons each week and eventually meet each other in an 18 hole tournament to decide just how far a lad can progress in four weeks of golf.

This is no effort to turn out champions in a month; the essential idea is to see how well boys can play after a month of instruction and practice. Some men spend years of time and thousands of dollars in an effort to break the proverbial "one hundred" of golf. It is even possible one of these youngsters may do it in a month.

The four instructors chosen by THE TRIBUNE were also assigned their boys by lot. Milne, who will be instructed by Frank Williams of Skokie, has limited himself to baseball in sports; Granquist, to be instructed by George Knox of Calumet, has found basketball his greatest athletic interest; Rich, who will be the pupil of Alec Cunningham of North Shore, has played basketball and swum; Brin, who is to be taught by Jimmy Weager of Edgewater, is another basketball fan and player.

Two Lessons a Week.

These four boys will receive two lessons each week. Just what their instructors teach them in the way of golf will be recorded each day in THE TRIBUNE. Perhaps these lessons may teach some one else the fundamentals of golf. At least that will be the design of daily stories telling what four of the best golf teachers in Chicago are teaching four lads who have never had a golf club in their hands.

In case any of these first four chosen should prove inadaptible to golf, either physically, mentally, or otherwise unfit for the game, a second and third fourth were chosen to replace them. The second four were: Swayer Fuller, 1947 Lunt avenue, Charles Frederick, 5343 Wayne avenue, Reid Olson, 5122 Kimball avenue, and Ray Ehlert, 1949 West 21st street.

CITY OFFICIALS ATTEND OPENING OF BOAT SHOW

City officials and yacht club representatives last night were present at the opening of the national motor boat show at Navy pier. Miss Olga Menn, queen of the show, formally opened the exposition at 7 o'clock. A total of 79 boats and 31 heavy marine engines were on view after exhibitors finished last minute installations of displays. The show will continue until next Saturday.

THEIR GOLF SCHOOL DAYS BEGIN MONDAY

These four boys were picked by lot yesterday to go through a course of free instruction in The Tribune's golf school. Left to right: Herbert Brin, Howard Rich, Thomas Milne, and Randal Granquist. None of them ever has played golf. Next week they will go to work under four of the best professionals of Chicagoland, and at the end of a month they will be matched against each other.

With Broader Travel, Roper Might Have Had More to Say

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 25.—Of all the authorities who have testified regarding the drinking habits of the college students and old grads, especially at football games, Mr. Will Roper, the retiring coach of Princeton university's football teams, is the only one who has seen some of the same things that I have seen.

"It has been distasteful to me," said he to the judiciary committee of the house of representatives, "to attend lots of conventions in the last five years because of the indiscriminate use of liquor. I do not want maudlin people to shove liquor down my coat collar. After a large football game, go to the caretakers of the grounds and ask them how many pint flasks they have gathered up. They will give you an answer that will astound you."

Others Overlooked Them.

It is reassuring to me to read such testimony as coming from Mr. Roper because he occupies a distinguished position and I had been wondering if anybody else had ever noticed these matters. Mr. A. A. Stagg overlooked them and Mr. Fielding H. Yost of the University of Michigan did not mention them, either, in their testimony before the same committee some time ago, which was puzzling because I was almost positive that I had seen considerable drinking, not to say lushing and guzzling, before, during, and after the big games and also at conventions, athletic, political and otherwise.

In fact, the most industrious drinking that it has ever been my privilege to witness was accomplished at a political convention in Houston, Tex., two years ago come June, but next to that I believe the most interesting feats of drinking have been achieved at sporting events, intercollegiate and otherwise.

It may seem strange that alcoholics and athletics should be so closely associated, but I can give assurance that this is so. Any sport writer covering a year around program of important events must either go on the wagon altogether or exercise very strict self-control if he is not to drink himself out of his job and into the psycopathic ward within a year or two, the exact elapsed time depending largely on the tolerance of his sport editor and on his own tolerance for the various kinds of refreshments which he encounters on his assignments.

Pegler Noticed Same Things.

I have not found the conventions as distasteful as Mr. Roper has, but then he is an habitual teetotaler with no personal sympathy for stimulants.

Mr. Roper probably does not get around to the Kentucky Derby and, therefore, has never heard the revelry by night in the hotel rooms and corridors of Louisville and Cincinnati. Perhaps, also, when he is returning from a football game with his team he rides with the team in a private railroad car and, therefore, does not have a chance to observe the boys and girls in the other cars in the train. And I never see him around at the winter league banquets and reunions of gentlemen interested in both amateur and professional sport, so there again he missed some background for his testimony, not that his testimony lacked the authority of personal observation.

Mr. Roper's testimony recalls an incident which occurred in California at football time about two years ago last fall. A hotel corporation there presented a claim to some alumni organization for damage to the furniture and curtains of several rooms which had occurred in the course of a celebration following the victory of their team.

The complaint alleged that there had been great disorder on the evening after the game and went on to relate that chairs had been torn limb from limb by jubilant adherents of the team and tossed out of high win-

Carnera Bout for Eve of Kentucky Derby Canceled

Louisville, Ky., April 25.—(AP)—A match between Primo Carnera, 285 pound Italian boxer, and Ed Wright, 225 pound Negro of Omaha, Neb., scheduled for May 16, eve of the Kentucky Derby, was canceled late today at a conference of the American Legion and the Kentucky state athletic board of control, "because of questionable bouts in which Carnera has been engaged."

WALLY STEWART PUZZLES SOX; BROWNS WIN, 4-2

Two Run Rally in Seventh Clinches Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., April 25.—Our White Sox have lost two games this season and this left handed fellow, Wally Stewart, has administered both defeats. Unfortunately, indeed, especially since Ol' Man Faber for the second time was nominated to oppose said Stewart.

The score was Browns, 4; Sox, 2, which just about represents the comparative talents of the two nines as they showed off this afternoon.

Before proceeding with sad details of the game, however, a cheerful word should be said relative to Dave Harris, the rugged night marshal of Greensboro. Bud Clancy opened the eighth with a single, and Kamm flied to Schulte. Harris at this point made his first appearance in an American league game and knocked the ball over the right field pavilion, scoring Bud ahead of him. Hunnefield batted for Faber, but Badgro captured his fly after a nice run.

Miss First Place.

There were several elements leading to the defeat, among them possibly the score board in left field, where the Philadelphia-Washington score was being posted. If the Sox had won they would have been in first place in the American league, but the strain was too great. The Browns' two run rally, after two were down in the seventh, was acquired immediately after three winning runs were hung up for Washington. So you see what such distractions can do.

Another thing that made the White Sox self conscious was the weather. They didn't know how to act in the fine, warm sunshine offered by the St. Louis weather man.

Jolley's Muff Starts Things.

But there were still other factors, including the fact that Stewart was a steadier pitcher than Faber. Red allowed only one more hit than Stewart, but several of the blows accomplished by the Browns were at most inopportune times. Faber walked four, while Stewart walked none. St. Louis stole three bases, due to Cissell's inability to handle Riddle's throws. The Browns played an errorless game, while the first run of the afternoon came in on a muff by Jolley, whereas he should have caught the ball for the third out.

For four and a half innings the

TWO RUNS ON 5 HITS OVERCOME CINCINNATI LEAD

Poor Fielding Adds to Malone's Worries.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Class is bound to assert itself—occasionally. It did yesterday, and the ailing Cubs used it to ride home triumphantly in a twelve round struggle with the Reds, who a moment before had scored what they figured was their winning run. The final count was 6 to 5, a riotous salvo of five successive hits driving across the two tallies that restored some of the title holders' prestige.

The struggle didn't become one worth remembering until the ninth round was reached. At that point Pat Malone, who started and finished, was out in front by 4 to 3 over Red Lucas. The Cubs had gained that advantage because of homers by Hack Wilson and Gabby Hartnett and a long blow by Cliff Heathcote, who served because of a shoulder injury to Stephenson. The Reds had done that well against Malone because the revamped Cub outfield didn't function in a couple of spots. But the men who made these mistakes made proper amends at the finish.

Tie Score with Two Out.

What happened in the ninth was a tying Red run, caused by a hit after two men were gone. Then Malone and Lucas settled down to a stern argument in which there were nothing but harmless flurries until the twelfth. A collapse of McCarthy's infield brought on what looked like sure defeat.

Starting the twelfth, Heilmann hoisted a harmless pop fly close to third. Blair waltzed around under it, reached out, closed his hands on the ball and dropped it. Kelly sacrificed the runner to second. Then English joined the ranks of erratics. He heaved wide to first on Cuccinello's grounder and lost his man, Heilmann going to third.

Next came a fly off Ford's bat. Cuyler, who was operating in left, caught it and pegged beautifully to the plate. There was ample time to head off the slow moving Heilmann, but the ball took a trick bounce and Hartnett didn't get it, so the run scored. Then the Cubs went to work in that rough, ruthless fashion made famous by them last season.

Hornsby Hits Double.

The first move in the ferocious drive that turned the battle around was the sending in of Hornsby to bat for Blair. Cripple or no cripple, the Rajah still has his eye. He thumped a long drive down into the left field corner for two bases. McCarthy excused him to let speedy Dan Taylor run the rest of the way. But the lad was plucked off second by Sukeforth. The setback didn't even make the Cubs hesitate.

Cuyler stepped into the scene with a drive that carried far into right center for a triple. The Cubs on the bench rushed out to file a claim the ball had gone into the seats and bounced out, but the umps thought differently. They decided Cuyler must remain at third. The wolves still were booing the arbiters when Wilson, a homer and double already to his credit, caromed a single off the second baseman. It scored Kiki with the tying run.

Lucas was hurriedly yanked from the mound and Johnson put in his place. It was the ideal change—for the Cubs. Heathcote whacked the newcomer for a single, putting Wilson on second, and Capt. Grimm then pulled down the curtain for the day by singling and forcing Hack to hustle home with the winning tally.

Wilson Hits Homer in Second.

Wilson's homer presented the Cubs with their first run in the second inning. Hack selected the open space at the end of the right field bleacher as the perfect spot in which to drop his four bagger. Heathcote then died on a grounder, Grimm walked, Hartnett let a third strike go past, and Beck

CUBS RALLY IN 12TH TO BEAT CINCINNATI, 6-5

Five Hits Score 2 Runs, End Long Battle.

Only a sudden improvement on Malone's part after a bad start in the fourth session held the Reds down to two runs. Callaghan opened the inning with a hit between Grimm and Beck. Meusel cracked a single into center. Heilmann laid down what could be termed a perfect sacrifice bunt. Kelly lined to right, and Heathcote was unable to make the catch, mainly because he had difficulty locating the flying pellet. It went for a double, Callaghan and Meusel scoring. To avoid further trouble for the moment, Malone fanned Cuccinello and spiked Ford on an infield grounder.

Heathcote was put out of the way in the home fourth before the Cubs began making preparation for two runs that put them in the lead by 3 to 2. The first ingredient was Grimm's one sack drive to center. Then Hartnett bumped his home run over the screen in front of the right field bleacher and two tallies were recorded.

Cuyler Misjudges Fly.

Howley's men tied it with a run in the fifth, but it was more a matter of plain bad luck than bad throwing on Malone's part. With one out Lucas spanked a liner to left. It should have been caught easily, but Cuyler is more or less strange to the finer points of left fielding, so when he lost the ball it was dismissed as a two base hit. After Critz had lofted to right Callaghan nudged Lucas home by singling. Malone cut the session short by fanning Meusel.

A pair of extra base hits served to put the Cubs back in the lead by 4 to 3 in the sixth. Wilson opened the inning, and to show that his previous homer was no accident, he smashed a drive against the bricks in left. Meusel recovered it in time to confine Hack to two bases. Heathcote then scored Hack with a liner that sailed down the right field line and bounced around long enough to let Cliff reach third. With none gone prospects appeared bright for another run, but Grimm merely rolled to the pitcher, and when Heathcote tried to sneak home on Hartnett's short fly to Heilmann he was nailed.

Malone Escapes Harm.

Malone wasn't without his troubles in either the sixth or the seventh. In the sixth he walked Kelly with one out. Cuccinello followed with a fly and Ford with a single between short and third. Kelly, after rounding second, observed that third was unguarded, so he made a dash for that station, but English raced over there, took Cuyler's quick return throw and got his man. Then Lucas walked with one out in the seventh, and with two out Callaghan singled. This brought Meusel's bat into the picture, but all he did was to bounce to English.

Malone merely had to set down Meusel in the ninth to make victory a cinch. This wasn't done. The inning opened with Walker batting for Gooch. He hoisted a slightly fluky single into short right field. Lucas walked. Sukeforth was asked to bat for Critz, and when his attempted sacrifice bunt sailed on the fly to Blair it looked as if Malone's luck would hold out. The second out was registered on Callahan's fly to right. Then along came that Meusel fellow with a single to center, scoring Walker with the tying run. Three strikes on Heilmann completed the inning.

Pirates Beat Cards in Home Opener, 6 to 1

Pittsburgh, Pa., April 25.—(AP)—The Pirates played their home opener today after having been held up two days by cold weather, and celebrated by defeating the Cardinals, 6 to 1.

The veteran, Remy Kremer scored his second victory of the season over the St. Louis club. He was opposed by Sherdel through most of the game, Haid going to the mound in the seventh.

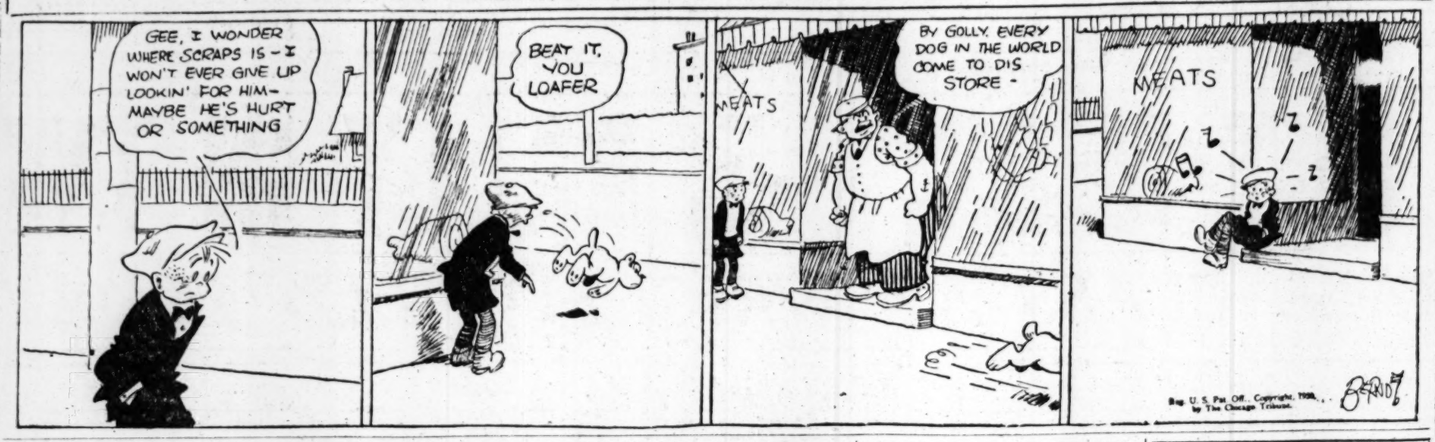
SMITTY—TILL WE MEET AGAIN



Favorites of Derby Field Race Today

BY FRENCH LANE.

In the Lafayette at Lexington eight Derby colts are scheduled to go into action. It will be the first test of the year for Col. E. R. Bradley's Buckeye Poet and Breezing Thru. The others scheduled to start the dash at a mile are Dedicate, Sydney, Busy, Dick O'Hara, Ray Blades and Uncle Matt. The winner will travel on to Churchill Downs and become one of the Derby choices.

The eleventh running of the Chesapeake stakes at Havre de Grace, which is a trial for the Preakness, has attracted six Derby candidates at a mile and a sixteenth. They are Crazy Coot, Swinfield, Michigan Boy, Ned O., Woodcraft, and Full Dress. Three others, not eligible for the Derby, were named over night.

Gallant Fox to Run.

Gallant Fox, the son of Sir Galahad III.-Marguerite, owned by William Woodward of New York, and the Derby favorite, makes his first start of the year this afternoon in the $10,000 Wood Memorial stakes at Jamaica. This is a gallop at a mile and seventy yards, and five other highly regarded Derby eligibles oppose him. They are Desert Light, Spinach, Crack Brigade, and Gold Brook. It will be the first start of the year for most of them.

Naturally the winners of these races are going to command much respect in the Derby speculation. The races are all staged as 3 year old elimination tests.

Tannery Enters Sprint.

Other Derby candidates are to go to the post today in shorter races. At Lexington Tannery, on which there has been a hot tip, and Alvin Renshaw hook up with other sprint stars in a race over the Futurity course, which is 170 feet less than six furlongs. At Jamaica Quarter Deck, a son of Man o' War, competes with older rivals in the Ridgewood handicap at six furlongs. At Wheeling in the $5,000 Golden Jubilee handicap, Dark Entry, a Derby candidate, will fight it out in a field of thirteen at a mile and a sixteenth. All are 3 year olds, but Dark Entry is the only Kentucky Derby eligible among them.

It may be fairly easy to get a line on the coming Derby winner after the dust clears from today's combats.

Two Man Cars to Race on Board Tracks This Year

New York, April 25.—(AP)—The contest board of the American Automobile association announced after a meeting here today that two man racing cars would be permitted this season in board track contests supervised by the association. The change conforms with the new regulations governing the annual 300 mile classic at Indianapolis May 30, where mechanics will ride with the drivers for the first time in many years.

It may be possible that these alumni were stimulated by nothing more than the joy of vicarious victory, but a large number of empty bottles were found in the suites, creating a suspicion that some one had been holding the constitution in contempt, and this was the general interpretation.

I realize that often the disorder in hotels on football nights is due in part to honorary or uninvited alumni having no connection with either school concerned in the day's game, nor, for that matter, with any other school. This enthusiasm of dis

OUTDOORS SPIRIT MUST BE KEPT, WALTONS TOLD

Redington Praises League on Migration Bill.

The burden of the Izaak Walton league is to keep the spirit of the outdoors in the constitution of the United States, Senator Harry B. Hawes of Missouri told the Waltonians at their eighth annual banquet last night at the Stevens hotel.

"The spirit of the great outdoors went into the making of the constitution," Senator Hawes said, "and it is that spirit that the Izaak Walton league must keep in the thought of the document through their work with the youth of the country.

"The United States is slowly becoming conservation conscious," the senator said, "and it is up to the league to push home the idea through the medium of the Boy Scouts, the schools, and the church."

Senators to Make Study.

The senator, an ardent member of the league and the author of a bill for preservation of fish and game, urged strongly the removal of preservation from the realm of politics.

"The man who takes a program of fish or game preservation and makes of it a political issue and a political machine is a traitor to the spirit of the constitution," the senator said.

Senator Hawes also told of the progress made in the creating of a committee of five senators to make a two years' study of the conservation problems of the country. He said:

"The commission is to make a report at the end of that time and is to draft a comprehensive general law for federal adoption to govern conservation throughout the country. The committee is appointed and the organization is begun."

The senator urged the Waltonians to be "gentlemen in the streams and woods" and to "put chivalry into fishing."

Randolph Greets Convention.

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, who flew from Tulsa, Okla., where he was a member of the good will tour, to Chicago for the banquet, greeted the assembly in behalf of the Association of Commerce.

The league was praised as one of the conservation organizations who effectively supported the migratory bird conservation bill by Paul R. Redington, chief of the U. S. biological survey, in his address yesterday.

"This bill," Mr. Redington said, "was well designed to supplement the regulatory work under the migratory bird treaty act. It made provision for the examination, purchase and establishment of large areas of land and water to furnish refuges and sanctuaries for our migratory waterfowl. The bill provided authorization over a ten year period of funds amounting to nearly eight millions of dollars.

Work Going on Now.

"The bill was passed by congress in February, 1929. The first appropriation of $75,000 became available on July 1, 1929, and the work of investigating and examining areas which were reported to be suitable for the purpose was promptly put under way. This preliminary investigational work is being carried on at the present time by biological experts and land valuation engineers."

While no new national parks have actually been established in recent years, the area of the park system has been enlarged through boundary adjustments and the first steps have been made to make the Great Smoky Mountains National park an actuality, Horace M. Albright, director of national park service, told the league.

Mr. Albright told the Waltonians of another park project that is under advisement to build a great national park in the Shenandoah district.

Maroons Win Two Relays at Penn Games

Philadelphia, Pa., April 25.—(AP)—A record breaking victory in the decathlon championship by big Barney Berlinger of Pennsylvania for the second year in succession and a brace of smashing relay triumphs for the University of Chicago's sprint stars today furnished the thrills for the opening half of the 36th annual Penn relay carnival.

Spreadeagling eight rivals with the greatest all around performance of his career, the 21 year old Berlinger rolled up a grand total of 7,460.609 points to surpass his 1929 carnival mark of 7,298.978 points.

Wins Five of Ten Events.

For nine of the ten events in the all day struggle Berlinger set a pace that threatened to topple the American decathlon record of 7,734.68 points, set last year by Ken Doherty of Detroit. The Quaker giant, however, finished a poor last in the final event, the 1,500 meter run, and tossed away his chances by collecting only 244 points, when he needed more than 500 to approach Doherty's mark.

Berlinger, however, captured five of the ten events. Broke records in two of them with marks of 12 feet 6 inches in the pole vault and 46 feet in the shot, and wound up the day nearly 700 points ahead of his nearest rival, George Spalding, a Negro, from Morgan college, of Baltimore. Spalding surprised by finishing second with 6,771.756 points, while one of the big favorites, Robert L. Todd of Indiana, third last year, was ninth and last in the all around field, failing to complete the final event.

Trio Stars for Chicago.

The western invasion in the relays was led by Chicago's flyers with spectacular results. After tying on time with Ohio's State's star quartet, anchored by the famous George Simpson, in the quarter mile championship at 42.7 seconds, the Chicago team came back to capture the run-off in 42.2 seconds as Allen East, the Maroon anchor, withstood Simpson's sensational finishing bid. East won by a foot after Simpson had cut down two yards of the deficit he faced on the last 110 yard leg.

Three of the same four Chicago runners topped off their day's work by outfooting the east's best, Georgetown and New York university, in the sprint medley. East, Haydon and Capt. Root ran in each event, supported by Rambay in the quarter mile and by Letts in the sprint medley. The winning margin was a foot and the time 3 minutes, 29 9-10 seconds for the aggregate route of one mile, run off in legs of 440, 220, 220 and 880.

Five Meet Marks Broken, One Tied in Drake Games

BY WILFRID SMITH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., April 25.—Five meet records were broken and one was tied as the Drake relays started here this afternoon in the stadium. Five thousand saw the opening day's program. It was the largest first day crowd in the twenty-one years of the carnival.

SAMMY BEHR.

Hugh Rhea, star left tackle of the Nebraska football team last fall, added one inch to the shot put record when he tossed the weight 48 feet 10 inches. Nearly one foot behind Rhea came Sammy Behr of Wisconsin, the second best of the eight qualifiers. The Badger athlete's best effort was 47 feet 10½ inches.

Set Relay Record.

Marquette university's medley relay team cut three-tenths of a second from the carnival record when Jack Walter ran the mile as anchor man to give his school a mark of 10 minutes 23 7-10 seconds. This medley relay—880, 440, three-quarters and mile—provided the thrill of the afternoon, Michigan Normal college of Ypsilanti, Butler university, and Indiana pressing the Hilltop team.

Michigan Normal and Marquette alternated in the lead until the final mile. Then Jack Walter, who took the baton from his brother, Phil, sprinted into a five yard lead which he held. Joe Sivak of Butler pulled from fourth to third, but finished twenty yards back of Arnett of Normal.

Four athletes from Morningside college of Sioux City, Ia., added two record breaking performances by winning the one mile and 880 yard relays. Kettle, Bale, Hansen, and Menter composed the winning quartet. The events were for members of the Iowa Intercollegiate Athletic association.

The two qualifying heats of the university 880 yard relay saw the meet record broken twice and the results promise a great final event tomorrow. Michigan's quartet, running in the first heat, covered the distance in 1 minute 26 6-10 seconds. The old mark of 1 minute 27 5-10 seconds was held by Illinois and Michigan. Murray, Dale Seymour, Campbell, and Eddie Tolan, the colored sprinter, set the new record. Notre Dame and Indiana finished in that order. The time was only 8-10 of a second slower than the world record.

Run 880 in 1:27.3.

In the second heat Illinois also broke the old Drake record, covering the 880 in 1:27.3. The Illini runners were Useman, Dickenson, Cave, and Paterson, running in that order. Kansas and Iowa complete the six teams who will run in the final.

The Illinois 440 relay team, which tied the world record of 41 seconds at the Kansas relays last week, tied the Drake mark of 41 and 8-10 seconds this afternoon.

George Saling, Iowa university's star hurdler, who forced Sentman of Illinois to the limit to win the high hurdles at Kansas last week, was unable to compete yesterday because of an infection.

Weather conditions today were nearly perfect. A warm spring sun, with scarcely any breeze, made conditions ideal. The track is in the best condition in three years, and this points to record breaking performances tomorrow in the 100 yard dash. Cy Leland, Texas Christian sprinter, and Claude Bracey, his rival from Rice institute, each won a heat in the preliminaries in 9 8-10 seconds.

Tolan Nearly Fails.

Eddie Tolan, rated their best northern competitor, nearly failed to qualify. He finished second in the third heat behind Red Oliver of Texas Christian and only inches ahead of the third runner. Two qualified.

CALDORI WINS OVER KRAKEN IN COLISEUM BOUT

Fred Caldori, Philadelphia heavyweight, last night won a decision victory over Jack Kraken of the University of Illinois, in a six round bout at the North hall of the Coliseum. Danny Delmont, west side welterweight, outpoined Jimmy Lundy of Los Angeles in another six rounder. It was Walter George's first promotional venture.

Johnny Nasser of Terre Haute, Ind., bantamweight pupil of Bud Taylor, lost to Tony Polacio of Chicago on a technical knockout in the sixth round. Nasser sustained a badly cut eye and was unable to answer the bell for the sixth.

Diegel Will Take 53 Clubs to England

New York, April 25.—(AP)—With two big bags fairly bulging with golf clubs, Leo Diegel, professional champion of the United States, was busy today preparing for a visit to England and another try for the British open championship.

The unorthodox golfer who finished third in the last British title event was stopped long enough for a few questions.

"Not interested. I don't use them."

"Suppose the British should put a limit on the number of clubs a player can carry?"

"Then I'm ruined and might as well stay at home."

His two bags, with all the returns not yet in, hold 53 clubs. The P. G. A. champion has 31 irons, 14 woods and eight putters. Every indication is that the crop of putters will grow.

"Funny about the putters I expected to meet me here," he said. "They haven't shown up yet, and I'm sailing Wednesday."

Illinois Wesleyan Track Team Routs Eureka, 96-37

Battalino Wins 10 Round Bout from Bushy Graham

In the WAKE of the NEWS

EARLIER CHICAGO.

DEAR WAKE: Lest we forget! In New York City on Feb. 11, 1817, Thomas Hoyne was born. He was orphaned at 13, studied law in the office of Judge Brinkenhoff in New York in 1836, arrived in Chicago in 1837, taught in Chicago's public schools in 1838. Later the Thomas Hoyne school was named in his honor.

Mr. Hoyne was admitted to the bar in 1839, became city clerk on the Democratic ticket in 1840 at a salary of $400 per year, was married in 1842, and went to Galena, Ill., as the "coming city of the west." After two years he returned to Chicago, and was Probate justice of the peace in 1852, United States district attorney by appointment of President Pierce in 1859, marshal of northern Illinois in 1860.

He stumped northern Illinois with Stephen A. Douglas, but later visited President Lincoln in 1862 and supported Horace Greeley for President in 1872. In 1876 he was elected mayor of Chicago, receiving over 26,000 votes, with only 800 against. Mayor Colvin contested this election as illegally held, and, for harmony, Mr. Hoyne retired, after being ipse facto mayor for six weeks.

Leaving his home city in 1883, full of vigor, for his annual vacation, he was killed in a train wreck. All public offices and many places of business were closed on the day of his interment at Rosehill. Hoyne avenue was named in his honor. His descendants are prominent in many Chicago activities.

This Wake Is Conducted By Harvey T. Woodruff. Help! Help!

Paternal Oddity.

When Junior acts contrary,
Or as stubborn as a mule,
Or fights with other boys and gets
A bad report from school,
'Tis then his father's voice is heard
In four adjoining states,
Demanding of the universe,
"Where did he get such traits!"

But when the neighbors praise and say
"Your boy's a handsome lad,"
Or when our friends say they admire
His manly ways, his dad
Will listen with a grin, absorbing
All their flattery,
And say with obvious pride, "You bet!

GLENNA COLLETT DRAWS BYE IN BRITISH TOURNEY

Helen Hicks Will Meet Former Champion.

LONDON, April 25.—(AP)—The draw for the British woman's golf championship, to be played at Formsby the week of May 12, was issued today with 22 of the 79 competitors from the United States. The field last year numbered 125.

Miss Glenna Collett, who is expected to make another determined bid for the title for which she made such a gallant effort last year, is among those receiving byes into the second round, where she will meet Miss Kitty Beard of Ferndown Dorset.

Others Draw Byes.

Other American golfers who will play their first matches in the second round are Mrs. Lee Mida, Mrs. Leo Federman, Mrs. Virginia Holzderber, who meets Miss Phyllis Lobbett; Miss Grace Barclay, Miss Virginia Van Wie, Mrs. Stewart Hanley.

American players who figure in the first round include Miss Helen Hicks, who meets Miss Doris Chambers, former British champion; Miss Bernice Wall, Miss Maureen Orcutt, Mrs. E. A. Ross, Mrs. O. S. Hill, Miss Jane Benner, Miss Louise Fordyce, Miss Fritzi Stifel, Miss Peggy Wattles, Miss Marian Bennett and Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd.

Lockart With English.

The overseas challenge will be strengthened by the inclusion of Miss Margaret Lockart of the Royal Montreal club and Miss Mona McLeod of the Royal Melbourne.

Miss Molly Gourlay, the English champion, receives a bye into the second round, as does Mrs. Temple Iobell, who as Miss Gladys Ravenscroft held both the British and American championships.

Miss Rosalie Knapp, another of the numerous Americans, also drew a bye into the second round, and three more of her countrywomen—Miss Edith Quier, Mrs. Hazel Martelle, and Mrs. I. J. Morris—were drawn in the first round.

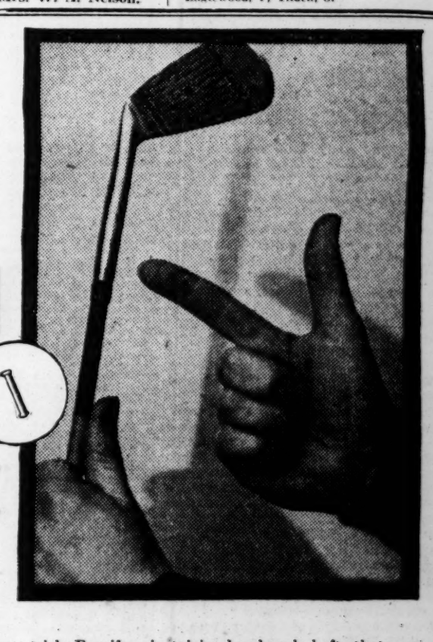
See... it's gone!



. . . the little rivet, whose removal makes all the difference in the world in steel-shafted golf irons

ABOVE is a lifelike portrait of the rivet that has always joined the head to the shaft in irons.

In Spalding Cushion-neck Irons, that rivet loses its job! It's fired, banished, ousted, to make possible the first steel-shafted irons, and the only steel-shafted irons, that combine the sweet feel of the finest hickory with the advantages of the steel shaft.

And if you are one of that great majority of golfers who are wedded to steel-shafted woods, you know that the steel shaft, because it is lighter, puts greater swinging weight into the head where it aids controllability.

You know that the steel shaft, because it is thinner, has less wind resistance to contend with, and therefore makes every shot a wee bit cleaner cut. And you know that the steel shaft can't warp.

Yes, the steel shaft has been great—in woods. But in irons—not so good.

Because, in steel-shafted irons other than Cushion-necks, the metal-to-metal contact of steel head against steel shaft forms a perfect conductor that sends the shock of every shot scooting up the shaft and into the hands. This metal-to-metal contact causes the harsh, unpleasant feel that has made steel-shafted irons so unsatisfactory to play.

For before each shaft is fitted into the hosel of the head, it is enclosed in a cushioning sleeve of lively rubber. Vibrations can no more pass through this rubber sleeve than can electric current pass through the rubber insulation on a wire. A great idea! But the rubber sleeve alone does not do the trick. For, if a rivet joins hosel and shaft, that rivet, small as it is, is big enough to nullify the good effects of a dozen rubber sleeves. With the metal rivet in there, touching both steel shaft and steel head, all the good of the shock-absorber is nullified—metal-to-metal contact still exists.

So the Spalding experts worked and experimented for two years. And once more justified their reputation as the world's greatest club-makers by working out an ingenious way of crimping the end of the hosel around the rubber so that no rivet is necessary!

That method of joining does more than eliminate the rivet! It also seals out the air forever. No air means no oxidization. And no oxidization means that the rubber will stay lively throughout the long life of the club.

Other gadget-bedecked clubs will appear and optimistically claim shock-absorbing virtues. But only Spalding can offer steel-shafted irons that are absolutely free from shock, vibration, sour feel. For Spalding has the whole Cushion-neck principle so thoroughly protected that no other club can achieve the same sweet feel without transgressing Spalding patents.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today, 200 cattle, 7,000 hogs, and 12,000 sheep.

Cattle and lambs showed little change yesterday, while hogs lost the advance after a steady to 10c higher opening. The extreme top and general average prices showed 5c gain at $10.20 and $9.85, respectively, but compare with a top of $10.50 and average of $10.05 last Monday.

Fancy 200 lb hogs sold at the top, while butchers weighing twice that amount sold at $9.25@9.50. Practically all packers bought readily at the late prices, and only 3,000 remained for the packers at the close. Five western markets expect 18,500 hogs today against 24,600 last Saturday.

June Hogs in Demand.

Light weight hogs for June delivery were in good demand at $10.30 yesterday. Volume of trading was the second largest since April 7. The trade opened with a sale of seven carloads of June light at $10.30. May light sold at $10.35.

September mediums reached $10.40 and heavy grades for next September sold up to $10.30. On the "to arrive" market, light for next Monday and Tuesday carried bids of $10.15 and for next Wednesday $10.10. Mediums for Monday were bid $9.65 and heavy $9.50. May 1 heavy had a bid of $9.50.

Yesterday's short supply of 1,500 cattle consisted largely of common to medium grades of steers that met fair demand at little change in quotations. The bulk of sales were about in line with the close of last week, although the extreme top was below Friday of last week, due to poor quality. The best available averaged 1,208 lbs and sold at $13.35.

Wool Lambs, $10.10.

Wool lambs sold generally steady yesterday, the bulk going at $9.25@9.75, although the "cream" of the supply sold to shippers and city butchers at $10.00@10.10. Strength during mid-session was offset by weakness in some sales at the finish, the low point of the day.

Shorn lambs sold at $8.75 and below, bulking at $8.25@8.65, although some extreme weights ranged downwards to $7.25. Aged and yearling sheep were scarce and steady. Shearing stock was absent. Lambs are closing mostly 25c above a week ago and sheep and yearlings steady.

Probable receipts of hogs at Chicago for next Monday are estimated from 35,000 to 50,000. M. J. Berkery marked 35,000, H. C. Carlson 36,000, F. M. Sherwood, J. M. Walters, and F. Knutzen 38,000, W. C. White 39,000, S. Lund, C. Southwick, W. T. Reneker, and R. B. Ellis 40,000, F. W. Young and J. T. Brown 42,000, N. R. Denny 43,000, G. Brittain 44,000, A. G. Welhener and O. Dwight 45,000, and W. E. Morgan 50,000.

COTTON OFF SHARPLY

Coöperating associations operating through Harris & Vose, were credited yesterday with taking the delivery notices calling for 220,000 bales at New York and about 20,000 bales at New Orleans. Deliveries were made by spot houses. At Chicago there were tenders of 2,100 bales.

At the extreme futures were off almost $2.00 a bale, making a net decline in three days of practically $6.00 a bale. Spots in New York dropped 25 points to 16.25c, New Orleans was off 20 points to 15.55c, Galveston was 15.90c and Houston 15.65c. Liverpool was 8 to 12 points net lower with spot sales 6,000 bales. Prices follow: a

REPORT OF FOX FILM CORPORATION SHOWS NET OF $9,469,050

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 25.—The report of the Fox Film corporation, as submitted today in its listing application to the New York Stock exchange, revealed net profit of $9,469,050 after all deductions, including special provision of $2,379,255 for obsolescence of silent films, scenarios, and advertising accessories. This was equal to $10.28 a share on the combined 820,660 no par shares of class A and 100,000 no par shares of class B stock.

In the previous year profit totaled $5,957,218, or $6.47 a share.

In the statement made to the court when the company's affairs were under litigation, net earnings were reported to be $11,850,276, equal to $12.87 a share. The difference in the two reports was due to the special provision of $2,379,225.

A stockholders' suit to prevent the accomplishment of the reorganization plan now being prepared for the Fox Film corporation and associated properties has been filed in the United States District court by E. Clay Krebs, holder of 2,300 shares of class A stock, and Wilhelmina Heymann, holder of 60 shares.

FALLING INCOME, SALES REPORTS SOBER TRADERS

Stewart-Warner Co. Slashes Dividend.

BY O. A. MATHER.

A slash in the dividend of the Stewart-Warner corporation as the result of decreased earnings and a report by Sears, Roebuck & Co. showing sales running below a year ago had a sobering effect on sentiment in Wall and La Salle streets yesterday. Naturally, both items reflected to a large extent "water over the dam," but these and a number of unfavorable earnings statements served to temper optimistic predictions.

The Stewart-Warner directors declared a quarterly dividend of 25 cents, compared with 87½ cents previously paid. A quarterly stock dividend of 2 per cent was discontinued at the end of the preceding quarter. Net income for the first quarter of this year was $656,010, equivalent to 50 cents a share on 1,298,919 shares, compared with 2,054,224, or $1.67 a share on 1,224,000 shares, in the first quarter of 1929.

Cites Conservative Policy.

"It has always been the policy of the directors to pay liberal dividends when earnings justify," President C. B. Smith said. "Business was very poor during the early months of the year, consequently we did not earn our usual rate of profit. The directors decided therefore to be conservative and maintain our cash position. Business is showing a considerable increase at this time and should soon reach its normal figure."

Sales of Sears-Roebuck for the four weeks ended April 23 totaled $30,495,-295, a decline of $1,455,678, or 4.5 per cent, from the corresponding period in 1929. Sales for the year to date totaled $110,114,879, a decline of $1,-170,712, or 1.2 per cent, from the same period last year. It should be noted, however, that the current period showed an increase of $5,320,854 over the preceding four weeks period.

Therefore it may be said that the mail order and chain store business is showing seasonal development, although lagging behind the pace of a year ago. And the automobile accessory business is picking up with expanding production of motor cars.

A more sober tone also is adopted by the week-end mercantile reviews. Statistics on business mortality also are less favorable, with 547 failures reported this week, compared with 491 last week and 449 a year ago.

Trade Quiets Down.

"Following the increased buying spurt just before Easter, a slight quieting down has become evident in distributive trade and in some industries," Bradstreet's review says. "The return of winter weather has been a contributing factor in the current week's relative quiet. An exception to this is reported from Chicago, where a removal sale of a leading wholesale house has attracted many buyers and a heavy distribution of cotton and silk goods."

"Declines in commodity prices still predominate," Dun's review says. "The recessions are chiefly in foodstuffs, yet unstable conditions persist in some raw materials used in manufacturing and markets for finished products are affected. The effects of lower profit margins and reduced purchasing are disclosed in many of the first quarter's financial statements covering diversified industries.

"In certain respects, however, the situation, although clearly lacking widespread betterment, has improved sufficiently to strengthen the hopeful expectations for the longer future."

Reviews Employment.

Small decreases in number employed and in pay rolls were registered in the middle west between Feb. 15 and March 15, according to the monthly review of the Chicago Federal Reserve bank. Manufacturing employment receded about 1 per cent, while nonmanufacturing totals were about 2 per cent off in number of men and 6 per cent less in pay rolls than in February. But general improvement in the demand for labor was shown during March in cities with free employment offices.

Savings deposits in the Chicago district on April 1 were 3 per cent below a year before, but were slightly higher than on March 1, this year. Illinois and Indiana made the best relative showings with declines of only 1 per cent, compared with a year ago.

Diversity of Manufacture Strong Point

BY SCRUTATOR.

Manufacturing industries in Cook county alone represent an invested capital of more than five billion dollars, according to a survey made by the Illinois Chamber of Commerce.

Frankly the research department of the chamber, which says that it spent more than four weeks obtaining these figures, admits that they can be considered only as an estimate. All manufacturing firms of considerable size were rated, but as the higher and lower ratings often varied by 100 per cent, a middle figure was taken as the correct one.

On the basis of the same sort of statistics, Allegheny county, Pa., in which Pittsburgh is located, was found to have a little less than a billion dollars invested in manufacturing.

Income of Wage Earners.

Indications from this survey and from older data in regard to manufacturing and wages would indicate that at least a half million wage earners are supported by Chicago's manufacturing and that their income in a normal year approaches three quarters of a billion dollars total.

It should be understood that the great distributive businesses are not represented here and that their pay rolls are not included. The whole subject of employment is rather vaguely covered in all statistics of the past, although they have been developed more fully for manufacturing than any other branch of economic effort. A great deal more should be known about this when the present census is completed.

Nevertheless, the marked advances made by Illinois and particularly by the Chicago metropolitan district toward leadership in manufacture—the state is now third—is expected to continue. There have been predictions that future growth in this line will be marked by a return to smaller cities where congestion is less and living conditions easier.

Growth Around Rim.

This is true only in a limited sense. It is possible that Chicago itself will lose some of the sum total of factories it has as time goes on. Any such losses will be made up, and more, by the growth in the number of plants around the rim of the metropolitan district. Much of this is in Cook county; although the true limit takes in a radius of at least forty miles and preferably sixty. This would include several other counties and the wealthy northern Indiana sector.

The diversity of manufacture in this area is one of its strongest points. One-industry towns like Detroit suffer in depressions far more than those which have their tens of thousands working at various tasks. The municipality of Detroit, according to reliable reports, had to expend a half million in unemployment relief work in one month alone last winter. The 1927 census showed that Illinois manufacturing industries employed nearly 600,000 wage earners and that metals, machinery and conveyances took 235,000 of these. But the largest subdivision, iron and steel, employed only 82,000, or around 13 per cent.

SAYS SAME MEN DOMINATE BIG STEEL RIVALS

Fights Youngstown Merger Interests.

Cleveland, O., April 25.—(AP)—Allegations that United States Steel corporation and the Bethlehem Steel corporation coöperated in efforts to merge Youngstown Sheet and Tube company with Bethlehem and a request for investigation of the merger deal by the federal trade commission, were made today by E. S. Wertz, former assistant district attorney here. Wertz made his charge and request as a stockholder in Sheet and Tube, and addressed them to the trade commission by letter.

THOMAS W. LAMONT. [Kadel & Herbert Photo.]

United States Steel, the largest steel company in the country, and Bethlehem, second largest and generally considered its chief rival, were declared by Wertz "to be dominated by the same group of financiers, it appears."

Wertz also requested U. S. District Attorney Wilfred Mahon to obtain permission from the attorney general for authority to investigate the merger deal.

Follows New Action.

The attack by Wertz came less than twenty-four hours after other opponents of the merger had filed new action in Common Pleas court at Youngstown, asking the court to permanently enjoin directors of Sheet and Tube from consummating the merger.

Yesterday's suit was filed in the name of Myron C. Wick Jr., and International Shares corporation, one of the Cyrus S. Eaton companies. It said the Sheet and Tube directors had failed to inform stockholders of their alleged lack of knowledge of Bethlehem's financial condition, and called this alleged failure a "fraud against the stockholders."

Eaton, prominent Cleveland financier, who is the largest stockholder in Sheet and Tube, has made a bitter fight against the merger. He claims the merger would make a combination of forces damaging to the entire industry and that Bethlehem's offer of one and one-third shares of stock in exchange for one share of Sheet and Tube is unfair to the latter group of stockholders.

Cites Guaranty Trust.

Wertz' letter to the trade commission sets forth the opinion that the merger would violate sections seven and eight of the Clayton anti-trust act. The letter said:

"I gathered from the newspapers and from other sources which I believe to be reliable, the following information:

"The Guaranty Trust company of New York was and is most active in putting the merger over.

"Mr. T. W. Lamont is chairman of the executive committee of the Guaranty Trust company. He is also a director and member of the finance committee of the U. S. Steel corporation.

"The Guaranty Trust company is a Morgan bank. Three of the Morgan partners are on the board of directors of the U. S. Steel corporation. They are J. P. Morgan, T. W. Lamont and J. S. Morgan Jr. Myron C. Taylor, chairman of the finance committee of the U. S. Steel corporation is on the board of directors and one of the largest stockholders of the Morgan bank and the Guaranty Trust.

Next Largest Holders.

"George F. Baker and George F. Baker Jr. are the next largest holders of stock in the Guaranty Trust company, and are also on the finance committee of the United States Steel corporation.

"Another bank that was active in putting the merger over was the Bankers Trust company, which has two of the Morgan & Co. partners on its board of directors—namely: Thomas Cochran and William Ewing.

"Eugene Grace, president of Bethlehem Steel; W. C. Potter, G. M. P. Murphy and H. G. Dalton are directors of the Guaranty Trust company, and of the Bethlehem Steel corporation.

"That with this interlocking group of financial interests one may properly infer that the United States Steel corporation and the Bethlehem company coöperated in bringing about this merger."

INDIANA STONE FIRM REPORTS INCOME GAIN

Lawrence H. Whiting, president of the Indiana Limestone company, told directors of the company at their meeting yesterday that last month was the best March in the history of the firm. Earnings for the first four months of the company's fiscal year, which began Dec. 1, showed a gain of $287,000 over the corresponding period of the previous year.

L. H. WHITING. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

The first quarter exceeded any previous first quarter, Mr. Whiting said. Shipments and unfilled orders are greatly in excess of 1929. The company expects to benefit through the passage by congress of the Kyes-Elliot bill, which means that active work on the government's $535,000,000 building program will begin, according to Mr. Whiting.

Illinois Pipe Line Declares Dividend of $4.50 a Share

Illinois Pipe Line company, without designating the period covered, yesterday declared a dividend of $4.50 a share. The regular rate is supposed to be $10 annually, payable semi-annually, but the company in February declared a $4.50 a share distribution, labeling it an "adjustment dividend."

Stockholders of the Missouri-Kansas Pine Line company of record May 15 have been offered rights to subscribe for one share of class "B" voting trust certificates at $1 each for each share of common stock held. The rights expire June 15.

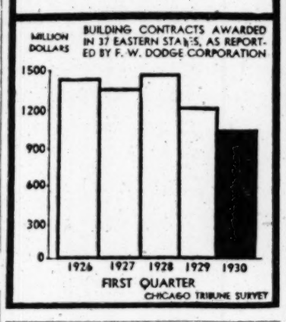
FIRST QUARTER BUILDING WAS LOWEST FOR PERIOD IN FIVE YEARS



SAGGING MOTOR SHARES WEAKEN CHICAGO LIST

Unfavorable News Brings Selling.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Burdened with the millstone of sagging motor shares, stocks on the Chicago board almost without exception felt their way to lower levels yesterday. Declines were moderate in most cases, the automotive group displaying the most uniform weakness.

Disappointing quarterly earnings reports by Borg Warner and Houdaille Hershey and the drastic reduction in Stewart Warner's dividend rate brought liberal selling in the motor group which depressed prices throughout the section.

At the close Borg was down 3⅛, Bendix Aviation was 2⅛ lower and Houdaille "A" and "B" were off ⅝ and 1⅜ points respectively. Allied Motors lost an even point and Auburn fell 9 on light trade.

Borg Warner reported net income for the first quarter of $1,097,811, which is equivalent after preferred dividends to 84 cents a share on the 1,230,686 shares of common stock outstanding. The stock is on a $4.00 annual dividend basis with quarterly distributions of $1. The balance sheet of the company as of March 31 showed total current assets of $19,919,468, which included $3,123,886 in cash and $4,419,455 in call loans and marketable securities. Current liabilities were $5,530,771.

Sales and profits should show a substantial increase in the second quarter and satisfactory results over the first six months of the current year, according to the company statement.

Net income of the Houdaille Hershey corporation in the first quarter, after all charges, including extraordinary expenses incurred in the moving of the firm's Canadian plant, amounted to $80,365, equivalent to 46 cents on the class A shares. This compares with $1.60 on the class B shares in the corresponding quarter of last year.

Comments on Earnings.

Commenting on the earnings, Claire L. Barnes, president, said that they were considerably below expectations, due to postponement of releases caused by drastic curtailment of automobile production during the first two and one-half months. Indications are, he said, that the second quarter will be satisfactory. April has already shown a decided upturn from March. The company's A stock yields 62½ cents quarterly and the B shares pay 50 cents quarterly.

In the remainder of the list the heaviness in the motors was felt. Commonwealth Edison, after touching 339, fell back to 320, to close with a net loss of 8 points. Inland Utilities finished the day off 2 and National Electric Power A surrendered a point.

Grigsby-Grunow was a defiant exception to the general trend of the day. On sales exceeding 54,000 shares the issue ran up to a new year's top at 27⅝, and settled back later to close at 26⅛. Grigsby's running mate, Majestic Household, fluctuated widely and finished the day 2 points under its previous close. Opening at 58, Majestic skidded to 51 before it rallied to close at 57. Sales amounted to about 40,000 shares.

New Heavy Construction Awards Total $111,874,000

Contracts let for an 83 story office building, to be erected on the site of the famous Hippodrome theater in New York at a cost of $30,000,000, raised the last week's total value of heavy construction awards for the country at large to $111,874,000, the second largest week this year, Engineering News-Record reports. This figure compares with $61,685,000 for the preceding week, and with $78,324,000 for the corresponding week last year.

Phillips Petroleum, Gas Corp. Form Subsidiary

The Phillips Petroleum company and the Oklahoma Natural Gas corporation have formed a subsidiary company, to be known as the Philokla Gas company, and in which the Phillips and Oklahoma Natural Gas interests will be equal. The new company will engage in the compressing of natural gas from the Oklahoma City field after the gas has passed through the plants for the extraction of gasoline.

March Life Insurance in State Shows 8% Increase

Life insurance sales in Illinois in March totaled $53,272,000, an eight per cent increase over March, 1929, sales and a gain of $15,542,000 over the February, 1930, figures, according to the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. Total sales for the first quarter reached $218,742,000.

Business Personals

Shepard Morgan, until recently finance director in the reparations office in Berlin, has been elected a director of the Equitable Trust company of New York. Prior to that he was controller deputy for New York City in the Mitchell administration.

Guy W. Vaughan was elected president of the Wright Aeronautical corporation, succeeding C. L. Lawrence.

K. R. Mackinnon of Omaha yesterday was elected president of the middle west division of the National Electric Light association at the annual convention in Des Moines.

Edwin F. Carter of Cleveland has been elected a vice president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company to succeed Edward K. Hall, who is retiring Aug. 1 to become associated with the Amos Tuck Graduate School of Business of Dartmouth college, as lecturer on industrial relations and business management. Mr. Carter is resigning as president of the Ohio Bell Telephone company to take up his new duties.

One of the largest realty deals in several months, involving the erection of a $3,000,000 apartment building designed by Walter W. Alschlager, was closed yesterday when the Starrett Investing corporation of New York purchased 156,000 square feet of property at the north end of the Chicago Beach property, according to an announcement made at the offices of the Manhattan-Dearborn corporation.

The property just purchased was acquired last November by Charles E. Fox from the Beach Hotel company, for an undisclosed consideration. This purchase was financed by the Manhattan-Dearborn corporation for an interest in the profits from the transaction.

Add to Value of Land.

"Following the purchase by Mr. Fox the new Leif Ericson drive was completed and several new building developments have been started, adding to the value of land in this section," said an officer of the Manhattan-Dearborn corporation.

"Recently the Starrett Investing corporation of New York became interested in the property. After brief negotiations a purchase price was agreed upon, and at the same time additional land of the Beach Hotel company was acquired."

Substantial Increase Hinted.

It is stated by parties interested in the deal that the purchase price represents a substantial increase over the price paid by Mr. Fox and the Manhattan-Dearborn corporation less than six months ago.

The Manhattan-Dearborn corporation was organized in September, 1929. This is the first important transaction of the organization in Chicago real estate, although it has made several large purchases of real estate in New York City.

Attorneys active in yesterday's transaction were: Sonnenschein, Berkson, Lautmann & Levinson; Schuyler, Weinfeld & Parker, and H. Ednyfed Williams.

Three Devon Corners Sold.

Herbert Patterson, attorney, has purchased the southeast corner of Devon and Karlov avenues, 110x57, from Goodson & Wilson, for a reported $24,000. This is in the recently opened Devon-Crawford development of Goodson & Wilson. Van A. Kelly was broker.

Two other Devon corners reported sold by the same concern are the southwest intersection of Keystone, 100x57, purchased by William Sayer for $32,500, and the southeast corner of Kostner, 100x57, sold to a syndicate for $27,500. Frank J. Mason and Frank J. Fairchild were brokers for the sellers.

Frank D. O'Neil, president of the Western Foundry company, living at 180 East Delaware place, has bought the eight room residence at 6830 Bennett avenue from Herbert T. Daemicke for an undisclosed consideration, subject to $20,000. M. S. Hogan, of the south shore office of McKey & Peague, represented the buyer and C. J. O'Connor the seller.

RAILROAD EARNINGS

New York, April 25.—(AP)—The aggregate net operating income of the first 12 major railroads to report operations for March was $13,457,000, compared with $19,962,000 in March, 1929. Comparative figures for March and the same 1929 month for eight roads follow:

Railroad—	1930.	1929.
First quarter	2,758,830	5,046,370
Pere Marquette	442,259	1,018,508
First quarter	496,295	2,107,142
Northern Pacific	758,185	1,858,341
First quarter	1,126,856	3,365,679
Pennsylvania	7,136,220	10,877,660
First quarter	19,406,721	27,521,482
New Haven	1,848,344	2,463,066
Wheel. & Lake Erie	278,315	362,973
Reading	914,513	1,281,300
Frisco	1,271,346	1,535,138

Henry A. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, says April earnings will not show as large a decline from the corresponding 1929 period as did the March figures. Grain loadings are holding to last year's level and loadings of petroleum and its products continue to be larger than those of a year ago, he said.

Choose Wood Again to Head ExchangeHere

R. A. WOOD. [Moffett Photo.]

R. Arthur Wood, president of the Chicago Stock exchange for the last three years, was chosen again for that office by the exchange's nominating committee yesterday. His re-election, which is virtually assured, will be formally acted upon June 2, when the ballots will be taken of members of the exchange.

The committee also selected nominees for other offices. Harold E. Foreman was renamed for treasurer. Nominees for the governing committee for a three years period are James E. Bennett, Thaddeus R. Bensen, John J. Bryant Jr., Edward P. Molloy, Harry M. Payne, Charles C. Renshaw, Paul B. Skinner, and Wallace C. Winter. For two year terms the committee named Ford R. Carter, James L. Martin, and Benjamin F. Stein. Talton T. Francis, Latham R. Reed, and Virgil C. Webster were picked for one year terms.

Two of the governing committee nominees are out of town members. They are Mr. Francis of Francis Brothers & Co., St. Louis, and Mr. Reed of E. A. Pierce & Co., New York. Of the fourteen nominees six are not members at the present time. They are Messrs. Bryant, Molloy, Carter, Martin, Stein, and Webster.

The annual dinner of the exchange will be held May 12 at the Stevens hotel. Samuel Insull will be the principal speaker.

END ARGUMENTS ON CONTROL OF ST. PAUL RY. FUNDS

Washington, D. C., April 25.—(AP)—Oral arguments were concluded today in the Supreme court in the attempt of the interstate commerce commission to control the disbursement of the funds raised by stockholders for the reorganization of the St. Paul railroad.

Explaining that there was no objection to a portion of the fund, about $6,000,000, being treated as assets of the new company, the railroad vigorously objected to the commission supervising the use of the remaining $3,500,000, insisting that this money was fully within the control of the managers and those in charge of the reorganization to be used in paying the compensation of the reorganization managers, counsel and expenses incident to reorganization.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, April 25.—Stocks made a brave effort to brace up in the early trading today, but the air was not sufficiently invigorating to sustain a rally. The last hour brought the usual selling, which left prices irregularly lower. The turnover was smaller at 4,725,940 shares.

Traders—meaning the "one gallus" boys and not the pool manipulators behind the scenes and therefore supposed to know what makes the wheels go round—are becoming more and more puzzled over the market's action here of late, particularly over the steady pressure of selling which has made itself felt over such expansive sections of the list during the last week. A strong group of bears is popularly supposed to be aggressively attempting to unsettle the market through concentrated attacks on vulnerable issues of strategic importance, but this could hardly account for the sagging tendencies of the big, ponderously moving leaders.

Not So Rosy.

It is generally believed that the recovery in general busines has not been so rosy as some accounts would indicate, which is no doubt an influence for the time being. Certainly the earnings accounts just now coming to light for the first quarter are proving nothing to cheer about. Still another factor of weight is the renewed weakness in commodities.

A feature of today's dealings was a spectacular break of 12 points or so in Stewart-Warner when the news came out of a reduction in the company's dividend. Its troubles are a reflection of the slowing down in the motor trade. Other motor accessories crumpled sympathetically, although none of them dipped anything like so sharply.

Another stock under extreme pressure was Chicago Pneumatic Tool, which dipped more than 6 points on publication of the company's first quarter earnings statement. It later recovered a point or so of its loss, but was pretty wabbly at the end. Other conspicuously weak members were American Machine Foundry, Electric Auto Lite, Auburn Auto, Atlas Powder, Bullard, and some of the tobacco stocks.

Gas Stocks.

The day's speculation for the rise centered chiefly in the gas stocks, with Consolidated Gas setting the pace. This issue rose to new high levels for the year on an unusually heavy demand. Demand for the shares of this corporation has been on the increase since the disclosure a day or so ago that United Corporation had acquired a large block of them at an average price of $121 a share. The street believes that announcement will be forthcoming shortly of plans for a closer affiliation between that company and the Nigara Hudson Power Corporation.

Public Service of New Jersey, National Power and Light, Electric Power and Light, and a number of other utilities made a good showing in the forenoon, but not all of them were able to keep their balance when the wind changed. Public Service, an exception, had a gain of nearly 1 points opposite its name on the honor roll at the close.

Copper stocks received somewhat better support, although none of them were any great shakes. Anaconda was up about a point at one time and Kennecott, doing even better, maintained a fractional gain through the last hour selling.

Oils Good as Group.

The oils did pretty well as a group. Standard of New York in particular did itself proud, touching 40 for a gain of more than 2 points on unusually active trading. Not all of the gain was maintained, however.

Eastman Kodak was again in the foreground of the picture on continued talk of "something extra" for the stockholders when next the directors meet. Its closing sale reflected a net gain of more than 9 points. Radio was also active and up to the last fairly strong, and Byers and Vanadium once more closed in on the shorts.

Money continued in ample supply at the 4 per cent renewal figure, which has ruled for weeks past, with the rate later dropping to 3½ per cent.

P. S. Ten shares of American Coal were sold at 28. This is the first sale of the 60,000 shares of this corporation listed on the stock exchange to take place for ten years and more.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST.

Indiana—Cloudy, probably showers Sunday and in southwest portion Saturday; not much change in temperature.

Ohio—Increasing cloudiness and not quite so cool Saturday, possibly followed by showers in extreme south portion; Sunday rain.

Wisconsin—Increasing cloudiness Saturday, probably showers Sunday; not much change in temperature.

Lower Michigan—Generally fair Saturday, Sunday cloudy, probably showers in southwest and in extreme south portion; not much change in temperature.

Upper Michigan—Fair Saturday, somewhat warmer in northwest portion; Sunday increasing cloudiness, possibly showers in west portion.

RAINS IN WHEAT BELT INFLUENCE DROP IN PRICES

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Liquidation was on in wheat from the start yesterday due to reports of rains in parts of Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska, the dry areas in the southwest receiving some moisture, and it was still raining late in the afternoon at some points.

May wheat sold down to $1.02, a new low on the crop, with brokers who usually act for the government taking all offerings at that figure. At the inside prices were off 1⅞@2c from the finish of Thursday, with the close within a fraction of the bottom at net losses of 1⅞@1⅞c, May being $1.02¾@1.02¾, and July, $1.04⅜@1.04⅝.

Had it not been for the aggressive buying of May by the government the trade expressed the belief that the decline might have gone further, as locals and commission houses were aggressive sellers and stop loss orders were caught on the way down. The prospects of improvement in the wheat situation in the southwest more than offset everything bullish in the situation. As a result of the day's decline the price of American wheat dropped to the lowest of any in the world, the May here being 1⅜c under Buenos Aires at the last, and sales in the Liverpool parcel market showed No. 2 hard at 1⅛c under Rosario 63 lb grain.

English Buy Hard Winters.

English millers were reported as having been good buyers of hard winters of late, and while Minneapolis messages claimed that the grain had been sold at 5@7c per bu below a replacement price, there was no easing in the basis at the seaboard or gulf, and it was understood that negotiations were under way during the day for the shipment of hard winter from Kansas City to the gulf.

Hedging sales were largely responsible for a break of 2@2¾d in wheat in Liverpool, although some attention was paid to the Indian crop estimate, which made the yield 370,000,000 bu, or 50,000,000 bu in excess of last year's official estimate of only 137,000,000 bu, or 170,000,000 bu less than in 1929, was ignored. Export sales of 500,000 bu were reported in all positions for the day.

Winnipeg wheat market eased with Chicago and closed 1¾c lower, with No. 4 Manitobas quoted at a premium of around 1¼c over No. 2 hard in the Liverpool parcel market. Forecast indicated showers over the greater part of the winter and spring wheat belt, and some rain fell in Canada. Seeding of spring wheat is progressing rapidly, with prospects of a moderate reduction in the acreage in the prairie provinces.

Late reports from the southwest showed ½ inch of rain at Dodge City, Kas., which is in the dry part of that state, with showers fairly general in other sections of Kansas and Oklahoma, and prospects were for good rains overnight.

Corn Prices Decline.

Weakness in wheat led to selling of corn and a decline, with the close 4@6c lower, May being 81c, and July, 82¾@82¾c. Buying against bids was the main factor in checking the decline. Scattered liquidation was in evidence at times. Country offerings were fairly liberal, with purchases estimated at 90,000 bu, while shipping sales were 54,000 bu. Planting is making rapid progress except where delayed by recent rains. Buenos Aires futures closed 1c higher.

Commission houses were fair buyers of oats, while locals sold on the weakness in wheat and on reports of the crop making an excellent start in the central west. Final trades were ⅜@⅝c lower, with May 41⅞c and July 42¼c.

Trade in rye was not large, with a local cash house buying May and selling July, but the market weakened in sympathy with wheat and the close was 1⅜@1¾c lower, May being 61¾c and July 66⅝c. Recent rains in the northwest have improved the outlook in that section.

Receiver Asked for Okla. Cotton Growers' Assn.

Oklahoma City, Okla., April 25.—(AP)—Suit charging misappropriation of more than $2,000,000 by officers of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association, and asking appointment of a receiver to handle the affairs of the association, which was alleged to be insolvent, was filed today in District court here. District Judge Tom G. Chambers appointed R. H. Wilson temporary receiver and ordered business of the association to proceed as usual, in compliance with a request of the petitioners. Speculation on the stock market with assets of the cooperative was the principal allegation in the suit filed by a group of the association's members. Sam L. Morley, manager of the association and one of the defendants, charged that the receivership action was instituted to lend emphasis to a movement against activities of the federal farm board in working through cooperatives.

MAY LARD ON TAP

May lard was offered freely yesterday by liquidators and with weakness in grains and cotton prices receded and closed at losses of 5 to 7½c. Packers were the best buyers of both lard and bellies, the latter weak and 5 to 12½c lower, July leading. Liverpool lard was unchanged to 3d lower. Cash trade was quiet. The advance in hog prices was without influence to the market in products. Exports of lard were 1,042,000 lbs and of bacon 107,400 lbs. Prices follow:

TRADE PROSPECTS

Prospects for the cotton trade and for trade in general are favorable at this time, President John A. Bunnell of the Chicago Board of Trade pointed out yesterday in a telegram to H. G. Safford, president of the American Cotton Shippers' association, which will conclude its annual convention tomorrow at Memphis. "The Chicago Board of Trade desires to sound an optimistic note, and to join the American Cotton Shippers' association in active work for promoting and increasing business in the season ahead," he said.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Bearishness dominated sentiment in wheat trade at the close, despite the fact that prices were down to about the lowest finish of the season, with active buying of "bids" at the last. There was a lack of confidence among holders, and at the same time bears were uneasy, fearing that something might happen over night to start buying and an advance.

In supporting May wheat at $1.02, credited to the stabilization corporation, pit traders estimated that liberal purchases were made, which were construed by some observers as aggregating 1,000,000 bu. Offers on stop orders at the low point were readily absorbed by brokers said to be working for the government.

A Kansas City man, who is considered one of the best judges of crop prospects in Kansas, says he believes that the state will raise about as much wheat as last year, when it produced 138,000,000 bu. Its high mark was 180,000,000 bu and its latest average is 130,000,000 bu. No one can tell exactly how much wheat Kansas will have at this time but a month later it may be possible to make a better forecast.

NOVEMBER BUTTER EASY

Egg futures were erratic on the Chicago Mercantile exchange, prices advancing ⅛c in line with a firm spot, while Aprils dropped ¾c. Sales were 49 cars and receipts 35,389 cases.

The drop of ¼c, or $48 a car, in November butter was attributed to a switch in storage figures, the four markets showing an increase in storage stocks instead of the usual withdrawal. Aprils finished unchanged. Sales were 25 cars and receipts 10,860 tubs.

THE LEADER
VALUES!
You can buy a good used car with the greatest satisfaction if you deal with the STUDEBAKER SALES CO. OF CHICAGO. We carry the largest stock of cars from which to make a selection—our prices are always rock-bottom—and you are protected by the famous Studebaker Used Car Pledge that guarantees 5 days' free driving trial.
CHEVROLET COACH. Considering the excellent running condition and the attractive appearance of this Chev. it's undoubtedly the best Chev. value in Chicago at our price of $125.
REO SEDAN. This is the car noted for its long life. The finish, upholstery, and tires are in dandy condition. $145.
STUDEBAKER ROADSTER. Std. 6 with rumble seat, glass sides, driving light, bumpers, spare tire, etc. It's a sporty car that will give you a world of satisfaction. $125.
BUICK TOURING. Here is the best open car buy in Chicago. Equipped with 4 wh. brakes, excellent winter sides, heater, spare tire, bumpers, etc. Mechanically A1. $145.
NASH COACH. Looks and runs better than many cars selling for twice this price. 4 wh. brakes, snubbers, driving light, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $175.
STUDEBAKER BROUGHAM. Spec. 6, equipped with heater, trunk, spare tire, snubbers, two spotlights, etc. Has nice mohair upholstery. $95.
LOCOMOBILE SEDAN. Junior 8 that's exceptionally clean throughout. The finish is perfect and shiny and the motor is very efficient. 4 whl. brakes, snubbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $195.
WILLS STE. CLAIRE ROADSTER. It's a beauty. Has spirited performance. Rumble seat. Equipped with 4 whl. brakes, spare tire, shutter front, bumpers, etc. $185.
PACKARD PHAETON. Here is an expensive car at an inexpensive price. It's a str. 8 with low-swung lines, luxurious Spanish leather upholstery, and hundreds of dollars' worth of extra equipment. Will not remain long. $685.
MARMON SEDAN. We cannot exaggerate the fine condition of this car because a thorough inspection and demonstration will convince you that it's 100% throughout. It's finished a smart battleship gray. The upholstery is absolutely unworn, and the motor is smooth and powerful. Equipped with two opera seats, two spare tires and many other extras. $345.
BUICK SEDAN. 1928 Mast. 6 that's the last word for sparkling performance and attractive appearance. Equipped with shock absorbers, shutter front, bumpers, spare tire, etc. The finish actually glistens, and a sweet running motor. Will be sold at once for $785.
FORD COACH. Late model A that's in topnotch condition throughout. The finish has not a mar on it, and the tires are in good shape. 4 whl. brakes, wire wheels, Houdaille shock absorbers, bumpers, spare tire, etc. $305.
LIBERAL TERMS. OPEN EVES. SUN.
